Maypole Joins Rebel Democrat Slate

STELLE TO FIGHT HORNER PLAN IN BALLOT HEARING

Hopes to Block Use of Proxy Vote.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 1 [Special].—Insurgent Democratic forces tonight put new ginger into their campaign against the regular state slate. The developments:

1. State Senator George M. Maypole, candidate for lieutenant governor, was added to the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett anti-machine ticket.

2. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, leading the rebels as a candidate for governor, said he will protest formally when the ate primary certifying board meets tomorrow morning if the predicted attempt is made to have a substitute for Gov. Horner sit as a member of the board.

Move Not Unexpected.

Maypole's appearance in alliance with Stelle, Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for United States senator, and State Auditor F. J. Barrett was not unexpected, altho there were some who believed that National Committeeman P. A. Nash would swing him back into line with the regulars. Maypole has been considered the senate spokesman for Nash, his veteran sponsor.

He had filed his petition of candidacy without consulting Nash, and said that in doing so he merely carried out an early declaration that if Stelle did not seek renomination for his present office he, Maypole, would go after the lieutenant governorship.

Maypole is here tonight. He and Stelle both said Maypole will take part in the opening insurgent rally at McLeansboro, Stelle's home town, tomorrow night.

Horner Plans Proxy.

The lieutenant governor's announcement concerning the primary certifying board followed an announcement by Arthur P. O'Brien, Gov. Horner's office secretary, that Alexander Wilson of Cairo will sit as the governor's proxy at the meeting tomorrow morning. Wilson, a former legislator, has the title of administrative assistant to the governor, a post created under the present régime.

Stelle said that, acting as his own attorney, he will present an oral protest backed by a written brief citing adverse Supreme court decisions, if Wilson attempts to take a seat along with Secretary of State E. J. Hughes and Auditor Barrett, who with the governor constitute the board. He contends that there is a judicial character to the functions of the board that bars proxies.

Won't Disclose Second Move.

Beyond that point Stelle would not talk. He refused to discuss what the second move might be regardless of the turn events take. He said many things might happen before morning.

It is believed he had in mind the possibility that Hughes and Barrett, since they constitute a majority of the board, might attempt to transact business by themselves; or that Gov. Horner might be able to attend the meeting.

Stelle refused to say whether he will declare his right to assume the powers of the governor and take his place on the board if Hughes insists that Wilson must be recognized as a member of the board. Soon after Stelle scorned his renomination spot on the machine state slate and announced himself as a candidate for governor, it was reported he was contemplating using this very situation as a test of his rights.

Might Appeal to Court.

If the happenings today are to serve as the groundwork for a test of the constitutional provision on this subject, lawyers who have studied the situation say Stelle's procedure probably would be before the state Supreme court.

In attendance at the board meeting unless they are barred will be a number of lawyers prepared to attack the board's right to place President Roosevelt's name on the ballot. They include Charles E. Mason, state's attorney of Lake county, who filed formal objections, and George S. Lavin, former assistant attorney general, who has filed a petition directed to the board. They will ask to be heard, and others may do so.

Judge Bares Bribery Plot; Orders Probe

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Witnesses in a slot machine hijacking case near Racine, Wis., were questioned at the state's attorney's office last night after Chief Justice John Prystalski dramatically announced in Criminal court that he had been given reliable information of a plot to fix the case. His information, said the judge, was to the effect that a Chicago policeman was to receive $250 to engineer the fix.

The judge's action occurred during a habeas corpus hearing in which Ernest Sansone, a Chicagoan with a long police and federal record, was resisting return on extradition to Racine. He is wanted there as one of five men who hijacked four slot machines containing $250 from the Meadowbrook Country club, near Racine, last Sept. 24.

Charges Are Corroborated.

Some corroboration of the charges concerning the fixing plot, in which $1,000 is supposed to have been placed in escrow with a west side gambler, was obtained by Assistant State's Attorney Morris W. Meyers from Herman Lynch, manager of the Meadowbrook club. Lynch admitted having been solicited three times to aid in the fixing of the state witnesses.

The witnesses are Alex Barry, an employé of the golf club, who was assaulted during the robbery, and Henry Kaiser, the golf professional, who witnessed the hijacking.

"I have received two telephone calls about the case," admitted Lynch last night. "A few days ago a man called from Chicago and said I would get $500 if the two witnesses did not identify Sansone. The other night I got another call from the same man saying the ante was raised to $1,000.

"Today as I was eating breakfast across the street from the court building, a short, stocky man approached me and told me that $1,000 was being raised and that $750 was already collected," continued Lynch. "The man said the money was mine if I could help out on the witnesses in the Sansone case. I told him I was not interested."

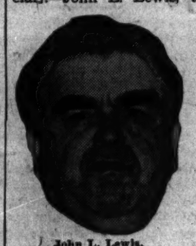
JOHN L. LEWIS IS ON A FLORIDA VACATION IN $38 A DAY HOTEL

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1 [Special].—John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. boss, his wife, and daughter, Kathryn, have been here since Tuesday on a sojourn expected to last about ten days. They are staying at the exclusive Nautilus hotel, where the labor leader pays $38 a day for two rooms.



John L. Lewis.

The Lewises came here from Key West, where they had been resting and fishing. They have indicated they will return to Washington, D. C., when they leave here.

Lewis has declined to see newspapermen or the public, explaining that he does not want to be disturbed while he is vacationing. He has stayed close to his hotel and is seldom seen on the streets. Lewis' appearance here put an end to the mystery concerning his whereabouts caused by refusal of his office in Washington and his home in Alexandria, Va., to tell where he was and what he was doing.

INDIANA'S NEW MARRIAGE LAWS BAFFLE CUPID

The most puzzled man in northern Indiana yesterday was Daniel Cupid. The new Indiana premarital law, which requires a physician's certificate that a couple seeking to marry be free of infectious venereal disease, went into effect. Only one couple applied for a license at Crown Point. They were rejected. Another couple had equally bad luck at Valparaiso, in Porter county.

The Crown Point marriage mill had ground out 32 licenses Tuesday, 41 on Wednesday, and 83 on Thursday. Valparaiso reported about 100 issued for the three days. During January in Crown Point 444 persons were given marriage licenses and 616 got them last month. Valparaiso accommodated 633 in the two months.

County Clerk Walter Mybeck at Crown Point said he expected little business in the next few days. Lewis Keller, Porter county clerk, said he thought there would no longer be any need for the Valparaiso office being open at all hours any day.

Girl Gets Only Jail Sentence in Heintz Case

Miss Christine Conzo, 27 years old, an employé in the city traffic engineer's department, is the only person to receive a jail sentence in the case of Hubert Heintz, the bandit who bleached his hair to avoid detection. She was sentenced yesterday to five days in jail.

Miss Conzo was a minor figure in the case and the charge against her, contempt of court, was comparatively trivial. This is what happened to the principals:

Heintz, son of a Winnetka stockbroker, robbed a loan office on Nov. 4, 1938. When his hair bleaching ruse was exposed, he confessed. Last Nov. 16 he was put on probation for one year.

Acquit Lawyers in Case.

Edward A. Fisher and Francis J. Kennedy, attorneys, were named by Heintz as having advised him to bleach his dark hair and deceive the police. They were accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice. They were acquitted by a Criminal court jury last Oct. 27.

Heintz said Miss Conzo bought the bottle of bleaching lotion he used. Miss Conzo, who is a friend of Kennedy's, refused to testify before the grand jury which subsequently indicted the two lawyers.

At that time Miss Conzo was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for contempt of court. The Appellate court reversed the conviction and the girl was released after three days. The state's attorney's office started new proceedings against her, and yesterday she appeared before Judge Michael L. McKinley.

Court Explains Decision.

"I can understand your loyalty to the attorney," said Judge McKinley, "but I must sentence you to five days in jail, not so much in punishment, but to stop any trend toward stymieing grand jury investigations. To condone refusal of witnesses to answer questions might block 95 per cent of a grand jury's work.

"I am especially sorry for you, since every one else connected with this case has escaped."

Miss Conzo was granted a 30 day stay to allow her attorney, W. W. Smith, time to appeal.

FINNS BURN PORT AS REDS ENTER VIIPURI SUBURBS

Moscow Claims Five Towns Taken in Day

MOSCOW, March 2, Saturday (AP).—The Russian army announced early today that its troops were advancing into the southern outskirts of Viipuri last night and that the Finns were setting fire to the ancient port.

The Leningrad military headquarters communique said that the enveloping offensive against Viipuri continued successfully from two directions and that five Karelian isthmus towns were taken during the day.

Claim 922 Positions Taken.

The localities reported captured by the Russians included Heinjoki, about 14 miles east of Viipuri; Paakkolanokoski, on the Vuoksi river; Tali, a station on the Viipuri-Serdobol railway; Keljasniemi, on the western coast on Viipuri bay, and Mannikkala.

The communique said 922 Finnish defensive fortifications had been captured from Feb. 11 to March 1. In addition, the communique said, the Russians captured 506 guns, 2,732 machine guns, 19 tanks, 20,000 shells, 10,000 rifles, and more than 14,000,000 cartridges.

Eleven Finnish planes were claimed to have been brought down in aerial combat, bringing to 191 the aircraft reported bagged from Feb. 11 to March 1. During this period the Red army said it lost only 21 planes.

Finnish Version of Fighting.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 1 (AP).—The great Russian drive upon Viipuri went into its second month today with the invaders fighting on the outskirts of the city.

The Russians, according to the Finnish army communique today, are smashing up from the southwest over the islands and ice of the Bay of Viipuri and are closing in from the south and east by land. The Finns are fighting vigorously.

Yesterday's drive on the Karelian isthmus, which reached to the extreme eastern end of the Mannerheim line with an assault on Taipale and was accompanied by the biggest Russian aerial onslaught in many days, resulted in especially heavy fighting near Nuoraa, five miles due south of Viipuri, whose buildings now are mere empty shells and whose civilians long ago were hustled away to safer points.

Battle at Several Points.

There was fighting yesterday, too, at Sainio, on the Pero river, Heinjoki, Ristseppa, Malkola, and Ayrapaa. In general, tonight's line, as made known by the Finns, lies along the east-west railway connecting Liimatta on the main railway southeast of Viipuri with Ayrapaa, on the Vuoksi river.

The Finns said the Russian losses were heavy on the western front and that at Taipale, on the shore of Lake Ladoga, more Red soldiers died in new unsuccessful attempts to win this pivotal position.

Finnish airmen, meanwhile, were bombing Russian troop trains bringing reinforcements to the front and also dropping bombs on a certain air base.

Fourteen Planes Shot Down.

At least 14 and probably 19 of several hundred Russian bombing planes over Finland were shot down, the communique said. The Russian raiders killed 14 civilians and wounded 16, the statement said. The communique said the following towns had been bombed: Hamina, Inkeroinen, Kuvola, Turku, Riihimaki, Hameenlinna, Haapamaki, Piekaamaki, Savonlinna, Elisenvaara, Rovaniemi, the Imatra district, and certain other places.

During the three months of war 563 civilians have been killed and 1,289 wounded in raids by Red bombers, Finns stated tonight.

The Russian bombers were active again today, but the results were not immediately known.

New attempts by the Red air force to drop parachute troops behind the Finnish lines ended in disaster for the parachutists, the communique said.

Swedes Bathe Today; Hot Water Shut Off Tomorrow

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 1.—Tomorrow, for most of Sweden's population living in modern houses with hot water systems, will be the big bath day. Because of fuel restrictions, all hot water will be shut off starting Sunday and public baths will be closed.

British Vessel Reports Attack by Submarine

New York, March 1 [Special].—Europe's warring powers carried their struggle for supremacy into American waters again today.

A British freighter radioed that it had been attacked by a submarine 130 miles northeast of Puerto Rico.

A German freighter was burned after its interception by a British cruiser off Aruba in the Dutch West Indies. A Montevideo, Uruguay, newspaper reported that a naval engagement was being fought 200 miles east of Cape Polonio.

The submarine attack on the British ship and the scuttling of the German freighter by its crew were well within the neutrality zone proclaimed by the 21 American republics soon after the war started.

Sequel to Spee Battle.

The reported naval engagement off South America offered the possibility of a sequel to the battle between British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off Uruguay in mid-December.

None of the belligerents has recognized the validity of the 300 mile neutrality zone. Washington reports, however, indicated that protests would be lodged with the governments concerned if it were found officially that the latest incidents did occur within the area.

The British ship which reported the submarine attack was the 4,862 ton Southgate. Its radioed plea for help was picked up by Mackay operators at 5:09 p. m. [Chicago time], but the message gave no details. There was no further word to indicate the outcome of the reported attack.

Southeast of Miami.

The position given by the ship—latitude 19.58 north and longitude 64 west—would place her about 1,100 miles southeast of Miami, Fla., a spot in the trade lanes between Central America and Europe.

American coast guard and naval vessels, upon receipt of the message, went into action immediately. The coast guard cutter Unalga was first to rush toward the scene. Then the navy, with its 10th district base at Puerto Rico, sent three destroyers, the McLeish, the Satterlee, and the Mason, to the rescue.

From San Juan, Puerto Rico, came word that the position given by the Southgate was but a short distance north of the present maneuver area of the American Atlantic squadron.

First of the War.

This was the first definite report of a submarine attack in American waters since the nations of Europe undertook the latest of their wars. It did not come as a surprise to well informed marine quarters in New York, however, where reports had long been heard that at least four German undersea boats were prowling in American waters, with British men o' war on their trail.

The ship which burned was the German freighter Troja, of 2,390 tons. It sailed from Aruba, a port on a Netherlands owned island off the northern coast of Venezuela, last night. It was intercepted by the unnamed British cruiser and set afire by its crew to avoid capture.

The Troja sailed from Aruba at the same time that the German freighter Heidelberg departed. There was no word from the Heidelberg tonight.

Report Naval Engagement.

The newspaper El Dia in Montevideo reported the naval engagement east of Cape Polonio. The report was not confirmed. Government offices in Montevideo insisted they had no information and the British legation there made a similar declaration.

Report of the battle came on the heels of rumors that a large German warship accompanied by two submarines was sighted off the coast of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, this morning, headed south. The submarines were reported flanking the warship about four miles distant on each side.

FRANCE WILL GRANT ARMY LEAVES TO MEN WHO WORK ON FARMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 1.—The ministry of agriculture announced today that 30 day furloughs will be granted to about 50 per cent of the farm workers now serving with the French armed forces. Their release will expedite spring farm work. More soldiers will be granted 30 day furloughs in April if they can prove they are farm workers.

WELLES MEETS HITLER TODAY; PEACE SPURNED

Army Set to Strike Blow, Nazis Say.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, March 1.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles tonight was prepared to deliver a personal message from President Roosevelt to Adolf Hitler tomorrow.

The message will be handed over at the outset of a conference which is expected to be the high spot of the undersecretary of state's mission to find a basis for a sound and lasting peace in Europe.

Welles, at a meeting with the American press in the United States embassy, refused to confirm or deny reports that a letter from Mr. Roosevelt would be given to the Fuehrer.

Tells of Letter to Duce.

However, he moved to offset any speculation that such a letter would contain White House peace proposals by revealing for the first time the nature of a similar letter handed to Premier Mussolini in Rome.

"The letter I gave Il Duce," he said, "was a letter of personal greeting and personal presentation of myself to him."

Welles laid the groundwork for the all important conference with the German chancellor in a two and one-half hour discussion with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop this morning and a shorter conference this evening with Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, secretary of state for foreign affairs. The latter's post is comparable to that of Welles.

"I found the two and a half hour discussion very interesting and I was shown every possible courtesy and consideration," Welles said of his meeting with Von Ribbentrop.

Refuses to Discuss Details.

He declined to discuss the nature of the conference. However, it was reported that Von Ribbentrop told him that peace would be accepted by Germany only after a complete breakdown of British and French influence in central and eastern Europe.

Well informed German circles said the foreign minister spoke extensively of the German living space, which the Nazis declare includes both central and eastern Europe. According to the newly proclaimed German thesis, Germany and soviet Russia are entitled to be the leaders in those regions while smaller nations "must cooperate with them."

The faint possibility that tomorrow's crucial conference between Hitler and Welles might lead to any move toward peace was given a setback while the American emissary was conferring with Von Ribbentrop. A semiofficial news agency said the German army is poised to strike the greatest blow in its history.

Army "Awaits Orders."

"The German army stands in readiness," the news agency said. "It is waiting for orders to deliver a decisive stroke. No one knows when it will be given. However, this stroke, one may feel certain, will shatter all previous conceptions of striking power."

Informed of the announcement, Welles showed no emotion. After a moment of thought he said he was glad that the item had been offered to him as information and not presented to him in the form of a question because he could not comment on it under his instructions not to discuss any phase of his mission.

It was understood that Welles and Von Ribbentrop touched upon relations between the United States and Germany. Following the day's discussions German spokesmen expressed the conviction that America soon would send an ambassador to Berlin.

Urge Close Relations.

"It is important that Germany and America should enjoy close diplomatic relations at the present time," they said. "America withdrew her ambassador from Germany before Germany recalled her ambassador from the United States, and therefore we feel that the first step for reëstablishment of normal diplomatic relations should be made by Washington, D. C."

The United States and Germany have been without ambassadors in their capitals since November, 1938. At that time Hugh R. Wilson was summoned home from Berlin to report on conditions in Germany after an outburst against Jews and Germany promptly called home Dr. Hans Dieckhoff from Washington.

Welles and his mission were ignored except for one sentence in the German press. This merely said the undersecretary of state had arrived for a visit.

A delegation of Slovaks, headed by the minister of propaganda of the state created by Germany's conquest of Czecho-Slovakia, was given a large play in the German papers.

This delegation also had its headquarters in the Adlon hotel, where Welles is staying. The hotel flew the Slovak flag—the old flag of imperial Russia—on the same staff which flew a soviet flag yesterday to honor a visiting Russian delegation.

No American flag was displayed. The omission was explained by Nazi spokesmen as due to the unofficial nature of the Welles expedition.

Welles said he had no definite plans after his conference with Hitler. He expressed the hope that he would be able to see Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, whom Hitler has named as his heir.

Soldier Asks About Mission.

The undersecretary of state, who left Zurich, Switzerland, yesterday, arrived in Berlin this morning. The journey was without incident except at Stuttgart, where a young German soldier came up to ask if he might inquire about the nature of the mission. He was sent off by a harsh command from one of the German civilians who met the party.

As Welles stepped from the train in the German capital he was met by a delegation of German foreign office officials headed by Von Weizsaecker.

When the peace emissary entered his hotel, the shrieks of air raid warning sirens split the air. Welles, a master of diplomatic aplomb, showed no emotion, but walked straight ahead. The sirens died away after a few minutes. Later it was learned that the alarm was a rehersal.

REPORT CANADA RECRUITING U. S. PILOT TRAINERS

Rochester, N. Y., March 1 (AP).—Two men in a Canadian airplane landed at the Rochester airport late yesterday to discuss with flyers here tentative terms under which they would accept civilian pilot training jobs in Canada. The visitors indicated, a newspaper quoted pilots here as saying, that they represented a private flying service which planned to hire instructors by June.

Proposals outlined by the men, it was reported, included guaranteed salaries of $300 a month and room and board and the necessity of any American pilots who were hired taking rigid flight tests and an instructors' course in Canada before teaching beginners to fly.

Evacuation of Chungking Begun; Fear Big Air Raids

CHUNGKING, China, March 1 (AP). Anticipating the springtime lifting of the fog which has protected the Chinese capital from air attacks thruout the winter, a systematic removal of citizens which is expected to halve the present population of 450,000, was begun today. The worst raids experienced by Chungking or any other Chinese city during the war were those of last May and June, when civilian casualties were estimated between three and five thousand.

Neutrality Zone Violations

Diagonal lines cover neutrality zone set up by neutral nations of western hemisphere, within which occurred three events of Europe's war yesterday.

FASCIST MILITIA IS INCORPORATED IN ITALIAN ARMY

ROME, March 1.—The Fascist militia as an independent fighting unit was ended today, when 132 battalions of militiamen were incorporated in the Italian army. Ceremonies were held in many Italian cities.

The militia henceforth will fight as part of, and not in collaboration with, the army. This decision was taken by Premier Mussolini last year. Il Duce said at that time that 142 battalions would become part of the army. Today's announcement mentioned only 132 battalions. What will be done with the 10 remaining ones is not known.

The 132 battalions incorporated today were scattered all over Italy. Each regular army division received two. The militiamen in wartime will be assigned to special tasks in the front lines. They will be used, one newspaper said, mainly as shock troops. The militia will retain its own officers, men and equipment, but will be under the direct control of the army.

War Chief Upholds British Censorship of Mail to U.S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 1.—The British government's censorship of letters from England to the United States was the subject of questions in the house of commons tonight. Oliver Stanley, war minister, told William Green, member of parliament, that letters to private individuals in all neutral countries were liable to censorship. He declined to give statistics as to the number suppressed.

NAZIS CONCENTRATE PONTOON BRIDGES ON LUXEMBURG BORDER

LUXEMBURG, March 1 (AP).—The German command was reported in usually reliable quarters today to have concentrated pontoon bridges near destroyed bridges which formerly spanned the Moselle, Sauer, and Our rivers, forming the boundary of Germany and the grand duchy of Luxemburg.

These sources said the German military in recent weeks has made soundings of these rivers, especially at fordable points. Similar soundings were reported in December.

The French Communiques.

PARIS, March 1 (AP).—Local patrol activity was reported in tonight's French high command communique. The morning communique had said "a quiet night on the whole. Patrol and firing activity in the Lauter region."

Dutch Fire at Planes.

AMSTERDAM, March 1 (AP).—Anti-aircraft batteries in the Amsterdam and Utrecht areas fired at unidentified foreign planes today.

British Show 'Sea Wasps,' Speedy U-Boat Chasers

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—Pictures were released today of the navy's newest defensive device—a fleet of fast motor torpedo boats called "Sea Wasps." Armed with torpedoes, depth charges, and machine guns, they are capable of 50 miles an hour and are intended to guard the coast and English channel routes to France.

BRITAIN, FRANCE NAME BLOCKADE MISSION TO U. S.

Two Experts in Economics to Tackle Problems.

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—The appointment of special British and French economic experts to attempt to smooth out blockade problems with the United States in conferences at Washington was announced today.

Frank Ashton-Gwatkin

Frank Ashton-Gwatkin, adviser to the British ministry of economic warfare, and Prof. Charles Rist, former deputy governor of the Bank of France, have been chosen for this mission.

Assistance to Ambassador.

The announcement said that they would "assist the French and British ambassadors in Washington in examining current problems with the various United States government departments concerned" and would arrive by the liner George Washington "at an early date."

Ashton-Gwatkin, a counselor in the foreign office since 1934, was economic adviser to the British mission in Czecho-Slovakia in 1938. He has attended many international conferences, including the Washington disarmament conference in 1921-'22. He is 50 years of age.

Prof. Rist is a noted economist long prominent in international economic and banking affairs.

No Surprise to Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Officials indicated today that they had expected the announcement made in London that British and French economic experts were coming here to aid in settling blockade questions.

The blockade questions at the moment are being discussed between Secretary Hull and the British ambassador, and also, to a much lesser extent, with the French ambassador.

SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY.

Edward Barth, 29 years old, 1910 Hudson avenue, shot himself accidentally in his right leg with a rifle yesterday while hunting rats in the building at 421 South Clark street where he is employed.

WELLES' DENIAL OF 'PEACE DRIVE' MOLLIFIES PARIS

Promises to Give Envoy All Information.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 1.—The French government today announced that Sumner Welles, American undersecretary of state, is expected to reach Paris March 8, but that it is unable to complete the program for his reception here because the date may be changed.

A foreign office spokesman indicated that both the British and French are mollified about the European tour of President Roosevelt's emissary since the idea that the visit was connected with any "peace offensive" was exploded by Welles' own statements and also by inferences in Mr. Roosevelt's personal message to Pope Pius XII.

Ready to Offer Information.

On the basis of the assurance that Welles is not a disguised dove of peace, the French said they attached the highest importance to his visit. They promised to give him every kind of information when he reaches Paris, if that is what he wants.

At the same time, the French press began to devote more attention to the pending visit. Pertinax, the well known political writer, in an article in L'Ordre expressed the hope that Welles' will not allow his Berlin entertainers to convince him that the French and British do not really mean business in this war.

Suggest Decisive Acts.

Pertinax said he thinks the undersecretary of state ought to be shown several "decisive acts" while he is in Paris and London to convince him of the British and French determination in their war aims.

Welles will be received with much dining and ceremony in Paris. Premier Edouard Daladier who is also the foreign minister will receive the visitor. The emissary's other contacts were not yet disclosed.

Polish circles today asked that Welles pay their government in exile an official visit at Angers, France. They said that the Poles are also belligerents and allies of England and France.

CANADIAN FLYING CLUBS WILL HELP TO TRAIN PILOTS

LONDON, Ont., March 1 (AP).—Private stock companies in Canada will play a major part in a system capable of turning out 3,000 air pilots every two months, Transport Minister C. D. Howe announced last night.

The plan will take in flying clubs and other privately financed units. Students will be instructed on the basis of contracts between the schools and the government, Howe said.

"It is just a matter of adjusting cost terms," the minister said. "There is a slight difference between those of the department of national defense and those of the private corporation, but it is not so far apart that agreement cannot be reached in a short time."

The scheme applies only to preliminary training, the minister said, and is part of the empire air scheme.

19 Drowned When River Breaks Dikes in Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia, March 1 (AP).—At least 19 persons drowned today in a flood which swept over a wide area of Cochabamba, following heavy rains and breaks in dikes along the Roca river. The city of Cochabamba is some 125 miles southeast of here. The government arranged to send relief.

FRANCE IMPOSES PROHIBITION FOR 3 DAYS OF WEEK

Limits Alcoholic Sales to Beer and Wine.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 1.—France is to become practically a prohibitionist country for three days of the week—on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. This was disclosed today by a study of the sweeping economic decrees announced by the government yesterday.

The new laws, which will change the life of every person in France, include a provision that forbids the sale on the three days mentioned of anything alcoholic except light wines and beer. Persons violating the ban will be subject to fines of $45 and the risk of losing their licenses.

Aimed to Reduce Drinking.

Such a measure was not adopted in France during the world war. Government spokesmen said the present decree was designed not only to limit expenditures but also to stop a rising tendency toward alcoholism since the war started.

The rationing of food, which is to be instituted after a census of the population has been taken this month, also is to apply to the menus of restaurants, hotels, cafés, and clubs. Restaurants will be prohibited from serving more than two principal dishes with each meal, and only one of these can be meat. Nobody may be served more than 3.5 ounces of meat. The amount of bread served will be limited and side dishes of butter will be forbidden unless they are a regular part of the main dishes.

Police to Supervise Menus.

Every restaurant keeper must furnish the district police commissioner with a copy of his menu for lunch at 10 a. m. and for dinner at 5 p. m. This control of consumption will not affect present regulations calling for three meatless days a week.

On days when there is no meat prohibition the menu can list only two soups and not more than four different kinds of hors d'ouevres, one egg dish, three kinds of fish, oysters, or snails; two kinds of vegetables, or macaroni, spaghetti, or noodles, and three kinds of meat.

The weekly calendar of prohibitions stacks up this way:

SUNDAY—No prohibitions on the kinds of food or drink, but the amount of certain foods consumed will be limited.

MONDAY—No beef, mutton, or veal.

TUESDAY—No beef, no pastry, candy or ice cream, and no alcoholic drinks except beer and wine.

WEDNESDAY—Still no pastry, candy, or ice cream.

THURSDAY—Another drinkless day.

FRIDAY—No meat and no pastry or sweets.

SATURDAY—Pay day, but no alcohol.

Limit Gasoline Purchases.

Private owners of automobiles, who now are able to get 20 to 30 gallons of gasoline a month, also will be more strictly provisioned under the new regulations.

Any increase of prices will be prohibited without government authorization.

20 MILLION LOAN IS ALL READY FOR USE OF FINLAND

Roosevelt Approval Disclosed.

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today that the Export-Import bank had allocated $20,000,000 for an additional loan to Finland, had made a $15,000,000 loan to Sweden, and also had made a $10,000,000 loan to Norway, which previously had been tentatively announced.

Jones said the trustees of the Export-Import bank acted after President Roosevelt had advised him that he would sign a bill increasing the bank's capitalization by $100,000,000.

Loan's Restrictions.

Proceeds of the loans may be used for purchases in this country only and no part of the money may be used for arms, ammunition, or implements of war as defined in the President's proclamation under the neutrality act.

The money may be used for purchase of commercial aircraft, but Jones said that the bank had received no applications for aircraft buying.

Congressional action on the bill increasing Export-Import bank capitalization was completed only yesterday, when the senate accepted the final form of the measure as passed by the house.

The bill does not contain any provision specifically directing the bank to lend money to Finland or any other country, but Jones had made it clear to congress that if the capital increase was approved the Finns would get $20,000,000—the maximum permitted by the legislation—in addition to $10,000,000 already loaned them.

Presidential Action Soon.

Mr. Roosevelt is due back here tomorrow from his Caribbean cruise and the bill may be signed into law soon after his arrival.

The loan to Sweden is the first the bank has made to that country. The Norwegian loan, altho agreed to some time ago, had not been formally acted upon by the bank's trustees.

Jones has expressed a willingness to extend all financial aid possible to the Scandinavian countries. Denmark has discussed credits with the bank and is expected shortly to get a loan, probably of $10,000,000.

FIND DEATH NOTE BESIDE BODIES OF 3 LOST AVIATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 1. — A note written on Nov. 20, 1939, indicating they expected to die, was found beside the bodies of three men who had been missing since last September on an airplane flight up the barren Labrador coast, according to a radio message relayed to Montreal today.

The message told of the discovery of the bodies of Pilot Joseph Fecteau, J. C. Cote, and J. H. Davidson, a Montreal paper company official. They were found Wednesday by James McNeil at a camp near their grounded plane, half way between Hudson strait and the Strait of Belle Isle. The message, signed by the three men, said:

"This $180 is the money of three dying men and belongs to you. Go to the nearest wireless or telegraph station and report to the government. Come back here at once and guard our bodies and the plane, and keep faithfully the box containing our letters to our families."

600 WAR PLANES BOUGHT IN U. S. BY NORWAY, SWEDEN

Washington, D. C., March 1 [Special].—Air missions of Norway and Sweden are placing immediate orders in the United States for 600 war planes and have indicated to leaders of the aviation industry that their plane purchases may reach 1,000 bombers and pursuits, it was learned today.

Agents of the two Scandinavian countries, stressing the need for speedy deliveries, declared they were anxious to replace as soon as possible the considerable number of German planes in their air forces for which it would be impossible to obtain spare parts.

Lack of replacements and repair equipment for their fighting planes, they said, would be a serious handicap in any "extraordinary circumstances" which might arise should the Russians pound their way thru Finland's Mannerheim line.

RUMANIA SWELLS ARMY BY 200,000 MORE RECRUITS

Masses 1,600,000 Men for Action in Spring.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 1 (AP).—Two hundred thousand citizen soldiers answered Rumania's call to the colors today, raising its army to 1,600,000 men against a possible broadening of the European war in the spring.

A minimum of confusion attended the unprecedented concentration because the new contingents of sheepskin-coated peasants and drably dressed city residents had been informed months beforehand of the frontier points where they should report.

Prepare to Sow Crops.

At the same time, Rumania announced that great numbers of peasants soon may be released from the army for sowing crops. Their places will be taken during one-month leaves by nonagricultural conscripts.

The heaviest concentration of Rumanian strength is along the Russian border, where a fortification program has been hurried. The soviet union has never renounced Russia's historic claim to Bessarabia, which came to Rumania in the world war settlement.

Uneasy Winter for Rumania.

The winter has been an uneasy one for Rumania, marked chiefly by the still unsettled economic tug-of-war that has gone on between the British-French empires and Germany for its favor in natural resources, particularly oil and oil products.

REPORT AMERICANS BEING 'BOOTLEGGED' OVER TO JOIN FINNS

New York, March 1 (AP).—The first detachment of a "bootleg" army that may eventually place thousands of Americans behind the fighting lines of Finland will sail from New York tomorrow as members of the crew of an unnamed freighter, it was reported here today.

The volunteers, according to these reports, will be paid by a group of wealthy Swedes and Danes here. They are sailing as seamen to avoid the state department's restrictions against issuing passports to prospective fighters in foreign wars, the reports add.

Members of the Finnish War Veterans of America say that more than 9,000 American citizens have volunteered.

2,200 Dublin Workers Go on Strike; Tie Up Services

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 1 (AP).—A strike of 2,200 municipal workers tied up most of the city's services today, including fire protection. The workers seek wage increases which would total about $200,000 a year.

TURKS FEAR WAR AS RUSSIAN OIL FLOWS TO NAZIS

Cargoes Reach Rumanian and Bulgarian Ports.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 1.—In the light of Premier Refik Saydam's announcement last night that Turkey desired never to take any sort of action against Russia, semi-official persons here today said there was no danger of Turkey entering a war unless it was attacked or its interests seriously damaged.

Map shows ports to which Russia sends German-bound oil.

They added, however, that when the need is urgent enough the great powers may find ways to create circumstances that the Turks fear will force them into war.

Russian Oil Worries Turks.

War fears were increased today by the news that Russian oil has begun to reach Constanta, Rumania, and the Bulgarian port of Varna for reshipment to Germany. Development of that trade is considered the factor most likely to bring war to Turkey.

Recent reports of the imminent danger of war in the Caucasus are considered fantastic, except in either of two cases:

FIRST—If the Germans receive important amounts of vital supplies from Russia by way of the Black Sea.

SECOND—If the Anglo-French alliance comes to grips with Russia in Finland.

Both cases seem more possible now than a few days ago.

Believe British Seek Blockade.

One shipload of Russian oil reached Varna for transfer to tank cars. It is the first cargo to be sent to Germany that way.

It is believed that the British have asked permission to send warships into the Black sea if necessary to blockade such shipments, but were told it was impossible except under the terms of the Montreux agreement governing the Dardanelles.

[The Montreux agreement of Nov. 9, 1936, provides that the Dardanelles are closed to warships of belligerent nations unless those countries are carrying out instructions from the league of nations or aiding a victim of aggression under a mutual assistance pact concluded within the league structure. Russia is a party to the agreement.]

Any Anglo-French blow at Russia would involve a double movement, it is believed:

FIRST—A blockade in the Black sea.

SECOND—Simultaneous attacks by land and sea on the Russian oil area around Batum.

Weather Hinders Attack.

Present weather conditions, it is believed, make land operations impossible, and anyway, Turkey's consent must be obtained. A Russian attack is considered improbable.

As Saydam remarked last night, however, Turkey is ready and has marked out its safety zone by treaties of alliance known to all. It is prepared for what spring may bring to the Balkans. Credits for use in national defense have been raised to $120,000,000 and a new law for protecting the nation empowers the government to put emergency measures into effect at a moment's notice if needed.

Measures taken within the last few days to insure Turkey's safety include a law for forced labor in coal mines if needed, and another forbidding Turkish ships to ply to foreign ports without permission. It is not true that Turkish shipping has been called home or that scheduled departures have been canceled.

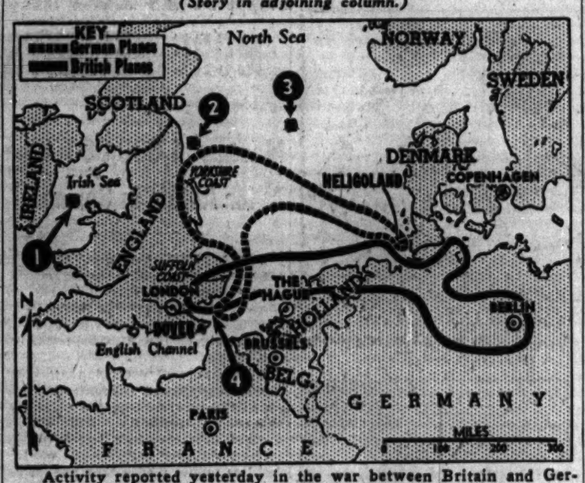
Turks Are Pro-British.

Turkey is enthusiastically pro-British and the press constantly inveighs against the Germans, but that does not mean that Turkey is eager to fight for the cause of the empires.

The contrast between the attitude of the press here and in Rumania and Jugo-Slavia is striking. In place of a cautious insistence upon complete neutrality, which in Rumania goes to the point of requiring a picture of a French statesman or war scene to balance each German picture, the Turkish papers are as scathing in their treatment of Germany as if the nation were a belligerent.

The War in Air and on Sea

(Story in adjoining column.)



Activity reported yesterday in the war between Britain and Germany. 1. Where British liner Pyrrhus was sunk, presumably by submarine. 2. Where Latvian ship Katvaldis reported she was being bombed and machine gunned by German planes. When a Yorkshire lifeboat arrived, the Latvian ship was missing. 3. Where Italian steamer Mirella hit a mine and sank. 4. Where British antiaircraft guns fired on planes. Also shown are claimed routes of British and German reconnaissance flights.

HUNGARIANS FETE HORTHY, NATION'S REGENT 20 YEARS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 1 (AP).—Admiral Nicholas Horthy's 20th anniversary as regent of this kingdom without a king was made a day of national thanksgiving by 11,000,000 Hungarians today.

All classes joined in tributes to the rugged, 71 year old admiral who received high decorations from the governments of Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Jugo-Slavia, and Bulgaria and congratulations from all over the world.

"We are living in serious times," said Horthy, who was elected to guide Hungary in 1920. "There is no place for a celebration now, but I trust in Providence that a day of celebration will come."

CHIANG RECEIVES JUDGE OF U. S. COURT FOR CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, March 1 (AP).—Judge Milton J. Helmick of the United States Court for China, was received today by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. In the evening he was entertained at dinner by Dr. Wang Chung-hui, minister of foreign affairs. Judge Helmick, who is from St. Louis, arrived yesterday with Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson of the United States after a 1,000 mile journey from French Indo-China. He is to leave by air tomorrow for Hongkong, whence he will go by ship to Canton to preside over the first session of the court to be held in a Japanese-occupied city.

MUST SHAPE OWN DESTINY, INDIANS WARN ENGLAND

Demand Full Freedom from Empire.

NEW DELHI, India, March 1 (AP).—Renewing its challenge to Great Britain on the issue of Indian independence, the working committee of the All-India [Gandhi] congress at Patna today adopted a strongly worded resolution declaring that "India cannot exist within the orbit of British imperialism."

Reaffirming the Indian Nationalist group's determination that India must shape her own destiny, the resolution states, "dominion status or any other status within the imperial structure is wholly inapplicable to India."

British Express Concern.

Competent but unofficial British circles in India expressed surprise and concern over the resolution and strengthened the belief that the political crisis again is approaching the boiling point.

While the mid-March plenary session of the congress is expected to approve the resolution, observers point out that Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Nationalist leader, has left himself ample room to conduct further negotiations with Britain or to change the All-India party's political course before any plunge into civil disobedience.

Gandhi recently declared that he could undertake responsibility for declaring civil disobedience only if he were satisfied the Congress would observe discipline and carry out a constructive policy.

Seen as Gandhi Strategy.

Left wing units recently have demonstrated strong dissatisfaction with Gandhi's leadership of the independence movement, which they consider too slow and patient. Informed observers, however, interpret the committee's resolution as the veteran political strategist's way of outmaneuvering the leftists.

The delay will give Gandhi an opportunity to gauge his strength among the people, and also leaves the way open for a possible eleventh hour "peace" arrangement between Gandhi and the British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow.

KILLS SELF IN GARAGE.

Paul Torok, 29 years old, 1234 East 65th street, a candy salesman, yesterday shot and killed himself in his garage in the rear of 6513 Woodlawn avenue. Notes he left indicated he had had business difficulties.

GERMANS BOMB CONVOY; U-BOAT SINKS A LINER

Nazi Air Raiders Strike Over Wide Front.

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—German bombers struck at British and neutral shipping off the British Isles today, in one case attacking a convoy. Britain struck back with new economic pressure and a scouting flight—the most extensive of the war—over Berlin and other German cities.

An authoritative source said no ships being convoyed were hit, adding the action took place too far out for British fighter planes to aid the ships.

The German air raiders attacked from Yorkshire to the Thames.

Other Ship Victims.

Several unattended vessels fell prey to the German war at sea. The 7,418 ton British liner Pyrrhus was reported sunk off the west coast by enemy action—presumably by a submarine. Eight men were lost.

The 3,206 ton Latvian ship Katvaldis, which radioed that she was being bombed and machine gunned by two German planes, had vanished when a Yorkshire lifeboat arrived at the position reported. The 5,340 ton Italian steamer Mirella hit a mine and went down in the North sea two minutes later.

The Norwegian ship Brott, 1,583 tons, damaged by German bombs last night, limped into an east coast port.

The royal air force, whose scout planes slipped over the battle lines into Germany again last night for the sixth time in seven days to plot communications, bridges, and factories on general headquarters maps, sent fighters against air raiders. Pursuit planes repelled a German plane which bombed and machine gunned the fishing boat Courage.

Chase German Plane.

At sunset fleet Hurricane and Spitfire planes again rose to the skies to chase an enemy plane which appeared briefly over the Thames estuary. Antiaircraft guns opened fire.

Sources close to the ministry of economic warfare announced that midnight was zero hour for the start of a blockade on German coal shipments to Italy. Reliable shipping sources here said there were 16 Italian colliers now loading German coal in Rotterdam. All must sail by midnight to escape contraband control and confiscation.

Two French Ships Lost.

PARIS, March 1 (AP).—The loss of two French cargo boats by German submarine and mine action was reported today.

The freighters, both sunk in mid-February, were the 3,754 ton P. L. M. 15, torpedoed with 15 crewmen lost, and the 5,391 ton P. L. M. 25, which struck a mine and lost four men.

German Air Force Celebrates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 1.—Repeated attacks on shipping along the British coast marked the "Day of the German Air Force"—the fifth anniversary of the day when Germany revealed to the world that it secretly had built a strong air force. The Germans said that in today's raids "a number of vessels of large tonnage were sunk, several set on fire, and a convoy scattered."

THINK NEW DEAL IS PLAYING BALL? ASK REP. CHURCH

He Calls It Pitcher Trying to Be Whole Team.

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Representative Ralph E. Church, in the opening speech of his campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois, tonight accused the New Deal of following a policy of defeatism and despair.

Church's address was made from Washington over an Illinois hookup of two Chicago and 16 downstate stations. Almost every major city in the state had an outlet.

"Whatever may be said for its social ventures," the Evanston, Ill., congressman declared, "the New Deal has based its entire economic policy on the assumption that America has grown up, that it isn't going to grow any more.

Urges Vigorous Americanism.

"That is a policy of defeatism and despair. It can have no place in the vigorous Americanism in which you and I fervently believe."

He told listeners that because of his duties in Washington he would campaign in his home state only on week-ends when congress was not in session. He planned, however, a series of radio talks from the capital each Wednesday night thru April 3 and on Friday, April 5, and Monday, April 8.

"As regards the professed objective of the New Deal," Church said, "I have no quarrel, provided that objective is, as stated by the President on June 16, 1935: 'To try to increase the security and happiness of a larger number of people in all occupations of life and in all parts of the country; to give honest business a chance to go ahead, make a reasonable profit, and to give every one a chance to earn a living.'

Professed; That's All.

"But, unfortunately, that is only the professed objective of those now at the head of the nation. For if that is its goal, certainly the New Deal is taking a roundabout way to reach it. There is every indication that the claimed objective is farther and farther away."

Church asserted a revitalized America could not arise from government control, and added:

"Under the present leadership, the federal government controls not only the general conditions of our economic life thru currency manipulation, price manipulation, and credit manipulation, but also the very manner in which business and agriculture shall be carried on.

His Baseball Analogy.

"It is much like a baseball team. Formerly the federal government was like the pitcher, the most important of all the players, but it remained the pitcher.

"Today, under the New Deal, the federal government not only wants to be the pitcher—it wants to be the first baseman, second baseman, third baseman, shortstop, and catcher, as well as all three outfielders. And do all the batting besides."

Church's Republican opponent is Wayland Brooks.

GREEN ASSAILS BIPARTISANSHIP IN OTTAWA TALK

Ottawa, Ill., March 1 [Special].—"Our first battle against the Democratic machine in Illinois this year will be staged in our own primary on April 9, when the Republicans will be called upon to nominate free and independent candidates or permit bipartisan leaders to resume control of our party," Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, told a campaign audience tonight.

"I am a candidate for governor because many people asked me to finish the fight that we started in Chicago a year ago. A bipartisan alliance beat us, and the same machine that operated then is against me now because they want to name the next governor of Illinois," Green said. "The people have had their eyes opened, however, as the county judge opens ballot box after ballot box in that city.

"It is time that the political mess in Illinois be cleaned up. I'm calling on the hundreds of thousands of Republicans downstate to join with the 638,000 who supported me in Chicago a year ago to wipe out machine government."

OPEN OUTLYING REGISTRATION OFFICES TODAY

Neighborhood registration offices will be opened at noon today in 142 city fire stations and in those suburbs under jurisdiction of the board of election commissioners. New voters and those who have changed their addresses are the only ones who need appear.

The offices will be open daily except Sunday from noon to 9 p. m. thru March 11. Voters may register also in the election board offices in the city hall daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Bids were received yesterday for printing the official and specimen ballots for the April 9 primary. Five hundred ballots of each party will be printed for each of the 3,848 precincts.

Mrs. Helen E. Smith, 39 years old, a secretary, testified yesterday that she never knew when her husband, Olen, would pop out at her from behind a portiere or slip up behind her with a hoarse cry of "The game is up, villain!"

The reason, Mrs. Smith explained, was that Smith was an avid reader of detective tales and liked to reenact the plots with his wife as the chief suspect.

"Did he wear the regulation Sherlock Holmes cap and carry a magnifying glass?" asked her attorney, Harry X. Cole. Mrs. Smith said no, he went into his act without props.

Mrs. Smith's objections to being under surveillance led to spats which provided a basis for her charges of cruelty. Judge Joseph Sabath granted Mrs. Smith a divorce after hearing testimony of her daughter, Marjorie, 21. Mrs. Smith lives at 3125 Warren boulevard, and Smith, a mechanic, at 616 North Trumbull avenue.

NEWSPAPER GUILD IS FINED $5,000 ON CONTEMPT COUNT

The American Newspaper guild and the Chicago Newspaper guild, local 71, were held in contempt of court and ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $9,176 yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe. The court upheld a report of Master in Chancery Benjamin E. Cohen finding the guild local and its national organization violated an injunction limiting picketing of Hearst newspapers and their advertisers. The national and local bodies were fined $2,500 each and must pay jointly the $4,176 cost of the hearings before Cohen. The guild attorney, Arthur J. Goldberg, announced he would file an appeal. The guild is an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

CANDIDATES FIND G. O. P. GAINING IN DOWNSTATE TOUR

Brooks and Lyons Speak at Rally in Sterling.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sterling, Ill., March 1.—Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination as United States senator, and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the nomination as governor in the April 9 primaries, ended the second week of their downstate campaign with a rally at the Coliseum here tonight. They will continue to campaign downstate until March 15 and then enter the Chicago arena.

Both these candidates are convinced as a result of their present tour that by hard work from now on Illinois may be made Republican in November. They have been thru the state many times in the last seven years and find now a distinct change in the public temper toward the New Deal. The people are ready for a change, these candidates think.

Lyons Meets Factory Workers.

This change of sentiment was particularly noticeable to Lyons this morning, when he appeared at 6:45 o'clock at the gates of the big harvester and plow factories of Moline. The workmen were streaming in by the thousand and one of Lyon's aids called out to them to shake hands with "the working man's governor." Lyons pumped hands and exchanged friendly greetings with the men. In 1936, he said, they would not have paid much attention to a Republican.

Brooks and Lyons spoke today at Cambridge and Kewanee as well as here. Brooks turned aside at noon at Kewanee to visit the cemetery where his father and mother are buried and where there is a monument to his elder brother, Russell, who was killed in the war and buried overseas.

Brooks Wars on Entanglements.

Brooks hammered away in his fight to solidify sentiment against any involvement in the European war. "This is no quarrel of ours," he said. "We must heed the warnings of our forefathers. Stay out of European entanglements. I will never vote to send American sons, husbands, or sweethearts to fight in a foreign war."

Lyons talked about jobs and taxes. "Pay rolls are the backbone of American community and family life," he said. "When pay rolls disappear dictators arise. The Republican party program is to adjust tax legislation so that existing business will be encouraged to expand and so that new enterprise will start operation.

"Every one but the New Dealers seem to be aware that it is more important to the people of the United States to increase the number of people on private pay rolls than it is to keep padding the public pay rolls and getting more people on relief."

FRAUD CHARGED TO HORNER AIDS IN SLUSH ACTION

File New Bill Today in 2% Fund Fight.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—Fraud and conspiracy to commit fraud are charged against Horner appointees in a supplemental complaint prepared this afternoon by Arthur M. Fitzgerald, attorney for a state employé. Fitzgerald said the pleading will be filed in the Circuit court here tomorrow in an injunction and accounting suit attaching campaign funds raised by assessing state employés 2 per cent of their salaries.

The supplemental bill, naming the same defendants as in the original bill brought last week, extends to the Illinoisans charges initially leveled at the Illinois Iroquois league. The Illinoisans succeeded the Illinois Iroquois league as the collecting agency.

Temporary Injunction Given.

Judge L. E. Stone this week granted a temporary injunction, on the original bill, to hold intact the funds of the Iroquois league pending final disposition of the suit. If the contentions of the supplemental bill are sustained, the injunction and the accounting will also apply to the Illinoisans. The complainant, State Policeman Sylvester Steskal, is seeking recovery of $168 he paid under the 2 per cent plan.

The supplemental bill sets up that the defendants, eight Horner leaders, in June, 1938, organized the Illinoisans to convert to their own use funds of the Iroquois league. Dissolution papers for the Iroquois league were filed with the secretary of state on Oct. 11, 1939.

Dissolution Called Void.

The new complaint alleges that this purported dissolution is void since no accounting was made in accordance with laws governing nonprofit corporations.

Attorney Fitzgerald also tomorrow will issue notices upon the defendants to appear next Saturday for taking dispositions. The lawyer said that should they fail to appear, he can ask for contempt citations. The depositions will be a preliminary inquiry into financial affairs of the slush fund, prior to a court audit.

The defendants are Samuel L. Nudelman, state director of finance; Homer Mat Adams, Nudelman's assistant and "harmony" candidate for state treasurer; F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and buildings; John T. Casey, Gov. Horner's traveling secretary and state superintendent of machinery; John J. Donoghue, state superintendent of printing; William J. Walsh, director of the state budget and Horner's patronage boss; James V. Cornwall, examiner for the state commerce commission; Harold J. Taylor, attorney for the commerce commission, and James McSherry, director of the department of mines and minerals.

Holderness, N. H., March 1 (AP).—While their frantic parents were held at bay by flames, three babies burned to death today in their small two room house. They were Roy Paul, 3 years old, Myron, 18 months, and Betty Anne, 7 months, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Paul.

ROOSEVELT'S SON ASKED DIVORCE IN 1938, SAYS WIFE

Tells in Court Testimony of Her Refusal Then.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt, seeking a divorce from James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt, testified today that he asked her in May, 1938, for a divorce and later deserted her upon her refusal.

"In May, 1938, in Washington, D. C., did you have a conversation with your husband?" her attorney asked in the brief testimony today after which the case was postponed until Monday.

"Yes, he asked me for a divorce at that time," she replied.

Q.—Was that the first you knew that he desired a divorce? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I refused to give him a divorce.

Q.—And were your relations strained after that? A.—Yes.

Tells of Following Him.

Mrs. Roosevelt testified next that her husband left the east and came to California in October, 1938.

Q.—Did he ask you to accompany him? A.—No.

She added that she followed Roosevelt out here in November, 1938.

Q.—What happened then? A.—He said he wanted a divorce and asked me to leave California.

Q.—Did you leave? A.—Yes as I thought it was best for the children.

"Did he ever ask you to return?" interposed Judge Thomas C. Gould.

"No," Mrs. Roosevelt replied.

Settlement Out of Court.

Terms of a property settlement made out of court give Mrs. Roosevelt sole custody of their two children, Sara Delano, 7 years old, and Kate, 4. It provides that Roosevelt will pay $167.50 a month for each until they are 12, then $250 a month.

It also gives the children 2 per cent of their father's income above $50,000 in 1940-'43, inclusive, and 5 per cent in 1944 and thereafter.

Provision was made for payments of $1,500 to Mrs. Roosevelt Jan. 7 and Feb. 7 and $65,000 today. At the end of five years, if she is alive and unmarried, she will receive $50,000 cash or $5,000 a year for life. Roosevelt agreed to take out a $25,000 insurance policy for each child. The settlement remains to be approved officially by Judge Gould.

The case was postponed until Monday at 11 a. m. to hear testimony of Henry K. Cushing, Mrs. Roosevelt's brother, who is ill.

One Dead and 3 Missing After $800,000 Fire Loss

Aberdeen, Wash., March 1 (AP).—Fire destroyed the Aberdeen Plywood company plant today, with a loss estimated at $800,000. The body of an unidentified man was found in the ruins and three other workmen were listed tentatively as missing. A heavy rain helped firemen prevent spread of the flames to other buildings.

ROOSEVELT ENDS CRUISE; SPEEDS BACK TO CAPITAL

Allots $130,000 Flood Aid to California.

Aboard President's Special Train Enroute to Washington, D. C., from Pensacola, Fla., March 1 [Special].—President Roosevelt tonight headed back to the nation's capital after a 15 day midwinter vacation cruise during which he inspected the defenses of the Panama canal and traveled as far as Cocos island, 600 miles southwest of the canal.

Shortly after boarding his special train the President signed an authorization alloting $130,000 of WPA funds to be used in providing work relief for persons suffering from the northern California floods.

Views Carry Little Weight.

After his Panama inspection trip Mr. Roosevelt transmitted a recommendation to Congress that for long range purposes the canal defenses should be doubled, covering precautions in central America and part of South America. But Mr. Roosevelt's views carried little weight with congress. On the same day that he made his recommendations, the house appropriations committee rejected his request for funds to start a spare set of locks for the canal, estimated to cost 277 million dollars.

The President disembarked from the United States destroyer Lang at 4:05, Chicago time, at the naval air training station at Pensacola, Fla., today after being fogbound for more than seven hours just a mile and a half off the naval station. A pea-soup fog hung over Pensacola bay since early today and delayed the President's arrival. While anchored offshore Mr. Roosevelt was transferred from the cruiser Tuscaloosa, in which he had made his southern jaunt to the Lang.

Trip Veiled in Mystery.

The destroyers Lang and Jouett convoyed the President on his cruise, which had been shrouded in mystery as to destination and points of call.

After greeting the commandant of the naval station and Pensacola civic officials the President speeded to the special train waiting in Pensacola.

Because of his late arrival Mr. Roosevelt postponed a press conference scheduled for today until tomorrow. The special train will arrive in Washington late tomorrow.

LYONS' STRAW BALLOT POLL PUTS HIM AHEAD OF GREEN IN PRIMARY

Richard J. Lyons is leading Dwight H. Green by a substantial majority for the Republican nomination for governor in returns from a straw poll, Lyons' headquarters announced yesterday.

A total of 6,972 ballots were gathered, according to James E. Hill, joint downstate manager for Lyons and his teammate, Wayland Brooks, candidate for the senatorial nomination. The votes were gathered in 12 downstate cities and 13 important Chicago street intersections. Hill said the polltakers had tried to obtain straws from in all walks of life.

The returns downstate give Lyons 2,297 votes to 1,764 for Green. The Chicago poll showed 1,654 for Lyons and 1,257 for Green.

Green had a slight lead in Freeport and Rockford, but Lyons was ahead in Kankakee, Champaign, Mattoon, Vandalia, Springfield, East St. Louis, Peoria, Galesburg, Moline, and Joliet.

FIRE IN POULTRY MARKET KILLS 3; 4 ARE INJURED

Three men were killed and four were burned critically last night when they were trapped in a freight elevator while trying to escape from a fire in a two story poultry market at 936-38 Fulton street. All except one of the injured were colored.

The seven were picking chickens in the west section of the basement. Albert Feldstein, 34 years old, one of the owners, and another workman, Sam Valentine, 42, colored 251 North Washtenaw avenue, were in another section of the basement when they saw smoke rolling down the front stairway. They shouted a warning and fled up the stairs to safety.

The seven others ran to the rear elevator. Firemen found it later at the second floor level, all of the men unconscious or dead. The dead were Roosevelt Wright, 32, of 1829 Maypole avenue; Lavon Moore, 30, of 1849 Maypole avenue; and John Adams, 37, address unknown. The injured were William Jameson, 30, of 1901 Maypole avenue; Arthur Adams Sr., 48, of 1847 Maypole avenue; and his son, Arthur Jr., 24, all colored; and Michael Holtz, 40, of 839 North Damen avenue.

PREDICT ERASURE OF INCOME QUERY IN CENSUS PRYING

Senators Aroused Over Display of Burocracy.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Members of the senate commerce subcommittee investigating census snooping predicted at the close of public hearings today that action will be taken to force the elimination of questions relating to income from the 1940 census schedule.

Some of the senators present expressed amazement at the implications of claims made by the burocratic planners regarding their powers to inquire into the private affairs of citizens.

Statistician Argues Case.

Dr. Leon E. Truesdell, chief statistician of the population division of the bureau of the census, contended, for example, that the bureau has authority to inquire into all factors relating to population. He took the position that questions relating to income are authorized by the law directing a census of population, because the growth of population is affected by economic conditions.

"Under that theory," said Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.], "you might as well ask questions about the use of contraceptives or about relations between husbands and wives."

"Or about the use of patent medicines," commented Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the full committee on commerce. "I'm sorry, but I can't go along with you on that."

Queries Called Illegal.

Senator Tobey is the author of the pending resolution to express the sense of the senate that two questions relating to income which the census bureau has included in the population schedule should be eliminated. He contends that they are not authorized by the census act of 1929 and would violate the constitutional right of the people to privacy in their personal affairs.

Senator Bailey clearly indicated at the close of today's session that he agrees with Senator Tobey's position. He said there is a very serious question in his mind that congress has ever given the census bureau power to ask the questions relating to income. He told Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce, that "unless you satisfy me on that question I shall have to act accordingly." Noble said he would submit a brief on the legal question.

Political Reactions Feared.

Other Democratic senators have indicated concern about the political implications of the census snooping issue raised by Senator Tobey and the national furor it has created.

At first they professed to be amused by Senator Tobey's protests and expressed confidence the people would laugh at him. Now some of them admit privately that the issue may be worth a million or more votes to the Republicans. The more realistic senate observors attribute the public reaction more to distrust of a burocratic, meddling government than to any inherent evil in the character of the questions.

Such an appraisal of the situation was intimated at today's session by Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.], who previously had defended the position of the census bureau.

Finds People Sincere.

"It seems to me," said Senator Maloney, "that if we continue, the protests will pile up. That it's unavoidable, and the people are sincere about it. There isn't a question in my mind but that this thing will become a national political problem if it isn't worked out.

"This thing has been started and you can't go back, because the public mind will be closed. The census will be discredited, and it may go beyond the power of any one to restore public confidence in it even if Senator Tobey dropped his fight tomorrow."

Senator Tobey said he had just begun to fight. Altho his resolution is confined to a legal attack on the two income questions, his position is that many of the others ought to be discredited as a matter of policy.

Among these are questions relating to the past and present marital status of individuals; their personal financial status, including mortgage indebtedness and the frequency of payments thereon; their bathing and toilet facilities, and whether they are used privately or shared with others.

GOV. LONG'S CALL TO LEGISLATORS GOES UNHEEDED

But He Insists They Convene Today.

Baton Rouge, La., March 1 (AP).—Gov. Earl K. Long failed in an effort today to summon his once obedient legislature into special session in what was believed to have been a maneuver against Governor-Designate Sam H. Jones.

Informally, but urgently summoned by telegraph, the legislators were expected to meet this afternoon, but they did not appear. Later, Gov. Long issued a formal proclamation calling the lawmakers for a six day session beginning at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

The formal call listed among its purposes repeal of laws enabling the attorney general on order of the governor to supersede local prosecutors in specific cases.

Used Against Prosecutors.

An opponent of the Long machine, Eugene Stanley, will be attorney general after the perfunctory general election. The law increasing the power of the attorney general dates to the régime of Huey P. Long, who used it against local prosecutors including Stanley himself.

An hour after the time Long had fixed for today's special session, not a member had taken his seat in either house, and the governor told the press the session would be postponed until tomorrow because of a lack of quorum.

Wearing a somewhat puzzled expression, Long surveyed the empty senate floor, then explained that legislators whom he had wired four hours earlier apparently had received his summons too late. Galleries were packed when the session was abandoned.

Jones Consults Advisers.

Jones, who last week defeated Long for governor, was closeted with his advisers in a downtown hotel pending clarification of Long's maneuvers just prior to the meeting tomorrow morning of the state Democratic central committee.

Indications were that this committee might rescind its action of Sunday in nominating Long as secretary of state. Jones announced he would not accept Long into his official family.

The legislature summoned by the governor is a lameduck body, inasmuch as many of the administration stalwarts were defeated at the polls.

What Governor Declares.

Long said the session was necessary to obtain money for social security purposes, hot school lunches, and for an unfinished tuberculosis hospital. Observers believed the real purpose of the session was in some way to oust E. A. Conway Jr. as interim secretary of state succeeding his deceased father, and to get the post for Long.

This would put Long in a position to determine the names which would appear as Democratic party nominees on the April general election ballots, if he chose.

The "old" state central committee, meeting tomorrow, has indicated it might recall its previous action and name James A. Gremillion for the post. Gremillion was Jones' candidate in the first primary.

Immediately after the "old" state central committee meets, the newly elected state central committee will go into session, with indications it would name Gremillion if the old body failed to do so.

MRS. BAIN TAKES OFFICE AS HEAD OF ILLINOIS NYA

Mrs. Mary Anderson Bain, former district director of the National Youth administration at Rockford, took office yesterday as state director of the NYA in a ceremony in the office of United States Attorney William J. Campbell. Mrs. Bain succeeds Campbell as NYA director.

H. M. M'CULLEN NAMED COUNTY WPA MANAGER

Charles E. Miner, state Works Projects administrator, announced the appointment yesterday of H. M. McCullen as manager of WPA district No. 3, which comprises Chicago and Cook county. McCullen, a former real estate operator and formerly associate WPA director for Chicago, has served on Miners' staff recently as coördinator of housing.

Deputy State Administrator L. H. Jacobson, who has been acting as district manager since the death of H. K. Seltzer, will return to Miner's staff.

COURT DEMANDS A SHOWDOWN IN GEORGIA BATTLE

Governor Must Answer to Contempt Charges.

Atlanta, Ga., March 1 (AP).—A federal judge today called for a showdown on Gov. E. D. Rivers' troop supported defiance of a court order that W. L. Miller, ousted highway chairman, should be returned to his post.

Gov. Rivers.

Judge Bascom S. Deaver of the Middle Georgia district issued a contempt citation against the governor and Adjt. Gen. John Stoddard, and ordered them to appear at a hearing March 8 in Columbus, Ga.

The citation was a civil action based on a petition of Miller's counsel. The Columbus hearing is to determine if the executive and his military aid will be judged in contempt and become subject to fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Miller was removed three months ago, bodily ejected by the governor's aids when he denied the executive's authority to order him out. Rivers said Miller was using his post to boost himself as a gubernatorial candidate.

Miller denied this. He obtained state court injunctions against Rivers. The governor proclaimed martial law in the highway department. Repeatedly frustrated in attempt to pass the guards, Miller turned to the federal court.

Defiance Is Explained.

Judge Deaver sustained Miller's contention that he had been unconstitutionally deprived of property [his $5,400 annual salary] and issued an injunction ordering the governor to obey the state writs.

Rivers had been summoned to the injunction hearing but didn't appear. Instead, he sent a lengthy letter explaining he believed the federal court had no jurisdiction because Miller had not yet exhausted state judicial procedures open to him.

The state court injunctions were appealed to the Supreme court. That bench was hearing arguments on them at the time Judge Deaver issued his injunction. No decision has been handed down.

Byrd Reports Discovery of Antarctic Peninsula

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd reported today the discovery on a plane flight Tuesday of a large peninsula and two islands on the uncharted South Pacific coast of Antarctica, about 1,200 miles from South America's Cape Horn. Byrd reported by radio that mountain ranges were sighted to the westward only 40 minutes after the plane headed south after the takeoff.

Dense black smoke from thousands of smoldering automobile tires cast a malodorous pall yesterday over the neighborhood of 2439 Indiana avenue, site of the American Tire and Supply company. A mysterious fire caused damage estimated at $50,000 to the plant, where the chief business was retreading ties.

The plant had been closed for two months, but the owner, Harold Trilling, said 15,000 old tires and 2,000 finished tires were stored there. He said $10,000 of his loss was covered by insurance. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan ordered an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze, which started on the second floor of the rambling two story building.

Firemen responding to a 4-11 alarm found hundreds of workers, out for their lunch hour, gathered at the scene. Automobile and street car traffic was rerouted.

KIDNAP CHARGE FOR HIT-RUNNER STUDIED BY STATE

Driver Tells of Leaving Girl, 5, to Die.

Walter H. Bradshaw, the hit and run automobile driver who hid his dying victim, a 5 year old girl, in his garage, may face trial on a charge of kidnaping as well as manslaughter. Abduction of an infant—the kidnaping charge—carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. The sentence for manslaughter is 1 to 14 years.

The possibility of prosecuting Bradshaw on the more serious charge was announced late yesterday by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, after Bradshaw had been held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury.

"To convict for manslaughter," said Crowley, "the state must prove negligence thru reckless driving. Violation of the kidnaping statute means the carrying away of an infant, without the consent of the parents, with intent to conceal or imprison, or one who conceals or imprisons."

Body Hidden in Garage.

Bradshaw's victim was Beverly Joan Frank. She was struck down almost in front of her home at 1402 George street, about 2:30 p. m. Thursday. Her body was found under a tarpaulin in the garage at the rear of Bradshaw's home, 2644 North Oakley avenue, shortly before 5 p. m.

Beverly Joan's death occurred in the garage, according to the verdict at the inquest, which was conducted by Col. A. L. Brodie, the new coroner, and Deputy James Whalen.

According to Crowley and Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Freedman, who officiated at the inquest, the time of the child's death will be important in the prosecution of Bradshaw.

In either case, the evidence brought out, she was alive when Bradshaw concealed her in the garage.

Bradshaw, 45 years old, owner of a grocery and meat market at 4204 Lincoln avenue, told a witness of the accident, Fred Brendell, 2855 Southport avenue, that he would take the child to a hospital. Instead he drove her to his garage.

Disagree on Death Hour.

The distance from the scene of the accident to the garage is two miles. It can be traveled in about eight minutes by an automobile moving 25 miles an hour.

Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, who performed an autopsy, said the child probably died within 15 minutes or a half hour after the accident. Dr. John Cunningham, who was summoned by police from the Martha Washington hospital, examined the child's body about 5:30 p. m. His opinion then was that she had been dead about an hour.

Bradshaw had been traced to his meat store by the license number of his car, which was obtained by Brendell. For half an hour he denied that his automobile struck the child. Then he admitted it, and led policemen to the garage.

In a calm unemotional voice, Bradshaw yesterday told the coroner's jury his reason for hiding the dying girl. He was hurrying back to the store with a load of fresh fish. He said he didn't want them to spoil.

Tells of Inhuman Delay.

"I wanted to get the fish to the store before taking the girl to the hospital," he said, "because if the police came they would detain me. After I took the fish to the store I thought I would take her back to the hospital."

Bradshaw said he first planned to take her to the Ravenswood hospital, which is two miles from his store. But on the ride, he said, he believed she had died, "because her eyes were glassy." Then he changed his mind.

"I was so nervous when I returned to the store that I couldn't even cut meat," he said. "I was going to make arrangements with my wife when she came back at 6 o'clock, and then go to the police."

Bradshaw was asked by Col. Brodie why he washed the front seat cover of his automobile, which was discovered by the police. The butcher said he wanted to prevent the blood spots from staining the velour covering.

O, GIRLS! HERE'S HOW TO SHINE IN VOTE CAMPAIGN

Here, girls, are a few of the rules the Woman's National Republican club of Chicago hopes you will remember if, with election time near, you expect to be out campaigning for Republican candidates.

Be contained. Be poised. Feet that stumble and tongues that trip leave an unfavorable impression upon your audience.

Gestures, if any, should be decisive, but graceful. The platform is no place for hand wringing or abrupt or awkward movements.

Don't substitute fervor for accuracy.

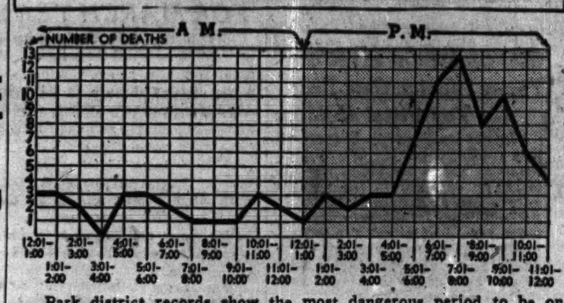
Don't introduce a speaker until you know he is there to respond; nonappearance at the climactic moment of the person you are introducing will leave you feeling slightly ridiculous.

These and other suggestions for public speaking were made yesterday at a training school session conducted by the club at 2800 Sheridan road. A dramatic skit, written by Mrs. Mary Berkemeier Quinn, and enacted by Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Bertha Baur, and Mrs. Irene Reidy, constituted the teaching method.

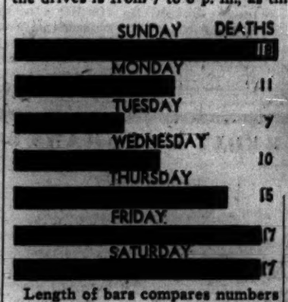
Forgets Key; Falls to Death Trying to Climb Into Home

Fred Duchovich, 45 years old, was accidentally killed last night—the victim, police said, of a forgotten key. He fell from a side window of his third floor apartment at 1633 South Homan avenue while trying to climb to the window from the rear porch. According to police, he had locked himself out and was trying to get into his home thru the window when he fell.

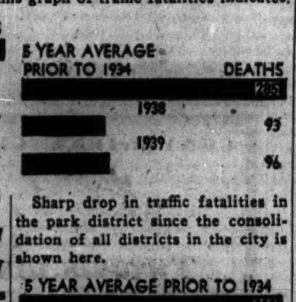
Accident Record for Parks



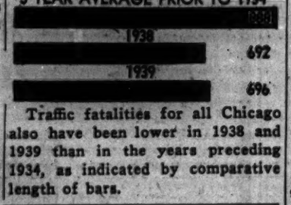
Park district records show the most dangerous period to be on the drives is from 7 to 8 p. m., as this graph of traffic fatalities indicates.



Length of bars compares numbers of accident deaths in park districts on each day of the week.



Sharp drop in traffic fatalities in the park district since the consolidation of all districts in the city is shown here.



Traffic fatalities for all Chicago also have been lower in 1938 and 1939 than in the years preceding 1934, as indicated by comparative length of bars.

PARK SYSTEM'S TRAFFIC DEATHS UNDER 100 AGAIN

Averaged 285 Yearly Before Consolidation.

For the five years prior to the consolidation of Chicago's many park systems in 1934 an average of 285 persons were killed yearly in automobile accidents in park drives.

Yesterday Otto K. Jelinek, park traffic engineer, reported that safety measures adopted by the park board have reduced the annual death toll to less than 100 for the second consecutive year.

During 1939 there were 10,381 accidents, in which 96 persons, including 76 pedestrians, were killed, on the 220 miles of park drives and boulevards. In 1938 there were an estimated 9,000 accidents and 93 deaths.

Deadliest Hours Listed.

Jelinek's report, the first comprehensive yearly study of park automobile accidents, shows that most fatalities occur during the evening hours from 5 p. m. to 11 p. m. During that period 45 persons were killed in 3,802 accidents during 1939.

From 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. was the most dangerous hour with 585 accidents and 13 deaths. The next most dangerous hour was from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. with 649 accidents and 11 deaths. Only from 3 a. m. to 4 a. m. were no deaths recorded.

Some of the causes of accidents included:

	Total.	Fatal.
Caused by pedestrian	650	27
Attention of driver diverted	510	10
Reckless driving	67	3
Driving too fast	880	3
Driver fell asleep	103	1
Wrong side of the road	147	1
Driver confused	169	0
Forced into object by another car	204	1
Skidding on icy or wet drives	397	1
Driver had been drinking	540	5
Defect in car	100	0
Slowing down or stopping	308	0
Following car ahead too closely	349	0

Women drivers were more careful than men, according to Jelinek's report. Women drivers were involved five times in fatal accidents, 371 times in personal injury accidents, and 1,274 times in property damage accidents. Men drivers were involved 97 times in fatal accidents, 4,103 times in personal injury cases, and 11,969 times in property damage accidents.

Sunday Most Dangerous Day.

Sunday was the most dangerous day of the week to drive, with a total of 1,773 accidents, in which 18 persons were killed. Friday and Saturday showed 17 deaths each, with 1,511 and 1,748 accidents respectively. Tuesday was the safest day, with 1,154 accidents and 7 deaths.

Park drives where most of the accidents occurred were:

Drive.	Total accidents.	Fatal accidents
South Parkway	755	12
Michigan avenue	1,262	8
Washington boulevard	511	7
Douglas boulevard	68	6
Garfield boulevard	554	5
Jackson boulevard	672	6
Lake Shore drive	845	4

Jelinek said some of the traffic safety measures adopted under the program of Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, include the construction of pedestrian underpasses and overpasses, grade separations, automatic traffic signal regulations, standardization of traffic signs and center dividing fins in the park drives.

BUDD LIFE SAVING MEDALS AWARDED TWO 'L' EMPLOYES

The Britton I. Budd life saving medal was awarded yesterday to Fred N. Burtis Jr., a guard, and Joseph Rizzi, a laborer, employed by the Chicago Rapid Transit lines. The presentation was made by Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee for the elevated system, in his office.

Burtis was given the medal for saving the life of a neighbor's infant daughter, who had almost suffocated. Burtis applied artificial respiration until the fire department and a physician arrived.

Rizzi was working in a track gang with Angelo Salitore when Salitore fell across the third rail. Rizzi aided in pulling him off and revived him. Salitore later recovered in a hospital.

Drives Auto Into Truck and Gets 20 Days in Jail

Riley Williams, colored, of 2243 Hubbard street, was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail by Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court yesterday for reckless driving. His state driver's license was ordered impounded for one year. Williams was arrested Thursday after he had driven into a truck at Hubbard street and Damen avenue.

DOCTOR SEIZED IN CHASE AFTER CAR KILLS MAN

Find Another Physician, 2 Nurses in Auto.

Dr. William M. O'Connell, 28 years old, a resident physician at Holy Cross hospital, was charged with manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident by the Chicago Lawn police after his car struck and killed a man in Marquette road near Kedzie avenue early yesterday.

Dr. W. M. O'Connell.

The victim, Thomas Simpson, 77 years old, 3046 Marquette road, was struck as he was crossing the street. According to Policemen Thomas Brennon, Edward Lyons, and Clifford Dreyer of Chicago Lawn, who witnessed the accident, Dr. O'Connell failed to stop. The policemen, cruising in a squad car, captured him at 67th and Mozart streets.

In the car were Dr. Peter Guokas, 29, also a member of the hospital staff, and two nurses, Miss Estella Dargis, and her sister, Josephine, both of 2425 Marquette road.

Dr. O'Connell was released on bond last night pending arraignment in the Felony court on Tuesday. An inquest into the death of Simpson was continued to March 5. He was a retired repairman for the Chicago Surface Lines.

William Morrisey, 60 years old, 6441 Eggleston avenue, a bartender, died in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries suffered on Jan. 26 when he was struck at Halsted street and Marquette road by a car driven by Edward Heffley, 8548 South 77th avenue, Oak Lawn.

Valentine Lewandowski, 80 years old, 2040 West 18th place, died in Evangelical hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by an automobile at 18th street and Hoyne avenue Feb. 11. Jerry Yangl, 1331 Wesley avenue, Berwyn, was the driver.

Malcolm Patterson, 30 years old, of Braidwood, Ill., an undertaker, was killed when his car and one driven by Ernest Benson of Joliet collided shortly after midnight on route 66 about 12 miles south of Joliet. Benson, a salesman, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 162 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 122 were killed in Chicago, where 3,479 were injured in the same period.

COMPLETE THIRD SUBWAY SECTION; PUBLIC TO SEE IT

Completion of a third section of the subway tunnel, running 3,448 feet under Milwaukee avenue between Hubbard street and Chicago avenue, was announced yesterday by Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways. The two previous sections finished were in Milwaukee avenue from Chicago avenue to Division street and in State street from Illinois street to Bellevue place.

Harrington said that yesterday's tunneling brought the total subway completed to 39,000 feet of single tube, or about 48 per cent of the project, which is to have 15.5 miles of single tube. The finished portions are lined with concrete, but contain no track or mechanical equipment.

The subway will be open to the public for inspection for the first time on March 30. On that day a trip thru the finished section under Milwaukee avenue will be conducted under auspices of the Western Society of Engineers.

LEG INJURY PROVES FATAL.

Mrs. Edwarda Berg, 67 years old, 1016 North Dearborn street, a resident of Chicago for 46 years, died yesterday in the Henrotin hospital of complications resulting from a leg fracture.

WIFE AWARDED $5,000 FOR INJURIES INCURRED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Mrs. Margaret Ronan.

Mrs. Margaret Ronan, 37 years old, was awarded $5,000 yesterday in her $25,000 personal injury suit against Mrs. Alva Craver Simpson, 7021 Indiana avenue. The jury finding, returned before Judge Caspar Platt of Danville, sitting in Circuit court, also included a malice count under which Mrs. Simpson must pay the judgment or face a six month jail sentence. Mrs. Ronan testified she lost all her teeth and suffered a fractured jaw and leg on April 3, 1938, in a collision involving Mrs. Simpson's car and one driven by Mrs. Ronan's husband, Patrick. Attorney Sol R. Friedman charged Mrs. Simpson was negligent in turning in front of the Ronan car in Western avenue near 78th street. Mrs. Ronan lives at 1505 Garfield boulevard.

CO-OPERATING WITH CUPID

By CALEB

A FAR cry south from these parts lies the lovelily-named land of Colombia. Among the teachers in its schools was a young lady whose home is in Wilmette; and on a day during the pre-Christmas rush her mother appeared in our jewelry section with an interesting request.

Pedagogy, it seems, had been brightened with romance in the life of her teacher-daughter in Colombia; and had culminated in the latter's engagement to a young man from Holland. It was his wish to formalize the occasion with a diamond engagement ring to be delivered direct from Marshall Field's, in his fiancee's home city.

Could we supply our Wilmette customer with a photograph of a tray of diamond rings, accompanied by suitable descriptions, so that this eager wish could be fulfilled? We could, and did—and the material was promptly despatched.

Weeks elapsed, and no further word reached us. Then in late January our customer reappeared, bearing an air-mail letter postmarked Colombia, expressing her prospective son-in-law's delight with the opportunity to secure a ring from Field's, and indicating the particular design of his preference.

Unhappily, the jeweled symbol of his choice had been sold! Time pressed—could a duplicate be produced? Again, our own craftsmen and the ringmaker co-operated; hope became fact. Not stopping there, our Foreign and Traffic office secured a listing of Colombia-bound boats; and after the ring had been approved, to further ensure its prompt delivery, a member of our New York staff conveyed Cupid's merchandise to the officer in charge of the ship which would carry it.

As this is written, we haven't heard the sequel; but we are very certain as to what it will be. "Love laughs at locksmiths," runs the old proverb; but sometimes, as here, circumstance also does its best to defeat the ends of affection. Thanks to interested, alert and resourceful service-givers in our ranks even circumstance, however, could not stay the happy ending to our South American patron's heart problem. And that knowledge yields us as much satisfaction as anyone could imagine.

U. S. JURY TO PUSH GAMBLER PROBE; JOHNSON INDICTED

Boss Accused of Failing to Pay $1,389,919.

The incomes of several more alleged managers of gambling houses of the Johnson-Skidmore string are under investigation, it was reported yesterday as the federal grand jury returned an indictment alleging that William R. Johnson, biggest and most mysterious of the city's gambling house operators, held out $1,389,919 cue on his income in 1936, 1937, and 1938. The government estimated that Johnson also owes penalties and interest of $842,577, making a total of $2,232,496 he should pay.

[A table showing Johnson's reported income and tax payments and the amounts the district attorney's staff claims are correct will be found in an adjoining column.]

Johnson's indictment contained three counts, one for each year. The maximum punishment on conviction would be five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count. Bonds were fixed at $50,000 and a bench warrant for Johnson's arrest was issued by Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Three Others Under Indictment.

Three other alleged associates of Johnson already have been indicted in the federal court. They are William R. Skidmore, the industry's principal fixer; Andrew J. Creighton, whom the government alleges was a manager of a south side gambling house owned by Johnson, and Attorney William Goldstein.

Other alleged managers of Skidmore-Johnson gambling houses are among those whom additional indictments are expected to hit. Thru them the government plans to trace heavy payments to both Skidmore and Johnson.

Skidmore has been charged with evading $822,484, including penalties, on his income, and Creighton with evading $132,460. Goldstein was indicted on a charge of perjury.

Income Put at $2,448,048.

Johnson, whose estimated income for the three years was $2,448,048, took a $1,000 exemption as a bachelor and claimed several small deductions. One was for a $25 contribution. He also claimed reductions for tax bills running between $50 and $75 in the three years.

It was his heavy spending, however, that gave the government a clew to his huge income. One important lead was obtained by the government when years ago he purchased the Sunny Acres stock farm near Glen Ellyn, once the property of Arthur Cutten, the grain dealer, and paid $125,000 cash for it. He purchased blooded horses and Hereford and Brown Swiss cattle to stock the place. At the same time he maintained a large apartment in the 5500 block of East End avenue.

Investigators said large unreported sums had been traced to Johnson and Skidmore thru the smaller gambling house operators. For this reason they also face indictments, the government assuming that much of the income on which they failed to report can be shown to have been handed over to the chiefs, who keep no books.

Protége of Skidmore.

Johnson, who is about 47 years old, is tall [6 feet 2 inches] and has sandy hair. He was reared near Madison street and Austin avenue. In his youth he worked on an express truck. Next he became an expert dice shooter. Years ago, hanging around the city hall, he met Skidmore, who made him a protége.

Thereafter he prospered. He is said to own the Bon-Air Country club at Wheeling, the D. & D. club at Division and Dearborn streets, the 3500 club in Niles Center, and the Villa Moderne on Skokie road. He has extensive real estate holdings in Chicago and in Niles Center.

He disappeared when the federal investigation started, and agents have been unable to find him. The Glen Ellyn manor house is occupied by his mother. On the place is a separate office where he was wont to receive his underlings.

Jury Probe to Continue.

Johnson and Skidmore have had extensive dealings, and it is reported they do business without ever putting any of their contracts on paper.

District Attorney William J. Campbell said yesterday the grand jury would continue its work. One of the witnesses heard yesterday was Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago avenue police. It was the third time he had been called.

Creighton surrendered on his indictment yesterday and supplied bond of $10,000.

Robbers Seized in Indiana Admit 3 Chicago Holdups

Two men, arrested after a chase Thursday night by an East Chicago-Indiana Harbor, Ind., detective squad, yesterday confessed three Chicago holdups and an Indiana strong arm robbery. They are Carl Paulson, 24 years old, 13056 Baltimore avenue, and Joseph McGeorge, 25, of Imperial, Pa. They were caught by Detectives Walter Raczkowski, Fate Duke, and Charles Hickman after the police had fired at their car when they refused to halt. Capt. Martin Zarkovitch, chief of the twin cities detective bureau, said he thought the pair were implicated in numerous Indiana holdups.

Tax Figures in Johnson Case

The tabulation below shows the differences in income tax figures reported by William R. Johnson, indicted Chicago gambling boss, and government estimates of his real income and tax liabilities:

Estimated total income	$605,826	$880,866	$961,356	$2,448,048
TAXES.
Income tax paid	$ 71,915	$128,400	$ 34,531	$ 234,846

Total tax claim	$385,316	$588,634	$650,815	$1,624,765

The government also estimates that Johnson owes an additional $842,577 in penalties and interest.

STRANGER PICKET WRIT IS ASKED IN GARMENT STRIKE

The Seymour-Avery Manufacturing company, 230 South Franklin street, filed suit yesterday in the Superior court for an injunction to restrain local 76 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union from picketing and interfering with employés.

Sixty-eight company employés joined in the suit which alleges there is no employer-employé dispute and that the pickets are "strangers." Picketing started Wednesday after officials of the union charged that the company refused to negotiate renewal of a three year contract which had expired.

Company officials said their employés had withdrawn from the union and asked that no contract be signed. Miss Esther Goucher, 40 years old, a 200 pound organizer for the union, was arrested yesterday after two women employés were slugged during a clash between workers and union sympathizers. It was her second arrest there in three days.

TNT Cache to Be Removed So the Neighbors Can Sleep

Elkton, Md., March 1 (AP).—State's Attorney Edward D. E. Rollins has ordered the Triton Chemical company of Penns Grove, N. J., to remove 300,000 pounds of TNT buried at nearby Elk Mills pending reprocessing for government use. Dozens of protests rolled in on Rollins, he said, most of them from farmers who said they couldn't sleep nights as they speculated on the possibility of lightning striking the high explosive.

JURY GETS CASE OF BOY TRIED ON MURDER CHARGE

Champaign, Ill., March 1 [Special].—The case of John Adams, 16, charged with the murder of Hezekiah Mank, Urbana grocer, went to the jury today. The jurors retired at 1:35 p. m., after the morning had been spent in arguments. At 11:15 no verdict had been reached and the jury was locked up until 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Prosecutor C. H. Swick did not ask the death penalty. Judge F. B. Leonard instructed the jury that if it found Adams guilty, it was to fix the penalty at death, life imprisonment or a term of not less than 14 years.

In the closing arguments the state contended the boy wilfully and intentionally shot the 32 year old Urbana grocer to get his money. The boy testified it was an accident.

Adams and Mank had gone hunting and their failure to return to their homes that night resulted in a search being instituted. The frozen body of Mank was found two days later buried under a pile of corn stalks on a farm near Royal.

WOMEN VICTIMS OF ATTACKER TO VIEW SUSPECT

A dozen women, annoyed or beaten by a youth on west side streets during the last six months are expected to view Elmer Meinkin, 15 years old, at the Shakespeare avenue station today.

Young Meinkin, who lives at 2427 North Talman avenue, and is a pupil at Lane Technical High school, was seized by police Thursday night at Logan boulevard and Francisco avenue, on the complaint of several neighborhodd women, who charged him with indecent conduct.

GLASSER MAKES 3 HOUR DEFENSE OF PROSECUTIONS

Denies Government Fix Charges One by One.

Daniel D. Glasser, former assistant United States attorney, who is on trial in the federal District court with four other defendants on charges of fixing government cases against bootleggers, defended himself and his record as a prosecutor for three hours yesterday under a severe cross-examination. He denied flatly that he ever had a hand in the fixing of any case.

The other defendants are Norton I. Kretske, also a former government prosecutor; Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, an alcohol peddler. The case is being heard by a jury before Judge Patrick Stone of Madison, Wis.

Queried on All Cases.

Assistant Prosecutor Francis J. McGreal, who cross-examined Glasser, insisted upon having the witness give his version of what happened in each of the numerous cases the government has charged were fixed.

Glasser in every instance declared that he presented to the jurors all the evidence furnished by alcohol agents. Where the grand jury refused to act or where there were acquittals, it was the fault of the evidence, and not his fault, the former prosecutor said.

The courtroom was thronged for Glasser's appearance on the stand. His testimony was regarded by legal observers as a possible turning point in the long trial. His lawyer, William Scott Stewart, led him carefully from point to point in the direct examination.

Excerpts from Testimony.

Following are excerpts from the testimony:

"In one case a defense attorney tried to secure a promise from me as to what course of action I would pursue in my prosecution; I refused to bind the arm of the government."

"Frank Hodorowicz [one of the convicted bootleggers who testified for the government] asked me shortly before his case came to trial if I liked money. I said: 'Of course, I like money; everybody does.' He said: 'I'll spend $10,000 to get out of this case.' I said: 'You could spend $10,000,000 and it wouldn't do you any good.'"

"When the government began investigating me, Campbell [William J. Campbell, the district attorney] said it might be necessary for me to appear before the grand jury. I said: 'I'll shout my record from the house tops.' He said: 'I want to congratulate you on your record. No one has said that you did anything wrong. I hope my record is as good as yours.'"

Young Woman Gets Year for Toy Pistol Holdups

Miss Sandra Auerbach, 20 years old, who confessed getting $47 in three robberies with a toy pistol, was sentenced to one year in the women's reformatory at Dwight yesterday by Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court. She was seized Feb. 9 by a grocer whom she had attempted to rob. She told police she had been a bookkeeper, but turned to robbery after she ran up debts.

STATE OFFICIALS TO PLAN BRANCH OF BOYS' SCHOOL

Springfield, Ill., March 1 (AP).—A committee of five state officials was named today to complete construction plans for the new branch of the St. Charles School for Boys to be built by the state near Sheridan in La Salle county.

The committee, appointed at a meeting of the Gunning legislative commission this afternoon, included Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], Welfare Director A. L. Bowen, C. Herrick Hammond, state architect; William Harmon, managing officer of St. Charles, and Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, state criminologist.

The legislature appropriated $250,000 for the new security type building to house incorrigible youths.

LOSS OF RECORDS HAMPERS PROBE OF RELIEF BLAZE

Office Papers Destroyed; Witnesses Quizzed.

Investigators conducting an inquiry into the fire which swept the interior of the Bremen township relief office last Sunday found themselves in a new quandary yesterday.

Many of the relief records were destroyed in the fire. And investigators found that the one man who might help them was not available.

He is James Bennette, 42 years old, who has been a bookkeeper in the relief office for three years. He lives with his wife and three daughters at 149th street and Cicero avenue. Bennette was questioned Monday and has not been at home since. Mrs. Bennette said her husband had gone away for a few days for a rest, but would not say where he went.

Nervous Wreck, Says Wife.

"He's a nervous wreck," she told Otto Ziebell, township relief administrator.

There are 560 families on relief in the township and expenditures range from $15,000 to $18,000 a month. There was no indication that Bennette, who had nothing to do with relief allotments, had been threatened by dissatisfied reliefers.

Rumors of a possible shortage in the relief funds, which provided township gossips with material yesterday, could not be proved or disproved. Gerald A. Griffen, investigator for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said he could determine nothing from the debris of the fire.

Firebug Blamed for Blaze.

IERC auditors appeared at the relief office, 147th and Cleveland avenue, a week ago yesterday for the first audit of the books in 18 months. Bennette was ill at that time and they made little progress. Then the fire occurred early Sunday.

"It definitely was the work of a firebug," Frank E. Doherty, chief state deputy fire marshal, said yesterday. "Rags soaked in kerosene or gasoline were used to assure a swift, hot blaze."

Twenty-six witnesses have been questioned by Griffen, Doherty, and Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the county highway police at Homewood. Witnesses included relief employes, relief clients, and firemen.

SEEK ROBBERS WHO LEFT VICTIM TO DIE IN ALLEY

Woodlawn police were searching yesterday for robbers who are believed to have thrown their victim from a car at the entrance to an alley near Woodlawn avenue and Marquette road Wednesday night. He was Russell Smith, 40 years old, 6605 Kimbark avenue. He died in Woodlawn hospital early yesterday. Smith's widow, Stella, told police her husband had $60 when he left home. There was no money in his pockets when the body was found. An inquest into the death was continued yesterday to permit time for further investigation. Smith operated a barber shop at 1055 E. 72d street.

Wedding Planned

[Acme Photo.]

JOSEPHINE RUDOLPH.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Watchmaker Warren K. Billings, former co-prisoner with Tom Mooney, is going to get married—even if he has to go to Reno to do it.

Billings, now 46 years old, has waited for years to wed Miss Josephine Rudolph, with whom he used to play chess by mail while he was in Folsom prison.

Getting out of prison with a commutation of sentence, which did not restore him as a citizen of California, as would a full pardon, has not cleared the way for Cupid.

"Unless my California legal status is restored within a very little while I'm going to Reno and get married anyway," he said.

Mooney was freed 14 months ago after serving more than 20 years of a life sentence after his conviction with Billings of murder for the deaths of 10 persons in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day parade bombing. Billings had prior convictions.

BOARD TO HEAR SECRET PARDON CASE ON MONDAY

The case of Sam Vinci, who was given a secret pardon last July by Gov. Horner and returned to Stateville prison two weeks ago, will be heard by a subcommittee of the parole board next Monday. The subcommittee will determine whether Vinci violated the conditions of his pardon.

Sam Vinci.

Vinci was sentenced to 26 years in prison in 1926 for the murder of a witness at an inquest. He was pardoned on the condition that he go to a sanitarium for a year. He was later seen drinking in the loop. He was returned to prison while the state was investigating charges against his brother, Joseph Vinci, a central figure in the 11th ward vote fraud case.

Parole board committees also will hear parole applications of 332 prisoners in the state's penal institutions, including 158 from Cook county. Among those seeking freedom are:

ARTHUR ELKE, who threatened to kill the arresting policemen when he was seized for robbery in 1930. He was sentenced to a year to life.

PHILIP E. REIMAN, an Evanston policeman for 15 years, who was convicted of committing a robbery.

PROTEST ON CITY PAY RATE STARTS UNION SQUABBLE

Fight Over Representation of Teamsters.

A delegation of city employed drivers, affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, protested yesterday to Mayor Kelly and to Commissioner of Public Works Oscar M. Hewitt against the 1940 budget provisions for drivers.

The protest brought unexpected results. Last night officials of the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' union, an independent organization, whose members also work for the city, announced that they would contest the right of the brotherhood to represent city chauffeurs.

Pay Scale Is Changed.

Under the 1940 budget drivers are to be paid $8 a day. Previously they were paid $192 a month. Now they may be employed "as needed" on the daily basis. The committee yesterday demanded a guarantee of a five and a half day week. Hewitt, it was said, declined to give such a guarantee.

What further action the brotherhood committee will take is not known, but last night at a regular meeting of the rival union charges were made that the brotherhood's protests to the mayor and to Hewitt were a sham. It was asserted that the protests should have been made before the budget was passed and that nothing now can be done by the city.

Authority Is Challenged.

Moreover, the independent union declared that the brotherhood has no authority to speak for the independent's many drivers employed by the city.

A committee was appointed and charged with the task of attempting to meet today with members of the city council labor relations committee, and arranging a showdown on whether the brotherhood or the independent union shall be the bargaining agency for city drivers.

The independent union is a revival of the old Chicago Teamsters' union. Its temporary officers are William Ryan, president; John Donovan, vice president; Samuel Cozzi, recording secretary, and Tim Dwyer, secretary and treasurer.

ASK SHIP SUBSIDY DENIAL TO LABOR LAW'S VIOLATORS

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The Maritime Labor board urged congress today to prolong and expand its mediation work and deny government ship subsidies to employers who engage in practices outlawed by the Wagner act.

The denial of ship subsidies was one of 20 proposals advanced by the board in response to a congressional request for a plan which would provide a permanent labor policy in the maritime field. Some of the important proposals would give the board the power to determine employe representation questions now exercised by the National Labor Relations board, extend to the seagoing personnel of maritime commission ships the right of collective bargaining now denied by the commission on the ground that seamen on such vessels are government employés.

The denial of ship subsidies to Wagner act violators is similar to a plan advanced last year by the C. I. O. leadership to deny any form of government contract or loan to employers held guilty of engaging in unfair labor practices.

Bandits Slug Manager in Apartment Robbery

Leo Gardner, resident manager of the University apartments, 6401 University avenue, was slugged last night when he resisted two masked bandits in his office. The robbers had taken $40 from Gardner's wife, Mary, after forcing her and a resident, Miss Lois Prindle, to lie on the floor. Then they went into Gardner's private office and demanded more money. He struck at one of them, but was felled by a blow on the head with a gun butt.

BANDIT PLEADS GUILTY IN POLICE SLAYING AND GETS A 14 YEAR TERM

Anton Kaufman.

In the midst of his trial for murder in connection with the shooting of a policeman, Anton Kaufman pleaded guilty yesterday and was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary. The sentence was imposed by Judge John F. Bolton in the Criminal court.

Kaufman, 27 years old, and John Frjelich, 18, were arrested following the slaying of Lieut. Gene Iattoni of the Calumet City police during a holdup on Sept. 23. John Fusner of Hammond, Ind., a third bandit, was killed in the gun battle. Frjelich pleaded guilty and testified against Kaufman. He will be sentenced on Monday.

Altho Kaufman participated in the robbery, he was not present at the time of the shooting. Present in court when he offered to plead guilty were his wife, Agnes, and two of his four children, Arlene, 2 years old, and Marie, 10 months.

JUDGE DISCLOSES PLOT TO FIX CASE WITH $1,000 BRIBE

Halts Hearing; Calls for Inquiry.

cine last Oct. 7 for Sansone's arrest charged him with assault with intent to rob. A similar warrant was issued at the same time against another Chicagoan, Amerigo Bertolini, old time west side hoodlum, and a third man whose name was withheld. Sansone fled to Illinois, and he was seized here three weeks ago on a fugitive warrant. The present hearing is, in effect, an appeal from the extradition ordered by Gov. Horner.

Bertolini was shot to death by unknown assassins on Oct. 8, the day after the warrant was issued, near 45 South Albany avenue. A slot machine was found in his car. Racine county (Wis.) authorities later announced the machine's serial number was traced to the Meadowbrook club.

Racine Inquiry Planned.

District Attorney Richard G. Harvey of Racine said last night he will investigate to attempt to learn why Barry and Kaiser refused to identify Sansone positively after telling him they were positive Sansone was one of the robbers.

Judge Prystalski, in announcing his discovery of the alleged bribery plot, first called Barry and Kaiser before him and asked if they could identify Sansone. They gave evasive answers.

The judge stopped the hearing and sent for First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, told of the alleged plot, and asked for an inquiry. He declined to divulge the source of his information.

Barry and Kaiser were quizzed at length, but denied any knowledge of a fix.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Squill for Rats.

March 1, 1940.

THE flockmaster was asking for red squill in powder form this week, which means that several rats which have moved into the sheep barn soon will be dead. Red squill is the safest and most efficient rat poison that can be used on the farm. Altho there is an abundance of food around the sheep barn and in the nearby poultry houses, there are few rats in these buildings because as soon as one is seen, the buildings are given red squill bait treatment.

Last March we saw one rat in the sheep barn and the flockmaster showed us where one or more of them were digging to make runways under one of the poultry houses. At that time the flockmaster believed he was having better luck with the liquid form of squill.

Baits Put in Barn.

Baits were made with it and distributed in the barn and the poultry houses. Several kinds of baits were used, including bread, butter, and lard "sandwiches," small pieces of meat, and other similar foods. This usually tempts the pests to eat the poison. When the rats have access to grain being fed to farm stock, the use of other baits often brings the rats on the run to eat the tidbits.

A single generous distribution of poisoned baits around the sheep barn invariably has finished the rat population. But these farm pests are great travelers. When the rats in one building have been killed, new arrivals may invade the premises a few weeks or months later.

All barns on the farm will be inspected next week for rats. If found, red squill baits will be distributed in each building. The most successful routine calls for the distribution of hundreds of baits the first night in the hope that every rat in the building will get a heavy dose.

Other Animals Not Harmed.

Altho we have distributed hundreds of red squill baits on the farm, there never has been an instance of either a dog or cat eating any of the baits. In tests conducted on many dogs by scientists, it was found that the animals refused ground meat containing even minute amounts of red squill. And dogs forced to eat sausage containing up to 10 per cent of squill powder were not harmed by it.

The farm workers report that a weasel has done a good job of keeping rats out of one of the larger barns on the farm. Both mink and weasels will scare rats out of any building because they are fighters that can handle a half pound rat without difficulty. The weasel has been seen several times running in and out of the underground runways of the rats. It's so slim that it has no trouble following a rat into almost any hideout.

CHICAGO GROUP URGES BILL FOR SUPERHIGHWAYS

Loans Sought to Acquire Rights of Way.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—To finance a system of superhighways in Chicago and its environs, which within the city itself will cost 200 million dollars, a delegation of Chicago officials today urged passage of the Cartwright bill providing for government loans for purchase of rights of way.

Rep. W. Cartwright.

The Chicagoans, who submitted their arguments to the house committee on roads, encountered opposition from several congressmen who argued that Chicago should be able to borrow the funds from the banks instead of getting the funds in Washington and thereby contributing to further unbalancing of the federal budget.

The bill, introduced by Representative Wilburn Cartwright [D., Okla.], chairman of the committee, provides for coöperation of the federal commissioner of public roads with states, municipalities and other public bodies in facilitating the construction of highways, parkways, and appurtenances.

The commissioner is empowered to acquire by purchase, exchange, or condemnation rights of way and contiguous property that will "foster interstate commerce, aid in the national defense, facilitate the use of the mails or promote the general welfare."

Repayment in 40 Years.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is authorized to make loans to the states and local governments for the acquisition of rights of way upon terms reasonably assuring repayment in 40 years. Rights of way would be acquired by the federal government only in pursuance of contracts providing for purchase of the property by states and local governments at prices assuring recovery of the cost with interest in 40 years.

The principal argument in behalf of Chicago was made by Robert Kingery, secretary of the Chicago Regional Planning association.

He described plans for a superhighway system in and about Chicago and the financial difficulties which followed the overthrow by the Illinois Supreme court of the legislature's plan for obtaining money by bonds based on gasoline tax revenues.

Congressman W. M. Whittington [D., Miss.], asked Kingery why the Chicago group was trying to throw the load onto the federal government.

Banks Jammed With Cash.

"So if you have a project up there of widening your streets and providing for your superhighways that is sound and can be repaid in 20, 30, or 40 years, I do not think you would have any trouble securing finances," Whittington said. "Your banks, they tell me, in Chicago are overflowing with money. Why couldn't your paper be sold locally? Why couldn't that be done without further increasing the public debt of this great republic of ours?"

"If you can't pass a law that will provide for revenue to repay the loan that you have in mind how can you make a pledge to the Reconstruction Finance corporation of revenues that will retire these loans?" snapped Whittington. "We can, Mr. Whittington, pass such a law but this law as passed failed to include the referendum feature," Kingery retorted.

"How much is going to be the cost of the plan?" asked Representative J. W. Nott [R., Ore.].

"The units inside the City of Chicago completed are estimated to cost about 200 million dollars, of which less than half is right-of-way cost," replied Kingery.

Why Not Rewrite Law?

"Why not re-write that law and overcome the objection raised by the court to it?" Nott went on.

"Put in the referendum clause and submit it to the people and let them say whether they want to undertake this scheme.

"That wouldn't take very long. You could hold a special election and do that. You could even hold a special session of your legislature. That would not cost anything compared with the 200 million you propose to spend."

Technical testimony was given by G. E. LeLeuw, consulting engineer for the city of Chicago, and Harry Lackner, Cook county engineer.

THREE ROBBED IN LOOP DISTRICT.

Police yesterday were seeking three strong arm bandits who robbed three pedestrians near the loop. From Edward A. Stapel, 114 South Winchester avenue, they took $3; from Fred L. PROWLERS SLUG POLICEMAN IN CHILDREN'S HOME

Policeman Michael Ryan, 59 years old, was slugged early today by one of two prowlers whom he interrupted in the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, 4448 Michigan avenue. Ryan, who is detailed there, went into the kitchen for a drink of water. The kitchen was dark. Suddenly some one struck him down with a club. Ryan made out the figures of two men and fired two shots at them. They escaped thru a window. Ryan, who lives at 8014 Merrill avenue, and is assigned to the Wabash avenue station, was taken to the Chicago hospital for treatment of his head injury.

ORDER U. S. NAVY TO TAKE BACK $25 A TON COAL

HONOLULU, Hawaii, March 1.—Capt. Gerasimos Panas of the Greek freighter Christos Markettos today won his battle with the United States navy over coal which it had sold him for $25 a ton. The coal which wouldn't keep up steam in his ship's gauges in a test run, is going back into the navy bunkers on orders from Washington. The only stinger is that Captain Panas must pay the handling charges, altho officials here had held out previously that he must keep the coal.

The Markettos is awaiting coal from the mainland.

FEDERAL AGENTS SIFT RECORDS OF DOCTOR IN PRISON DOPE INQUIRY

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1 [Special].—Dr. Elmer J. Kalal, chief surgeon of the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton, who was arrested yesterday by federal narcotic agents, was unable to meet $10,000 bond today before a United States commissioner and was returned to the Marion county jail here.

Dr. Elmer J. Kalal.

Federal agents went to the reformatory this morning to learn whether Dr. Kalal obtained drugs he is accused of selling by holding them back and using substitutes when use of the drugs would have been propert treatment; whether he supplied drugs to reformatory prisoners as contraband; and to obtain an estimate of the amount sold by comparing his purchases with those made by his predecessors.

The agents will attempt to trace sales to the underworld. They indicated more arrests may be expected.

CONVICT LEPKE OF EXTORTION; FACES LIFE TERM

New York, March 2, Saturday [Special].—A jury in General Sessions early today found Louis [Lepke] Buchalter, Max Silverman, and the latter's son, Harold, guilty of extorting $50,000 from bakers and flour truckmen.

Lepke, who was found guilty on all 15 counts of the indictment, is expected to be sentenced to life imprisonment under the Baumes habitual criminal law. Silverman was found guilty on all counts, while the jury found his son guilty on but seven of 14 counts against him. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey described Lepke as "racketeer No. 1."

Altho the verdict carries with it a mandatory life sentence the question remains whether this sentence will supersede the 14 year term recently imposed in the federal court on Lepke's conviction in the $10,000,000 international narcotics smuggling conspiracy.

IT SEEMS NOBODY KNOWS ALL THE KNOWN DISEASES

So Scientists Plan to Get Them All Classified.

How many diseases is man heir to?

This question arose yesterday at the National Conference on Medical Nomenclature in the American Medical association building.

Fifty representatives of specialist medical societies, hospitals, the United States army and navy, the United States public health service, the Veterans' administration, the A. M. A., and tabulating machine agencies met to puzzle over the problem of keeping medical terminology free of confusion and duplication.

Number of Diseases in Doubt.

The "Standard Classified Nomenclature of Medicine," published by a similar conference which met in 1935, lists 12,000 disease diagnoses.

The Veterans' administration, on the other hand, has names for 15,000. The United States public health service recognizes only 10,000. But the army and navy, whose diagnosis lists haven't been revised since the world war, name only 1,000 and 2,000 ailments, respectively, it was said.

The problem is complicated by the fact that one disease may have several names. Hyperthyroidism, or toxic goiter, for example, is known also as exophthalmic goiter, Graves' disease, and Basedow's disease.

Hits Use of Persons' Names.

The common practice of naming a disease after one of its discoverers—such as Bright's disease [nephritis]—was condemned by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the A. M. A. journal. He said the word for a disease should be simple and should describe the specific condition accurately.

A resolution passed by the conference called for revision of standard medical terminology every five years. The chairman, Dr. Haven Emerson of New York, was authorized to appoint an editorial advisory board to consult with the A. M. A. on publication of a new medical vocabulary to keep pace with recent advances.

SEARCH FOR MISSING FUR SALESMAN FAILS TO UNCOVER CLEWS

Jacob M. Waldman.

The search for Jacob M. Waldman, 44 years old, 6422 Greenview avenue, sales manager for a fur company, who disappeared a week ago while carrying $500, has failed to yield a clew, police said last night.

Waldman was last seen walking past the Auditorium barber shop, Wabash avenue and Congress street, at 10 a. m. last Saturday. Earlier he had parked his automobile in the garage of the building at 323 South Franklin street, where he had offices. He never returned for the car.

A brother, Albert, told police Waldman was a man of steady habits with no known enemies.

ASKS HIGH COURT RULING ON GRAND JURY SELECTION

The Illinois Supreme court at Springfield was asked yesterday to review a ruling of Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court who denied a mandamus petition to compel the county jury commissioners to draw the names of grand and petit jurors from the same lists. The appeal was filed by F. E. Lasecki, as a taxpayer, thru Attorney Joseph F. Elward.

At the hearing before Judge Fisher in January, Elward said that under the present system prospective jurors fill out questionnaires and then are examined by the jury commissioners. The commissioners, he said, grade the prospective jurors for either grand jury service or petit jury service.

THE GOLDFISH IN THE BOWL.

Congress is still considering the protests and complaints of householders who say that they do not intend to answer all the questions which will be asked them next month when the census taker comes to the door—not all unless the list is amended and part of the quiz eliminated. Under the law, an obstinate person telling the official visitor to mind his own business can be fined or sent to jail. The department of commerce officials and supervisors of the census say that in previous enumerations indignant persons have slammed the door and nobody ever went to jail. But this is a New Deal census.

The most objectionable question, in the view of the complaining public, is the one relating to income. The enumerator who comes to the door will be somebody hired in the community, even if the citizen or his wife does not know him or her. The inquisitor will be a person who has taken a temporary job doing this work and when he asks questions provided in the new housing inquiry the homemaker will feel as if he had been asked to take down the walls and call all the people in to look over the place, to show them the bathroom, the month's meat bill, the basement, and the furnace, to turn on the radio, open the icebox, and then produce the last pay check, if any.

The official assumption that all this information when acquired will be held secret and when tabulated will be merely a de-personalized aggregate of valuable statistical material is a theory not shared by the individual who tells, as if to a neighborhood gossip, what he earns and how he lives. He can't feel that the person making the inquiries is a governmental automatic machine and is merely a conveyor of items for which even the householder himself need have no personal feeling. The householder feels that it will be all over the neighborhood as soon as the enumerator, if a man, can get to a tavern, or, if a woman, can get to a beauty parlor to turn her government pay check into a permanent wave.

It is conceded that some business men have asked for the information which the census will undertake to get if the government is not stopped by congress. Business conducts its own surveys to ascertain the distribution and use of products and increase its knowledge of markets and prospects. Business likes to know what is being used in fuel, plumbing, building, etc., and how much and where and what utilities are in service, and what the preferences and trends are. The politicos of the New Deal also would like to know more about the personal life of the people of the country. The left wingers think they can pounce on this data and use it for their own purposes. We'll be goldfish by and by.

NO MORE STATUARY.

The Chicago park board has decided to discourage the erection of any more statues and "merely decorative memorials" within its domains. Upon the advice of a committee headed by Col. Holabird, the board will invite prospective donors of monuments in the parks to put their money into such utilitarian objects as fieldhouses, swimming pools, beaches, fountains, and bridges.

If this decision is adhered to, the least the community can do in return is to subscribe a couple of million dollars for fieldhouses, swimming pools, beaches, fountains, and bridges, half to be named for Col. Holabird and the other half for Mr. Dunham, the president of the park board. Certainly these gentlemen will have earned the gratitude of the living and of generations of Chicagoans yet unborn.

It is not true, of course, that Chicago's public statuary is the world's worst, as some of our citizens have boasted. They should not let their local pride run away with their judgment. We have some horrible pieces but none among the big ones to be mentioned in the same breath with the Albert Memorial in London; nothing among the men on horseback to match the Gen. Jackson in Washington; nothing among the smaller pieces to compete with the De Maupassant Memorial in Paris, not to mention the treasures of the Campo Santo in Genoa. The doughboy in Lincoln park and the reliefs over the city hall doors can't get to first base against that kind of pitching. They are only bush league bad.

Still, we can get along nicely without any more statues which are merely moderately poor. The question remains, of course, whether the fieldhouses, swimming pools, etc., will offer an improvement. To be sure, you can swim in a swimming pool and not in a statue, but this advantage may be more apparent than real. Children get much healthful exercise climbing the Altgeld statue and swinging from the late governor's bronze thumb which carries a high polish in consequence. No doubt other statues serve similarly to make little bodies strong and straight. Without too much effort we can imagine a fieldhouse which would be a good deal harder on the eye than the Altgeld statue, and scarcely more useful.

One of the strangest things about this community is the fact that for 50 years and more, tho it has been the home of far more than its share of the leading minds in architecture in the United States, most of our public architecture is about on the esthetic level of our public statuary. It is to be hoped that the public authorities will make a more earnest attempt than in other years to discover who among Chicago's architects are men of taste and capacity and who have merely been licensed by the state to practice their profession. In this connection it is encouraging to observe that Mr. Dunham has consulted Col. Holabird.

NORWAY PROPOSES ARBITRATION.

Norway, beset by British reproaches and complaints, has suggested that if Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Churchill have not found any reason to modify their point of view the question of the operation of Norwegian neutrality may be submitted to arbitration. The Norwegian government contends that its treatment of the German ship Altmark conformed with international law and was a scrupulous observance of all the rights involved.

It is the British contention that Norway and the other small neutral countries do not preserve their neutrality, and the British have a reason for it. They say that the Germans terrorize their small neighbors, who know that Britain and France will not get tough with them. The British say that the bully will get preferential treatment, whereas the scrupulous belligerent will be imposed upon, and that this state of affairs cannot continue. Naturally, the Germans make the same assertions and say that the British and French are bullying the neutrals, and so it goes. Each belligerent makes the arguments he would be expected to make and he acts as he would be expected to act.

As the exigencies of the belligerents increase, the dangers of the neutrals will become more threatening. It might be the salvation of Europe if the war could be restricted as well as shortened. But that consideration will probably have little effect on the nations at war. Norway, however, has submitted to the British a proposal for a peaceable determination of the questions which have arisen between the two governments and it may be a small light in the general blackness if two nations would again reaffirm their belief, even in this time, in the pacific adjustment of an issue at conflict. Possibly it is regarded as undesirable to have a decision on neutral rights by distinguished arbitrators who could, for instance, act in The Hague tribunal according to the old rules of that virtually discarded instrument of international adjudication.

The belligerents may prefer to make their own law as the need for it arises. Mr. Churchill repeats from time to time that no one can be neutral in this fight and demands that the small European maritime powers come in where they belong and do not longer consent to have their ships torpedoed without fighting back. The peace and security of the little fellows might be protected if some of the questions arising out of the enforcement of neutrality should be defined by an impartial group of distinguished international authorities.

BUYING A DEAD DUCK.

The Germans, who developed the dirigible airship and were by far the most expert in its use, both military and commercial, have not launched a single dirigible in any of their air campaigns. They have, furthermore, discontinued its commercial use since the Hindenburg disaster.

They have abandoned the dirigible because it is obsolete. Their lack of noninflammable helium, which the United States possesses, is only a small factor. The dirigible is obsolete as a military weapon because it is slow and because the airplane has been developed to the point where fighting planes can fly as high as the unwieldy balloon and destroy it.

The only organization that seems unaware of these developments is the United States navy. It is asking congress for an appropriation for another dirigible despite the fact that all but one of the dirigibles it has had have crashed, usually with heavy loss of life. If congress grants the appropriation the only people who will benefit by it will be the people who build the dirigible and the small group of naval officers who have specialized training in flying it. It will be worthless for defense.

That the navy should ask for funds for such a purpose is a further indication of its limitless appetite for tax wasting. In this it almost approaches the profligacy of the New Dealers.

A HANDY MAN IN WILL COUNTY.

The Will county grand jury has investigated the 2 per cent shakedown of state civil service employés by the Democratic state machine and has returned an indictment.

Edwin L. Wilson, the Democratic party leader whose conduct on the bench brought him close to impeachment and caused the voters of his judicial circuit to repudiate him at the first opportunity, is seeking the Democratic nomination for state's attorney of Will county.

The Democratic machine may think that if it had Wilson in office now there would have been no indictment. It may also think that if it can get him into office in November the indictment will not be tried.

Editorial of the Day

IT'S NOT NEW.

[Washington, D. C., Star.]

The bookie race wire service, recently knocked flat by the government, has quite an ancient history. It has just come to light, in a speech made in Baltimore by Dr. Frederick C. Lincoln of the bureau of biological survey, that it began some 2,000 years ago in ancient Rome. At the end of each day's racing foot messengers would start out on weary hikes to various parts of the empire, and race players out in the sticks would frequently have to wait a week before learning that Publius Vergilius had won the sixth spasm, paying 16 sesterces and 40 denarii for the usual investment. There would seem to be little doubt that as a consequence of this delay bookmakers would often accept bets as late as five days after post time.

Then some genius conceived the notion of catching country swallows and taking them to Rome in a cage. The racing chariots were all painted different colors, and if the blue one won, the swallows would be daubed with blue paint and released. It is easy to picture the immense advantage enjoyed by the subscriber to this racing news service. All he had to do was to go out on a leisurely stroll to observe the beauties of nature, and upon seeing the first blue bird of the season he wasted no time writing about it to the editor of the Rome Gazette. Instead, he hastened to Honest Caius Vespucius' joint out on the Appian way and bet his toga on the blue. No doubt this crude but effective get rich quick device contributed to the downfall of many a bookmaker long before the decline and fall of Rome.

THE PARDON CAME TOO SOON.

Hold everything! This column was in error when it announced that day before yesterday [Feb. 29] was the 21st leap year birthday of Frederic, the long suffering apprentice in "The Pirates of Penzance," and that he was now freed from his obligations to the Cornish freebooters. It ought to have been, and Librettist Gilbert thought that he had things figured out correctly when he caused Frederic to warble to his beloved Mabel, "In nineteen forty I of age shall be."

But it happens that the year 1900, which should have been a leap year, was not counted as such, for astronomical reasons too deep to discuss here. Therefore Frederic will have to wait four years longer for release from his own private purgatory, and we will have to write this stuff all over again four years hence. [Remind us about it, will you?]

* * *

According to our calendar, every year divisible by four is a leap year with the exception of those divisible by 100 but not divisible by 400. The years 1700, 1800, and 1900 were not leap years. But while there is life on this planet, there is hope; and the year 2000 will be a leap year.

* * *

All leap year proposals of matrimony made in the year 1900 are hereby declared null and void. [Most of them, for one reason and another, do not require such a proclamation.]

IN PRAISE OF PENGUINS.

The penguin, wintering far south,
(He summers, falls and springs there, too)
Avoids such things as heat and drouth
Down in his vast and frigid zoo.
Sedate in natural dinner coat,
He'll hesitate, and then go in
The water for his table d'hôte
Like any other penguin.
He never takes to wing; that's why
His feats astound the native
Of warmer zones, enchanted by
His penguinitiative.
With Byrd encamped on frozen floes
I hark unto my Muse again,
My heart in friendly fettle knows
The penguin's in the news again.

The Career of a British Blonde.

Lydia Thompson, who tried to horsewhip the editor of the Chicago Times in the 1870s [Feb. 10] was the first "burlesque queen" and the originator of the practice of singing intimate ditties to the baldheads in the first row. Among the statuesque members of her "British Blondes" troupe were Rose Coghlan, afterward famous on the American stage, and Ada Harland, who married Prof. Brander Mathews, drama pundit at Columbia university.

Lydia's husband is said to have designed the vehicle known as a tilbury carriage. Her daughter, Zeffie Tilbury, became a popular actress in England and the United States, and is now living, in her '80s, in Hollywood. She occasionally plays small parts in the movies.

SOUVENIRS D'AMOUR.

The span is brief since that remembered spring
When new found love came tripping o'er the wold
And touched us with her fingers; wondering,
We watched her simple ecstasies unfold
Together with the hyacinth and rose.
Then, with summer's golden chaplet in her hair,
She led us thither to a crescent beach
And lapping waters; and reflected there
The moon became a treasure we could reach.
Too soon we learned that Paradise can close;
For with the frosty winds and cruel sleet,
The nymph that had beguiled us turned away,
Nor all our pleading would her footsteps stay.
Now memory holds one summer's garnered wheat,
One season's roses, and one mirrored moon—
Souvenirs—of that which perished soon.

At times, when the drivel of the radio seems unbearable, I recall the early '20s when wireless was still a miracle. I recollect a time when much shouting made clear to a woefully deaf family friend that music and things would come out of the assorted homemade gadgets on the table. He solemnly applied headphones, and sat with head on hands and elbows on knees for half an hour while all three tubes blazed mightily and his whole head vibrated with a KYW lecture on butterflies. When the program ended, he laid down the phones and with a smile of complete content assured his audience:

"You know, I heard every word that man said!"

WHEAT GERM OIL IN SPINAL CORD WEAKNESS.

Among our most permanent derangements of the nervous system are those which are characterized by more or less loss of function of the spinal cord with the resulting failure of special groups of muscles. For example, one such ailment is tabes dorsalis, or locomotor ataxia, and many of us are familiar with the peculiar gait—dragging and unsteady—which these individuals exhibit. Other disorders are characterized by the degeneration of certain sections of the cord with a corresponding absence of the power of movement.

Now comes the startling suggestion of a group of Danish investigators that many of these patients are not victims of organic changes but are handicapped because they present a pronounced deficiency of vitamin E. This element is found in many foods. Milk is a good source provided the cows are fed on green pastures. The yellow of eggs and the fat of meat furnish it, as do vegetable oils and some fruits. Our chief supply, however, is the growing portion of the wheat kernel; and oil expressed from this substance provides a generous amount. It is destroyed rapidly by oxidation, however, and when fats become rancid the decomposition is sufficient to render the product useless. The same may be said of hen's eggs, whenever the fowls live under artificial conditions and are not allowed to forage for themselves. Then it is that the yolks may show a marked absence of vitamins.

As a rule, millers discard wheat germ. It is supposed to interfere with the smoothness and consistency of flour as well as its keeping qualities. Occasionally—even tho included in the grist—it is so treated that its potency may be lost. There is reason to believe, therefore, that a great many of us may be obtaining too little of this particular food principle. Others—altho they may be receiving an adequate ration—cannot absorb it from the intestine. In consequence, should the demands made upon nerves and tissues be greater than normal, we may encounter one of these maladies. It is contended by the authorities referred to that locomotor ataxia should be regarded as an exhibition of degenerating nerve tracks which have been debilitated by disease.

In one series of cases, the patients were fed fresh whole wheat germ [one-half ounce or more, two or three times daily] for as long as 18 months. The affliction studied—muscular dystrophy [faulty or defective nutrition of the contracting fibers]—is quite common among children.

Bicknell reports the case of an 8 year old lad who—when first seen—could not sit up, dress, or brush his hair. The structures of the thigh were noticeably involved, the arms weak, and the shoulder blades projected like wings. Contractures were relieved as much as possible with surgery and massage. Ten months after the child began to take wheat germ the arms were larger in circumference—in fact, practically normal. He can now dress himself and the use of his legs has returned to such an extent that he can walk 100 yards without assistance.

Another little patient was bedridden. This 11 year old boy had acquired severe deformities and the parts were so wasted and helpless that he could scarcely move his arms from beneath the bedclothes. Five months on the germ preparation proved so helpful that he can now wheel himself about in a chair.

In still another disease—amyotrophic lateral sclerosis—the lesions in the spinal cord are followed by marked atrophy [shrinking]. The results of the E diet—in a few cases—have been phenomenal. In a 49 year old man who was unable to employ his left hand, complete recovery was accomplished.

We may say then that with children chiefly, treatment with the vitamin is more successful in the restoration of function than anything that has been suggested hitherto. Every one in this long series—with whom the feedings continued more than six weeks—showed improvement. We may expect confidently that in the months to come there will be a wider use of this material with a clearer understanding of its beneficent rôle.

THE TEMPER OF YOUTH.

CHEWS PAPER.

Mrs. L. writes: My 2 year old child chews paper. Could some vitamin be missing in her diet?

REPLY.

Even tho the newspapers are filled with discussions about vitamins, wood fiber will supply but little nutriment. Some children will insist upon tasting every object. It is wise to get rid of the habit, as occasionally article are swallowed or inhaled.

HOW TO GET SOMEWHERE IN POLITICS.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Like The Tribune, the League of Women Voters does not regret that it sponsored permanent registration of voters. We share your conclusion that it has indeed effected economies, and should like to inquire further into your statement that since its passage "Chicago has had some of the crookedest elections in years."

Evidence of vote frauds is in itself no indication of worse conditions. It may merely indicate that under permanent registration some malefactors are getting caught owing to the signature requirement. Since enactment of permanent registration relatively few persons, be they voters or election officials, are willing to risk the sentences provided for irregularities under the law. The signature requirement now gives election officials evidence on which to base prosecutions of fraudulent voting. The previous method of mass fraud due to padded registration lists is almost impossible.

Certain machine politicians, to be sure, have not been without recourse. There is nothing in the permanent registration law to prevent the buying of voters outside the polling place, to stop chain balloting, to prevent assistance to illiterate voters [tho greatly deterred], or to inqure that ballots will be counted correctly. Enactment of the proposal of the governor's commission to abolish assistance at the polls to any except physically disabled voters and to abolish absentee voting would be one step further in securing honest elections; use of voting machines would be a second step.

The Tribune is apparently unaware that the League of Women Voters urges its members to active participation in party politics—in their own name, not in the name of the organization. Only presidents and membership chairmen are asked to abstain. A major project of the year is a study of political parties in which attendance at ward and other party meetings is promoted.

Not enough women, or men, faithfully attend ward meetings. The League of Women Voters recognizes this and encourages its members to participate actively.

THE TOWNSEND PLAN REVIVED.

Coldwater, Mich., Feb. 26.—In the Voice of the People I have read discussions on nearly every conceivable subject of a controversial nature except the general welfare act, sponsored by the Townsend national recovery plan organization, which is again introduced in both houses of congress after being defeated in the last session by a vote of 306 to 101.

The democratic method of free and open discussion should serve to reveal the truth as to whether this legislation, of such stupendous consequences for either weal or woe, should be passed by congress or not. If it is really what the name implies it should be tried, as it could hardly prove a worse failure than many of the New Deal nostrums that have been foisted upon us for seven long years. If it can be proven crackpot and visionary by sound and logical reasoning, then it should be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things.

CALL FOR AN INVESTIGATION.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—It appears to me that the third termers and their fellow travelers are trying to keep the initiative and the spotlight by bluffing and blustering about a third term, hoping for something to happen in world events today to help them carry on their scheme of dictatorship. It is my conviction that a thoro investigation would wreck their whole scheme and bring an end to all possibilities of a third term.

N. E. Gainer.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The article in today's Tribune regarding variation in thermometer readings is interesting. Permit me to suggest to Mr. Anderson that the difference may be explained by the fact that a strong south wind was blowing and that there was snow on the ground. The position of the thermometer with the southern exposure may have been such that it was exposed constantly to swirling snow. The evaporation of the snow on the surface of the thermometer would cause a lowering of the reacting of this thermometer below the actual air temperature. This explanation assumes that the other thermometer was not exposed to swirling snow.

How Our States Got Their Names

48. WYOMING.

Wyoming, authorities believe, is a corruption of an Indian word which meant "large plains" and originally was given to the Wyoming valley in Pennsylvania. The name became popularized after it was used as the part of the title of a widely read book. Wyoming became a state on July 10, 1890.

Wyoming state seal. Figure of Liberty between two pillars on pedestal. Shield on pedestal bears eagle, star, and figure 44, the state's number in order of admission. At left is rancher; at right, miner. Scrolls wound about pillars are engraved, "Live Stock," "Grain," "Mines," and "Oil." Above Liberty's head is state motto. Dates are those of territory [1869] and statehood [1890].

Wyoming is sometimes referred to as the Equality state, because woman's suffrage was advocated there at an early date. It also is known as the Sagebrush state from the amount of wild sage found within its boundaries. The Wyoming state motto is "Equal Rights." The Indian paint brush is the state flower, and the meadowlark the state bird.

PATENT LAWS.

Western Springs, Ill., Feb. 21 [Legal Friend of the People].—Can the owner of a registered United States patent legally prevent another person from giving detailed information as to how to make and offer for sale material to make a similar article? H. U. B.

The theory of the patent law is that the inventor makes public full information as to how to manufacture under his invention in exchange for his patent monopoly. It is not clear that any offense is involved in distributing the information contained in the public patent, but if a conspiracy to infringe is involved, that presumably could be stopped. If a substantial amount of money was involved, you should go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

ACCESS TO STAIRWAYS.

Chicago, Feb. 22 [Friend of the People].—I always understood that on each floor of a building there should be front and back entrance, but the building at 4438 of our block has only two on the first floor. GET A DIVORCE, LADIES, IF YOU'D BEAT INCOME TAX

SERVICE TO TAXPAYERS.

THE TRIBUNE is assisting the public again this year in making out income tax returns. Deputy collectors of internal revenue, assigned to the public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower, are on duty Mondays thru Fridays from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. There is no charge for the service.

The most enviable position in the United States, when it comes to making an income tax return, is that of a divorcée living on alimony. Not a cent of her alimony is taxable. And the man who pays and pays can't count it as a deductible item. His marital troubles, in the eyes of the internal revenue collectors, are his own tough luck.

No matter how glamorous their jobs may seem, models are in the poorest profession for women who pay taxes. This is on the word of Ernest Sauber, young deputy collector, who is known among his associates as the experts' expert. Sauber recently succeeded Harry C. Shugart, retired veteran expert. He handles at least 500 telephone calls a day, and between calls untangles the problems of 100 revenue agents, field deputies, and office auditors who work with him during the filing rush.

Pity the Poor Models.

Models, Sauber says, have two chief business assets—their faces and their figures. But the government allows no depreciation on either of them. Most of them must have expensive and complete working wardrobes. This means nothing to the government either, because the clothes are wearable on the street; they can't be called business expenditures.

A trapeze artist, jockey, ballet dancer, baseball player—any of these entertainers whose business costumes would be conspicuous on the street—may deduct the cost of such apparel. A nurse, like a model, gets no consideration for the money she spends for her white bedside uniforms.

Widows who derive their income from annuities are taxed, but widows who receive payments from employers of their deceased husbands pay no income tax. It is not income they possess, but a gift.

Teachers Feel Pinch, Too.

Teachers, whose jobs require travel and summer school attendance to retain their rating, may not deduct those costs, Sauber said. They are considered a furtherance of education, a self-investment.

Singers, pianists, dancers, none of these may claim exemptions for loss of their earning abilities. They pay for what they have earned, and are allowed nothing for what they didn't earn.

45C IN HAVANA TREASURY; INDICT MAYOR AND AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, March 1.—Mayor Antonio Beruff Mendieta and Acting Mayor Francisco Rivero San Ramon were indicted today on charges of misappropriation and embezzlement of at least $660,000 of $1,300,000 in city taxes collected since Jan. 1.

Mendieta is a candidate for vice president on the Socialist Democratic ticket which is headed by Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's "strong man."

The mayor has been on leave of absence since returning from Chicago where he represented Havana in the Intermunicipal Congress last November.

L. L. VALENTINE, BENEFACTOR OF BOYS' CLUB, DIES

Furniture Maker Devoted Fortune to Cause.

Louis Lincoln Valentine of 1448 Lake Shore drive, a retired furniture manufacturer who had given nearly $600,000 to promote the work of the Chicago boys' club, died of heart disease last night in the Presbyterian hospital. He was 74 years old.

Louis L. Valentine.

Mr. Valentine was born in Lexington, McLean county. He became an apprentice cabinet maker in 1880. He was in the retail and wholesale furniture business until 1899, when he founded the Valentine-Seaver company, makers of upholshered furniture. He was secretary-treasurer of the company until 1927, when he retired.

Devotes Fortune to Cause.

He had a comfortable fortune and intended to travel, and collect art objects. But after he had gathered a large collection of paintings and ivory he became interested in the boys' club and announced he would devote his time to it. Friends said last night that he had spent most of his fortune to this cause.

Among his benefactions were the Valentine Boys' club at 34th street and Emerald avenue, erected as a memorial to his wife, and a camp at Winona Lake, Ind. The building, completed last fall, cost $400,000, and the camp $100,000.

Director of Boys' Club.

Mr. Valentine was a director of the Boys' Club of America. He was a member of the Union League club, Chicago Athletic association, the Art institute, and the Chicago Galleries' association. He was a former president of the National Association of Upholstered Furniture Manufacturers.

There are no immediate surviving relatives. Funeral services will be conducted in St. Paul's Lutheran church, 614 Fullerton parkway, at 2:30 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

MASSEY ON W-G-N TOMORROW IN LINCOLN PLAYLET

Raymond Massey has been spending his afternoons this week rehearsing for his appearance as "Lincoln, the President" on the Fifth Row Center program over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 5:30 p. m. tomorrow. Extra rehearsals were the result of a request from the famous Lincoln interpreter, who is starring in the play "Abe Lincoln of Illinois" in the Grand Opera house. He believes in doing thoroly anything he undertakes.

The Massey rehearsals are pleasant, informal sessions with plenty of laughter. Mr. and Mrs. Massey, the supporting actors, and the director sit in a circle. Every one ncontributes suggestions for altering lines to give them added incisiveness.

The group fell to discussing permissible expletives at one session. Director Blair Walliser suggested changing "darn" to "blame" in the script, lest it sound like "damn" on the air.

"I used to have on a small piece of paper the list of expletives permitted by the communications commission and the Will Hays office," Massey volunteered. "It was a very short list—you could put all the approved words on a pin head. 'Raising Ned' and 'blame it' are two that I recall are all right."

A distinguished cast of actors, including Frank Behrens, Cecile Roy, Willard Waterman, and Ray Largay will support Mr. Massey. The W-G-N orchestra directed by Harold Stokes will present a musical background in the spirit of the '60s.

CHICAGO WOMEN ON AERIAL TOUR RETURN BY SHIP

The three women members of the aerial vacation party which left Chicago Jan. 1 for a tour of South America arrived in Boston yesterday en route home. They are Mrs. Doris Wallace, 1008 Rush street; Miss Frieda Zylstra, 5308 Kenwood avenue, and Miss June Sprau, 1 Stonegate road, Lake Forest.

The party was organized by James Allen of Chicago, a United Air Lines pilot. The vacation trip ended when the plane came down out of gas on an isolated farm on the Brazilian coast.

The women took a steamer for Boston, and Allen remained at Rio de Janeiro to sell the airplane. Another passenger on the flight, Seward Bowers, an attorney of Benton Harbor, Mich., returned by another ship.

Mr. Howard died Thursday in the home of a sister in Rochester, Minn. He was 71 years old. Mr. Howard was the son of Gen. Charles H. Howard. His family moved to Chicago in 1870 and later settled in Glencoe. CHICAGOAN GIVES NEW DATA ABOUT JUSTICE HOLMES

Some hitherto unpublished letters and photographs of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. of the United States Supreme court appear in the March issue of the Chicago Bar Record, which was mailed yesterday to members of the association. Accompanying this material is an article on Justice Holmes written by John Knox, a Chicago lawyer, who formerly was secretary to Justice James McReynolds of the Supreme court.

At one time Knox asked Holmes what law school he should select for his education. The quoted reply from Holmes was:

"I shouldn't worry too much about which law school to go to. The result depends on the fire in your own belly, tho no doubt one school may do more than another in kindling it."

MONTH'S INCOME $7, SAYS LAWYER IN WIFE'S SUIT

Attorney Robert H. Eberle, on the witness stand yesterday opposing his wife's separate maintenance suit, testified that his income for February was $7. He said he has a bank balance of $4.

"How does it happen, then, that your son Jack is in Harvard?" asked Mrs. Eberle's attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

"If his bill isn't paid today, he won't be there tomorrow," said Eberle.

"And isn't your daughter, Eleanor, in Northwestern?"

"I've got until tomorrow to pay her bill, too," the attorney replied.

Eberle's income tax payments, ranging from $35.90 last year to $99.22 in 1935, were read into the record. He testified he is living in a one room apartment and doing his own cooking. His wife, Belle, said she was forced to quit their home at 1143 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park, because she lacked money to keep it up. Judge John Lewe set the final hearing for next Friday.

Althea Murphy to Wed Nixon de Tarnowsky

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL DEAN MURPHY are giving a family tea at home in Winnetka tomorrow afternoon to celebrate the engagement of their daughter, Althea Jean, to Nixon de Tarnowsky, which is being announced today. Mr. de Tarnowsky is a son of Dr. George de Tarnowsky of Chicago.

Here for the party are Miss Murphy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew W. Stokes, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Stokes, of Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. de Tarnowsky's aunt, Miss Mary Nixon, of Florence, Italy, who is spending this winter in Chicago, also will be among those congratulating the young couple.

Miss Murphy attended the school of speech at Northwestern university and is a graduate of the Goodman Theater school. This winter she and Miss Hope Summers and Martin Magner, of Vienna, formed a Guild theater in Evanston, which has been giving four performances weekly. Mr. Magner is the director. Miss Murphy and her fiancé's sister, Miss Mary de Tarnowsky, who also attended the Goodman school, are taking part in the plays. "French Without Tears" is the current offering.

Mr. de Tarnowsky, who was given the family name of his late mother, is a graduate of Harvard university. No plans have been made for the wedding.

Many Gay Parties for This Week-End.

The week-end will be filled with a number of gay parties, among them those planned for Seaver B. Buck, headmaster of the Berkshire school. Mr. Buck is arriving today to stay over Monday.

Mrs. Lynn Gratiot is giving a tea for Mr. Buck this afternoon in Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, whose youngest son, Jamie, is a student at the school, will have Mr. Buck for luncheon tomorrow. Mrs. Randolph Owsley, sister of the alumni secretary, Delano de Windt, is giving a tea for the visitor on Sunday afternoon. Alumni of the school will gather for luncheon with Mr. Buck on Monday at the University club, where he will be staying.

Calvin Fentress Jr., president of the Chicago Berkshire club, won't be here for Mr. Buck's visit. The junior Mr. and Mrs. Fentress and the Gordon Kelleys left for Florida Thursday night. Albert Keep, whose wife is the former Isabel Scott of Winnetka, is assistant headmaster of the school.

Jacques Gordon to Give Concert Tomorrow.

An evening of chamber music usually is considered pretty highbrow entertainment, but there will be nothing formal about a concert Jacques Gordon will give at the Tavern club tomorrow. Mr. Gordon, one of the founder of the club, is "Jack" to his fellow members. He always bears in mind the background of string quartets — tobacco smoke, steins of beer, and musicians in shirt sleeves. He is a former first violinist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Members of the Drama league are planning dinner parties tonight preceding a dance recital by Angna Enters at the Civic theater. The league will present the dance mime, who also is an author and painter, in a second performance tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher is giving a dinner at home before tonight's performance; other dinners will be given at the Electric club.

Only members of the families will attend the marriage of Miss Eleanor Rosenbaum to James W. Pope at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Following a small reception at the Ambassador East hotel, Mr. Pope and his bride

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Every so often, as you know, Hollywood dons a mantle of quiet dignity and, in a manner that commands respect, presents the WORTH WHILE.

This has happened in the case of "The Grapes of Wrath."

The screen adaptation of John Steinbeck's powerful, painful, and much discussed novel—cleansed as to dialog—comes to the silver sheet as a powerful, painful—but exquisitely simple and beautiful picture, asking questions which are not answered but which—you feel with a lift!—will some day find their solution.

As most of you are aware, here is a story of migration, symbolized in the experiences of the Joad family, who, chased offer their meager holdings in the Oklahoma "dust bowl," cross the country to California in search of a chance to live decently. . . .

Nobody wants them—and the tale of their buffeted existence on highways, in shanty towns, as unwilling strike breakers on a large fruit plantation—hungry, dirty, bewildered, but unbowed—is told with no embroidery of sweetness and light. . . . The Joads get only one brief break—in a government camp where they are treated as human beings.

Nevertheless, nothing keeps them down. THEY are the people and "there ain't nothing can lick the people, because they'll go on forever."

From every standpoint this is one of the finest pictures ever made.

I hope—and prophesy—that Jane Darwell will win an academy award for her magnificent work as Mother Joad! A masterpiece of characterization! And the way she looks at one out of those eyes!

Henry Fonda is very fine as Tom Joad. These two carry the main rôles—but they had a great supporting cast and direction.

[Note the remarkable camera work. A photographic symphony in DRAB!]

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

For Sale, Celluloid.

Hollywood, Cal., March 1.—Perhaps the greatest single concentration of supersalesmen is in Hollywood, where behind the scenes 300 press agents and 150 more exploitation experts daily cudgel their brains in an effort to sell 594 pictures to 235,000,000 customers. They employ every avenue of approach. They are circusy; they are subtle; they are direct; they are indirect.

But with 594 feature pictures per year to sell, and the competition between them terrific, they must at all times be effective. It is rather generally agreed that the "Gone with the Wind" campaign tops them all in scope and effectiveness. Almost its entire campaign sprang from a single idea, to make the casting of Scarlett and Rhett an indoor game.

That bright idea took the women's clubs, the tea rooms, the P.-T. A.'s, and the columnists too by storm. It rolled along merrily for more than two years, with results that now are paying heavy dividends at the box office.

Harry Brand and the boys at 20th Century-Fox had an inspiration when they pegged the advance campaign for "The Grapes of Wrath" on the question: "Does Darryl Zanuck dare to make it?" There were threats that its picturization would be stopped, and whispers that Zanuck would take the sting out of it.

The result was a controversy that now, with the release of the picture, makes the cash registers jingle.

Warner's Charlie Enfeld and Bob Taplinger; 20th Century-Fox's Harry Brand; M.-G.-M.'s pair of Howards, Howard Dietz and Howard Strickling; Universal's John Joseph; Paramount's Bob Gillham and Terry De Lapp; Free Lance Russell Birdwell—these are a few of the more prominent Ivy Lees of the colony.

In their determined search for publicity they use Postmaster General Jim Farley, governors of states, Western Union, Postal Telegraph, mayors of cities, humanitarians, philanthropists, stylists, magazine editors, photographers, holidays, and anything else, human or inanimate, that comes to hand.

The Warner campaign on "The Fighting 69th," which found most of New York parading and a famous regiment squatting at a regimental dinner attended by municipal biggies, is typical of what the high pressure boys can accomplish when they set their minds to it. Generally, their soundest appeal is to sectional pride. That is never-failing, and once that has been stirred it is a cinch to surround the affair with official prestige. Getting the state governor's stationery is a cinch.

All those out of town treks such as the première of "Dodge City," "Man of Conquest," the Benny flicker at Waukegan, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" in Washington, of "The Fighting 69th" in New York, and of "Union Pacific" in Omaha are exploitation stunts in the grand manner, frankly bidding for publicity.

When 20th Century-Fox had Marian Anderson sing at the Beverly Hills première of "Young Mr. Lincoln" it wasn't a gift to Hollywood culture, it was designed to help sell the picture via the exploitation route. A good clinical case for examination is the forthcoming Wesley Ruggles production "Too Many Husbands." The drumbeats on this one will show you high pressure salesmanship. It is a good example of how the boys go to work to make Mr. and Mrs. Fan aware that a product is about to go into the film stalls.

It was determined that romance was the prime sales ingredient, that the title itself could be circulated as a catch phrase, that the triangle in the plot of the story presented interesting publicity potentialities and that even the sociological problems in the picture could be converted to direct salesmanship.

With a deft stroke of showmanship, Ruggles deliberately kept secret the ending of the picture. Nobody knows whether Jean Arthur, who finds herself married to both, eventually winds up with Fred MacMurray or Melvyn Douglas. So now a jury of the comeliest and most intelligent sorority girls of both U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. is being called out to see a special showing of the picture up to the time Jean must make her choice.

The girls will hold an open forum with Ruggles and the stars and say exactly what they would do if they were in Jean's shoes, and why. It won't be too coincidental if reams of publicity stories and pictures result from that little meeting.

Not too coincidental, also, was the sudden request from Mayor Ernest Mirrington of Niagara Falls, N. Y., for permission to borrow the picture's advertising slogan which reads: "Too many husbands neglect too many wives—take another honeymoon." To that the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce is adding the words "In Niagara Falls" and is going to town with a tourist campaign. The hoopla is supposed to reach its highest when Niagara stages a première. Complications arose, however, when Mayor August Frohlich of Reno, Nev., announced he had been promised the première.

While this tempest bubbles merrily, the exploiteers are busy with plans for a "leap year preview" of the Ruggles opus. Automatically stressing the romantic angle, the boys will stage a preview for women only, no men allowed. Those critics who care to let their wives do the reviewing [and perhaps reveal who really has been doing the work right along] are going to play ball with the stunt.

In the meantime, thousands of those slogans are being mailed out to clubs, columnists, divorce court judges, and marriage license bureaus. You'd be surprised how many go to spots where courthouse reporters are sure to see them.

Pussywillow Is a New Shade of Gray in Hosiery

BY REA SEEGER.

Poetic symphonies in gray are luring the last penny from the pockets of those susceptibles who surrender to such a subtle color. New arrivals in the millinery showings are charming confections in spanking white with a drift of pale gray veiling. Others are white straw with a back wide ribbon of pale gray grosgrain. Silver gray veiling looks like a flattering mist of silver against navy blue, or over brown, black and red hats . . . it's something new to use for face flattery with all the spring green shades, or with pastels of pink, yellow, and very light blue.

We discovered a handsome new gray shade in new hosiery that ought to please the gray collectors. It's a special dye job for this high fashion wave of gray, and the hosiery designers or makers have really got something this spring. It's not the cold repelling blue gray, nor the gray with too much lavender but a silvery gray with great flattery assured for any ankle lines. Such a shade called "pussywillow" goes with gleaming black patent leather street pumps or other footgear, goes surprisingly well with deep brown, bronze green, and of course, all the gray footnotes just getting into the shopping spotlights. If you crave gray hosiery for any particular costumes here is the perfect shade . . . it comes in two, three, and four thread weaves and there is a special price for three pair.

For the hurried hosiery shoppers that buy one shade that must do color accent duty for everything they own, there is a new all purpose shade. It's called "dune," and is a fine sunny shade of beige, has decided chameleon qualities so that it glows flatteringly with all shades of green, red, brown, navy, and black, with thin wool street suits and ensembles as well as with colorful prints and dress parade costumes of wool and printed silk. This dune color is also specially priced in buys of three pair to a box.

George Williams College Observes Fiftieth Birthday

George Williams college, 5315 Drexel avenue, yesterday began a 50th birthday celebration that will continue thru tomorrow. Henry I. Sistrunk, executive secretary of the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., is in charge of the program.

The annual alumni banquet will be held tonight, with Dr. Harold C. Coffman, college president, introducing the principal speaker, John Manley, general secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. of North America.

Dr. H. S. Dimock, dean of the college, is chairman of a conference on "The Responsibility of Informal Education for Social Change." This conference opened yesterday afternoon and will continue today.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

The bright wave of red as a costume accent is jolly as can be for the most part, but there is some discord. Red isn't just red any more. Like all the colors in the modern scheme it has dozens of variations in tone and depth.

The importance of matching your reds perfectly can't be overlooked. There's no hodgepodge worse than a yellow red hat with blue red gloves. Sometimes the differences aren't so obvious, but they're there, and the result is pretty awful.

Nail polish and lipstick come into the picture in a large way. Every touch of red in the ensemble should have an affinity with every other touch. Lipstick and nail polish, like all other color accents, should be in key, if not perfect matches.

Not all lipstick manufacturers make nail enamels. So to ease up the strain quite a few of the lipstick makers have gotten together with a nail polish house. The various shades of lipstick [and you count 'em, we're dizzy from it all] are color-harmonized to various nail polish shades. Some are exact matches, some are perfectly harmonious ones in the same key but not precisely a match.

Seven of the cosmetic houses are participating in this harmony project. The collaborating manufacturers have assembled a color chart so that if your lipstick choice lies in any one of these lines the nail polish shade problem is quickly solved.

Can't you do something about this?* Mr. Loomis wrote back: Not very well; I wrote one of the books.

Lyman Brown, on his third trip to see the Picasso show at the Art institute, saw those proverbial old ladies always being heard about. They were standing looking at one of the more complicated paintings and one said, "It just doesn't make any sense at all." "That's all right," responded the other soothingly, "you just go right ahead and enjoy the color."

The Girl in the Shadows

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael Alloway, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about it, as Cynthia has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At prison, Bessie, Cynthia's friend, is wardress and changes places with her so she can marry Michael without him knowing of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Michael returns to his job in Malta and leaves her with his mother and sister, whereupon Cynthia returns to prison, but soon discovers she is going to have a baby. She escapes from prison and goes back to Michael's family. Clarke blackmails her, and Scotland Yard gets suspicious and arrests her as she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael. Her marriage date, when Clara Brown was supposed to be in prison, clears her, but Marion, Michael's sister, becomes suspicious when she discovers that Bessie (who has left the employment of the prison to work for Marion), has sent a message of warning to Cynthia. Bessie is forced to explain to Marion. Clarke attempts to blackmail Marion while she is staying in Cynthia's London flat. The police trail him to her flat, but he escapes, using Marion as a shield. Cynthia and Michael return to London with their newborn son and Clarke attempts to blackmail her again. Michael, feeling sure it is mistaken identity, notifies Scotland Yard, who hopes to trap Cynthia as well as Clarke. Clarke kidnaps Marion, but lets her return home after she promises to meet him the next day with money enough to escape England and not bother Cynthia and her any more. She meets him with the money, only to find on her her return home that he has broken his agreement and has extorted money from Cynthia on threat of kidnaping her baby. Furious over being tricked by Clarke, Marion takes Bessie with her and goes to his home, having remembered his address when she was kidnaped by him. The detectives trail them. Michael is in a dilemma when Scotland Yard attempts to question Bessie. Clarke is at last trailed to a ship and in a gun fight with the police is taken to the hospital, promising the police he will identify Clara Brown. Scotland Yard demands that Cynthia go to the hospital to see if he identifies her.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

The guards inside the room had been removed and instead were a shorthand writer and another official. These were standing clear by the window. A junior house surgeon stood by the head of the bed.

Rory Clarke was propped up on pillows, a wicker frame protecting him from the waist downwards. His eyes were bright with the effect of the drug.

He smiled at sight of Michael, who was the first to speak.

"Hullo, Clarke!"

"Alloway! The biggest bloomer I ever made was playing you against Harrow as wicket keeper. You muffed three chances."

"Yes, I'm afraid I wasn't worth my colors," agreed Michael. "Look here, Clarke, there's some trouble about my wife and the police. You might clear it up, will you?"

Clarke turned his head slightly so that his gaze fell on Cynthia.

"Hullo, sweetheart," he drawled, "how's tricks?"

Rason stepped forward.

"Do you identify this lady as Clara Brown?" he demanded.

It was Marion now who drew the sick man's gaze. She was holding across her breast a folded newspaper. The others ignored her, but they all heard her say: "Front page, Mr. Clarke," and to their surprise Clarke answered:

"Okay, girlie."

"Be quiet, please," Rason snapped at Marion. "Clarke, is this Clara Brown?"

"Awfully like her, what!" exclaimed Clarke. "Come a bit nearer, sweetheart."

A spasm of pain distorted his face as Cynthia took a step nearer to the bed.

"It's you—or your twin sister if you have one," gasped Clarke. "Pull your left sleeve up. Right up—so's I can see your elbow."

Cynthia was uncertain as to what to do. It was Marion who almost pulled her coat off and pulled up the sleeve of her silk jumper.

Clarke stared at the elbow as if he were looking for something, touched it and shook his head.

"Clara Brown had no mark on her elbow in prison!" cried Rason.

"No. I put it on her after she escaped. Humiliating confession. But you don't know how exasperating the fair Clara could be."

Michael had whipped out a fountain pen and was writing.

"You'll sign a statement, won't you, Clarke?" said Michael.

"Rather! Has the force of a statement on oath—signed by a dying man, what!"

It was a difficult business signing; and there was some doubt as to whether he could accomplish it. He stopped halfway and the doctor had to give him a whiff of oxygen before he could continue.

"I'll sign as witness if you like," said Rason dryly, "and I congratulate you, Mrs. Alloway."

"Alloway!"

In sheer compassion Michael went to the bedside and gripped Clarke's hand.

"I want you to find the chap who potted me. I've still got the First Eleven tiepin—pawnbrokers wouldn't take it. Give it to that chap from me. Sign that there's no ill-feeling."

Michael gave the assurance, but Clarke did not hear it, for he had lapsed into unconsciousness. While they were waiting for a taxi word was brought to them that he was dead.

For half the journey back none of them spoke. Cynthia was glowing with a sense of vast relief not unmixed with bewilderment. Why had Clarke suddenly behaved with chivalry?

And Marion had nearly spoiled everything by blurting out something about a newspaper.

"I think he was splendid!" From Marion came the sudden exclamation. "He died a brave man."

Cynthia and Michael were both startled to see that she was crying.

"He has cleaned up this ridiculous mess, anyhow," said Michael. "Can't help feeling obliged to him for that."

"He might have been a really fine character," sobbed Marion. Michael offered a handkerchief and she mopped herself up. "I'm sorry I've made a fool of myself. I'm all right now," she added shamefacedly.

As soon as they arrived at the hotel Cynthia went in search of Bessie, found her in her own room, and told her what had happened.

The two women embraced as they remembered all that they had suffered together.

"And now it's all over, Bessie. We need never think or talk about it again. The only bad thing that remains is that you have given up your career for me."

"You needn't worry about that, Miss Cynthia. And there's just one person I'm going to talk to about it—or part of it anyhow—and that's Mr. Detective Sergeant Stevens, C. I. D. He looked at us yesterday afternoon as if he thought we were guilty."

Michael was whistling when Cynthia rejoined him in their room.

"Funny Marion getting worked up like that!" he remarked. "She's all right now. I believe she had a sort of romantic fixation on Clarke. I've heard of women admiring criminals, but it's rather unexpected in Marion."

"She will forget it," opined Cynthia.

"We'll all forget it," echoed Michael. "Too many odds and ends sticking out. Don't mind telling you last night I was beginning to wonder where we all stood."

"Michael! What do you mean?"

"O, well, there were all those lapses of memory—and our having to pretend Bessie was at our wedding when she wasn't—she was evidently playing some game of her own."

"But, Michael, what did you suspect?"

"Nothing. I don't care twopence what Bessie did or did not do. And Marion's affairs are her own. And as for you——"

"As for me?" she asked breathlessly.

"Dashed if that detective fellow didn't start me wondering whether you weren't an escaped convict after all." He laughed and imprisoned her waist. "You!" He held her close. "As if you would swing a whopping great fake on your ugly old husband! Darling! Why, what's the matter?"

She had drawn away, seeing quite clearly that if she were to let that moment of absolute trust rest upon a lie it would poison her conscience for the rest of their joint lives.

"I did swing the fake on you, Michael. I was convicted as Clara Brown."

She heard the quick intake of his breath, but would not look at his face for fear of what she might see there.

"Please sit down, Michael—where I can't see you. And don't speak, please, until I have finished."

Let Bedtime Be a Beauty Time for You

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Look pretty when you retire," should be the slogan for the up to date woman, whether she be single or married. There may be no sudden fire in the middle of the night to rout you out of bed in a hurry, and send you scurrying outdoors to be viewed by the throng in your curl papers, minus your makeup, and wrapped in a faded flannel bathrobe, but you may have another audience—your husband or your family. You owe it to yourself and to them not to look like a nightmarish apparition. Even if you're living all by your lonesome, there is no better cure for the "blues" than to look like something you won't be afraid to see in the mirror.

If you do your hair up in curlers you can camouflage them with a turban made of a pastel shade of tulle, or a nightcap fashioned from a gay bandana. The effect you'll achieve will make you look like a sprite or an Indian princess, and you'll feel a lot more feminine, or exotic, too.

This business of removing all your makeup before you go to sleep is mighty important, for while you're relaxed in dreamland your skin pores should be clean and open to let them breathe. A nourishing cream or oil rubbed gently into your cleaned pores will provide the lubricatiton and vitamins so necessary to the health of your skin, but it is not essential to leave on any excess cream or oil so that you look as tho you'd dipped your face in melted grease. Blot off the excess with a cleansing tissue to give a soft, smooth finish.

There is no treatment more conducive to restful sleep and vibrant beauty than a warm shower or tub bath just before hopping into bed. Flagrant bath, or talcum powder dusted over your body, and a dab of scent-matching c

City folk who have a longing for real southern cooking can find it these days not far out of the loop in a new restaurant on the near north side. Southern fried chicken you eat as you've always secretly wanted to, with your fingers, and there's spoon bread, Dixie style, too. All the food is cooked by colored experts from the south.

Kentucky hams, buttermilk biscuits, homemade pies and cakes made by "down south" recipes are on the menu. There's "atmosphere" here, too, for the restaurant is situated in an old Chicago home which still contains marble pillars from the first Chicago world's fair, and a $40,000 [present value] fireplace given to the former owner by the king of Italy.

Crumb and nut macaroons are good. Toast your stale bread lightly and crush it fine with a rolling pin to get the crumbs required.

Crumb and Nut Macaroons.
[About 2½ dozen.]
1 cup fine dry breadcrumbs
1 cup finely chopped nuts
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 well beaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine ingredients and drop from a teaspoon onto a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove from the sheet at once, or the macaroons will stick.

CARROTS AND GEORGE WASHINGTON: The father of his country was the first American to raise domestic carrots, it is said. Which reminds me, illogically, that steamed whole carrots, glazed slightly in hot butter-sugar and water sirup, taste better than you'd ever suppose carrots could taste. Steamed whole carrots served with plenty of butter are good, too.

HOW TO SOUR MILK: When there's no sour milk in the refrigerator, and you want some for biscuits or a cake, squeeze a tablespoon and a half of lemon juice into a cup and fill the cup with sweet milk or diluted evaporated milk. The lemon won't flavor the biscuit or cake, but it will react with the milk to give the same results as naturally soured milk or buttermilk.

BROILED ORANGE SLICES: These are an attractive meat garnish. Slice medium or large seedless eating oranges. Slice, skin and all, and dip the slices into French dressing. Broil until edges of fruit are slightly browned, 5 to 10 minutes, and serve hot with meat.

CRISPY CELERY SALAD: This is ever so good. Use only tender, crisp inner stalks of dwarf celery. Cut in two inch pieces, and cut each piece in about three places from one end almost to the other. Crisp in ice water for several hours, until the cut ends curl. Dry thoroly and serve on greens or in a salad bowl with a mustard cream dressing. To make the dressing mix a teaspoonful of prepared mustard and the juice of a small lemon with a little salt and freshly ground black pepper. Add ¾ cup whippable cream and chill for several hours. Taste to see that salt and pepper are in the right proportion. Beat the mixture, after standing until slightly thickened.

Voice Tested

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Constance Merrell, 1550 South Ashland avenue, as her soprano voice was being auditioned yesterday at the City Opera company.

With the last chorus auditions scheduled for today by the Chicago City Opera company, Henry Weber, musical director of the opera, reported yesterday that many young voices of surprising beauty had been discovered during the tryouts.

Three hundred and forty young men and women will have been heard by judges at the close of today's audition. From that number 80 will be selected as chorus members for the coming opera season. Rehearsals will begin next week. Male voices will be rehearsed at 6:30 p. m. Monday, and the women will begin training at the same hour on Tuesday.

Judges yesterday were Noble Cain, Mrs. Walter Kirk, Claudia Cassidy, Edgar Nelson, Helen Howe, and George Czaplicki.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

I venture to say that the fate of 75 per cent of hands [assuming the contract arrived at is a good one but not a laydown] rests on the first two plays. The importance of the opening lead has been stressed on innumerable occasions; the imagination and reasoning involved in it has been discussed at length, but of almost equal moment is the second play in those cases in which the defenders have retained the lead. This is where the blind analysis of the opening lead must be either confirmed or revised, after consideration of the dummy and partner's follow-suit card.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's jump to game was a "stretch." Three hearts, over the weak single raise, would have been more accurate. Then North would raise to game, rather than hang a trick short, his previous raise having been unshaded.

West opened the club king. Had East automatically signaled with a high card for a continuation, the contract would have been as good as made, but East realized that whatever club tricks the declarer had to lose could be taken later, since they required no establishment. A spade trick, on the other hand, if one existed, had to be set up. And that, before dummy's diamonds were established! So East played the deuce of clubs on the first lead, demanding a shift. West had no difficulty in choosing the proper shift: trumps and diamonds were patently out of the question. He therefore led the deuce of spades, and now declarer had no chance for his contract. Before he could clear away the ace and king of diamonds the defenders had established their spade trick for the setting trick.

Incidentally, West's second lead of the fourth best spade told East, by a count of declarer's spades, which trick to cash [a spade or a club] when he finally took the lead with his diamond ace.

Child's Care Falls to Dad; Here's Story

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co Inc.]

Letters from fathers are among my most interesting reading. It implies a great deal of interest when a busy mother takes time out to sit down and write about a difficulty, or a solution, or even a welcome appreciation. But when a father does it, to me it implies an even greater concern. At the end of a day of substituting for his wife, one of this column's masculine readers took his pen in hand or, rather, got out his typewriter, and this is the result.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I don't belong in your column, but 'mama's gone to buy a little girl,' leaving me closer to the problem of child rearing than it's ever been my pleasure to be.

"I can't resist seconding the thought in your Sunday article of Jan. 28. All the wisdom of child rearing technique is epitomized in your injunction, 'Don't think of what your child does in terms of your own convenience.' I have just put to bed a 2 year old case history to substantiate it.

"It never ceases to amaze our friends, that since he was 18 months old our son could be trusted to procure a bowl and a package of gelatine from the closet, empty the contents neatly and dispose of the box. He opens cans quite deftly, segregates the groceries, putting them in the proper closets [no, he can't read the labels but, like most children, he can read pictures and can tell the contents of most canned goods by the label design] and sets the table with reasonable accuracy. Sure, he breaks an occasional dish, but then he sweeps up the pieces and apologizes for the accident.

"These are but a few instances of your theory in practice. When questioned about it my wife admits it takes longer to let the boy 'help' than to shoo him out of the way and do things herself, but when she found herself with a child who had the energy to climb on top of the piano and the ingenuity to reach such precarious perches by climbing from his personal chair to the piano bench and then pulling the chair up after him to form the next step, something had to be done. Tedious tho it may be to direct childish energies into useful channels, it is far easier on the nerves than trying to curb the adventurous spirit that drives them from one mischief to another.

"After four days of minding my son, I recommend to all mothers [and fathers, too] your method of training a child.

"Very truly yours, L. W."

The Housewife

One of the neatest, cleverest tricks of the pastry week is an invention which helps the busy cook to make filled doughnuts, or apple tarts or dumplings, or any small pieces of filled pastry in a hurry. After you've put the filling on the pastry dough and pulled a piece over the top just take this new device, a cutter, and clamp down with it. It looks like a cookie cutter except that it has a solid top and is deeper. Lift it up and presto, you have a beautifully turned out tart or filled doughnuta, or whatever, all ready to pop into the oven. They will be perfectly shaped and pinked around the edges, too.

Dress Suited to Many Roles

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The simplicity of this dress makes it suitable for many rôles. You may wear it around the home for informal hostessing, or don it for an afternoon of club activity. Business women will like its tailored lines, for they seem to spell efficiency.

The V neckline has a soft collar, rather wide, and there are buttons all the way down the front. [A slide fastener may be used if you like.] The pockets are simply mammoth, which makes them fashionable as well as useful. Sleeves may be long or short.

Use cottons, silks, or lightweight woolens. Plain shades are equally as effective as plaids and stripes.

Style No. 3240 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Alexander McNab and Mildred King Wed in Elopement

Bridgeport, Conn., March 1 [Special.]—The elopement and wedding in Warrenton, Va., last Wednesday of Mrs. Mildred Holmes King, of Fairfield, Conn., and Commander Alexander McNab, of Bridgeport, a retired engineering officer of the British royal navy, was announced here yesterday. The bride, a member of the Bridgeport Junior league, is the daughter of Oliver W. Holmes of Chicago. In 1937 she obtained a Reno divorce from Harry O. King, industrialist, who since then has married Mrs. Isabella Greenway. Commander McNab is a famed inventor of marine machinery. It is his third marriage.

Crocheted Items for Baby

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

It is a simple matter and not a question of time when it comes to crocheting the small shoes, bootees and cap for the newborn baby. These items are new and decidedly easy to crochet. Working with a good quality of wool adds pleasure to an already worthwhile occupation. The average crochet worker can complete one set in two hours' time.

For instructions in crocheting the shoes, bootees and baby cap, No. X-191, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Women Prove Skill at Leap Year Art Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A definitely leap year exhibition is that of paintings by women artists of Chicago at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. It is an unusually fine show, as tho the women had put their best foot forward in a determined effort to convince themselves and the world that they by themselves could do something important in the art world. Their effort has been successful and the exhibition is one of the best in the galleries about town this month.

Frances Foy, who stole the recent Chicago Society of Artists' show with a portrait, again is tops—and with another portrait. This time it is a superb painting of Beatrice Levy, beautifully modulated. Mary C. Peterson shares glories with Frances Foy thru the rare charm of her exquisitely painted "Still Life." Macena and Rosana Barton are each showing flower pictures and both pictures are very handsome and very decorative. Eugenie Glamen, painter and etcher of animals, touches a sentimental note in her beautifully drawn "Ewe and Lamb."

There are a great many interesting and delightful canvases in this leap year exhibition. Among them are "Harbor Springs," by Marie Blanke; "White Primrose," by Edna Hirt; "Old Copper," by Leslie Buck; "Spring," by Jessie Field; "Green Apples," by Katherine Evans; "Portrait, Rifka Angel," by Rowena Fry; "Head of Girl," by Flora Schofield, and "Winter Color," by Florence White Williams.

A most delightful group of paintings by Olive Rush has been hung at the Hoosier gallery, 211 Wacker drive. Miss Rush shares the gallery with L. O. Griffith, who is showing a number of landscapes in oil. The one which captivated our imagination is "Windy Day," gray houses low in the landscape under a stormy sky.

Olive Rush has been painting in New Mexico for some time and doing a great many intriguing murals. The water colors in her present show are characteristic of her unique style, one that recalls the best in Japanese art. Her colors are soft, her subjects deer, cats or flowers, sketched in with great simplicity. There is never a stroke too few or too many and the effect is invariably perfect and charming. Her "Cat Drinking" is fascinating, and among the others "Deer and Tree," "Three Deer Running" [note the magical way in which the artist conveys a sense of speed and grace in a moving animal], "Kittens and Papers," "Doves and Flowers," and "Christmas Roses in Snow" flow into one another and make up one of the most lovely exhibits we have seen in a long while.

Phi Mu Anniversary.

The Chicago Alumnæ association of Phi Mu will celebrate the 88th anniversary of the sorority's founding at a banquet this evening in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. An initiation ceremony will precede the dinner, at which Mrs. Cecil Dawson will be toastmistress.

By WYNN

Saturday, March 2.

Stick to the earliest possible plan of today; afternoon offers temptings that would probably prove somewhat irrational; late evening brings desire to put ideas into action—O. K. where possible, if the plan has been carefully tested.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, till next you celebrate, is excellent for developing more skill, learning and earning more. An intellectually ambitious year, but avoid materialism. Danger: April 11-27; Aug. 23-Sept. 12; Jan. 14-22, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Morning unreliable; much better ideas and plans to be had in afternoon.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

University Club.

The Woman's University Club of Chicago will sponsor a membership tea this afternoon in its lounge, 410 South Michigan avenue. Virginia Auyer, contralto, and Elsie Alexander, pianist, will play. Miss LaVerne Hand is handling arrangements.

PURDUE PLAYS INDIANA TONIGHT FOR TITLE, REVENGE

BOILERMAKERS SEEK CLINCHER ON HOME COURT

Beaten by Old Rivals Earlier in Year.

Tonight's Games

Indiana at Purdue.
Michigan at Ohio State.
Northwestern at Wisconsin.
Illinois at Iowa.
Minnesota at Chicago.
Notre Dame at Marquette.
Concordia at De Paul.
Lake Forest at Knox.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Altho Purdue is assured at least a share in the Western conference basketball title, its 12th since Ward Lambert left Lebanon High school in 1917 to take charge of the Boilermakers, an additional victory will give Purdue an undisputed championship. The Boilermakers meet Indiana tonight in Lafayette and finish the campaign at Illinois Monday.

Bill Menke.

Both teams are long time rivals of Purdue, but there is no question this year that Purdue would prefer to whip Indiana for the title clinching game. Three weeks ago the Hoosiers walloped Purdue, 46 to 39. That's the only Purdue defeat in the Big Ten altho in the preliminary testing period De Paul and Southern California were victors over the Boilermakers.

They're Two Strong Foes.

It will be just as well for Purdue if it takes its intended revenge this evening, not only for the desire to prove equality with thrice beaten Indiana but Purdue quite likely will have a difficult time whipping the Illini in Champaign. That has been a jinx court for Purdue.

Ohio State's victory over Indiana Monday night, 44 to 26, almost ruined the Hoosiers' title hopes but it may have prepared the Indiana quintet for the kind of a battle required to outscore the Boilermakers who now lead the Big Ten in team shooting. Indiana only can tie for the championship by winning tonight and Monday from Ohio State. If this isn't a large enough order, success also depends on Illinois whipping Purdue Monday.

Ohio Still Has Chance.

Illinois would seem to have the better chance since its opponent tonight is Iowa in Iowa City. But the Illini are dependent on an Indiana victory over Purdue. Ohio State also has a mathematical chance to tie Purdue by winning from Michigan tonight and then defeating Indiana. But in all combinations Purdue must lose twice.

Actually the chief interest in the game tonight in Purdue's fieldhouse is the desire of the Boilermakers to even the annual series with Indiana. No other game attracts as much interest in the state which many regard as the No. 1 basketball state in the nation.

9,000 to Watch Old Foes.

A capacity crowd of 9,000 will attend tonight's game. Purdue has won 51 of the 63 basketball contests between the rival Indiana quintets.

In the final home game of the season Chicago's basketball team meets Minnesota, the only team it has defeated.

"Stop Dick Klein" is the watchword at Wisconsin for the encounter with Northwestern. Klein, an outstanding sophomore in Big Ten basketball, has scored 125 points in 10 conference games.

GOLDEN GLOVERS RESUME DRILLS FOR TITLE BOUTS

Sam Stinson of Peoria Has Big Following.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Thirty-two amateur boxers will resume training today in gymnasiums scattered from Cleveland to Oklahoma City. They'll be preparing for the last concerted drive toward the sport's greatest goal—Golden Glove championships. With renewed spirit they'll return to Chicago next week to fight semi-final and final bouts Wednesday evening in the Stadium.

These 32 demonstrated their class by coming unbeaten thru the Tournament of Champions, which drew the best boxers of 23 states. Tho the competition they've already survived was tough enough, they're now facing an even harder test. After beating every one else, they now have to fight each other. Only four boys are left in each weight division and after Wednesday's bouts there will be only one.

Twenty-one Cities Represented.

Each of the 21 towns still represented in the struggle has its hopes tied up in one or more boxers. The boys who returned victorious from the Tournament of Champions received stormy welcomes and strong encouragement to go on to final victory.

Tho Detroit has the strongest representation numerically—four—boxing fans in all of the cities are equally confident that a title will come their way, even tho they have only one boy left in the running. Peoria, for instance, is depending on Sam Stinson alone—but he's a mighty good little fighter to depend on. Those who saw him knock out the defending flyweight champion, Vic Saccoia of Detroit, agree that he has a punch that may carry him to a title Wednesday evening. Sam's home town is Galesburg, where he works as a section hand.

Chicago Fighters Liked.

Chicago's own fighters—Cornelius Young, Savior Canadeo, and Harold Dade—will get back into light action today in the C. Y. O. gymnasium. All of them came thru the Tournament of Champions so impressively that their friends, after scanning the list of other survivors, are unable to see who can beat these boys. But almost anything can happen in a boxing ring, so there's no telling whether Chicago will have three titles or none at all when the slugging is over Wednesday evening.

Boxing fans of Chicago and of neighboring states were so enthusiastic about the Tournament of Champions that they've launched a tremendous rush for tickets to the finals. All $3.30, $2.20, and $1.65 seats have been sold. Tickets at $1.10 still are available in the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in Tribune Tower lobby.

Perhaps I can help you, sir?"

There was certainly nothing epic in that,
But for reasons I cannot just say
Something friendly and warm and bright
Remained as I went on my way;

How some little act by the way
Can leave in its wake an afterglow
That illumines the rest of the day?

GARCIA BATTLES ARMSTRONG TO 10 ROUND DRAW

Filipino Still Champion in Two States.

Fight Decisions

At Los Angeles—Ceferino Garcia and Henry Armstrong fought to draw [10]; Young Henry stopped Dane Johnson [4]; Nat Bor and Eddie Fadda fought to draw [2], bout stopped due to injury to Fadda.

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Sammy Angott beat Quentin [Babe] Breese [8]; Billy Marquart beat Joey Silva, [10]; Tommy Palatin beat Milo Theodoresco [8]; Annuncio Ferraro beat Marty Collura [8]; Steve Souris beat Carl Schumacher, [4]; Jack Pensau beat George Feltes, [4].

At Dallas, Tex.—Joe Pasante beat Joe Morales [8]; Joe Johnson knocked out Sebastian Gonzales [8].

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 1.—Ceferino Garcia, recognized in this state and New York as the world's middleweight champion, and Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion and former featherweight and lightweight title holder, tonight fought to a ten round bloody draw in Gilmore stadium here.

Referee George Blake let the boys go, not being too fussy about low blows, elbowing, butting, shoulder nudging, and other extracurricular devices at which both fighters are adept when the lid is off.

Garcia Has Weight Edge.

Armstrong, who weighed 142 and seemed much smaller than he really was as compared to Garcia's 153½, kept his head and arms close to the Filipino except such times as Garcia was able to back up and slash at momentary long range. Thruout the bout Garcia jolted the smaller man when he could get away from Henry's boring in tactics.

As early as the second round both fighters were bleeding freely, Armstrong from the mouth and Garcia from a cut right eye.

In the fifth round Referee Blake issued the first of several warnings to Armstrong, but Henry was so intent on his chore that he kept on roughing it. It was late in the fourth that Garcia burned Henry with a long right and this seemed to stir the Negro to a bruising rat-it-tat-tat on both sides of Garcia's head. There wasn't a dull round in the 10 and the battlers ended in a not too scientific foray. Henry continued to keep on top of Ceferino, the latter managing to effect enough retreats to biff Henry at the long range more to his liking.

In California the referee gives the decision without fiddling around with the collection of score cards. Blake had to pause only long enough to pull Henry off Ceferino seconds after the final bell had sounded. He then indicated the draw, which seemed to be satisfactory to the customers.

26,000 Attend Bout.

Southern California, accustomed to the supercolossal in all spectacles save boxing—strictly neighborhood and small hall in the fisticuff art—emerged with a turnout that delighted fight impresario and fans in these parts. An estimated crowd of 26,000 paid almost $80,000 to see the winter outdoor show and gave Hollywood visions of a heavyweight championship match involving some one of greater importance than 50 year old Jack Roper, who stepped in a Los Angeles ring with Joe Louis a year ago just long enough to insert a mouthpiece in front of his store teeth.

Tonight's draw, of course, enabled Garcia to retain his somewhat curtailed "world middleweight title," and probably saved a lot of debating that might have ensued had Armstrong been able to claim a fourth title. In any event, it was strictly a California championship at stake. New York goes for Ceferino only in 15 round encounters.

Shoots at $376,744 Record Today

Seabiscuit, Charles S. Howard's 1938 stake champion, will be shooting at Sun Beau's all time money winning record of $376,744 today when he tries for the third time to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. Seabiscuit has won $351,080 in his career.

N. U. INTERCEPTS A BATON; BEATS MAROONS, 42-35

Something's always happening to the University of Chicago in athletics.

Last night's indoor track meet against Northwestern in the Midway fieldhouse was no exception.

When the rivals lined up for the one mile relay, the Maroons were trailing by 37 to 35. The meet depended upon what happened in this last event.

Everything went swell in the early part of the race. Bill Plumley, running second for the Maroons, led his foe by 10 yards as he neared the finish of his lap. Then—and here's where something happened to the Maroons—Bill tried to pass the baton to Jim Mullendore, who was waiting for the No. 2 Northwestern runner, Mullendore's job being to run third for the Wildcats.

In the mixup, Plumley and Bill Stabenau, No. 3 runner for the Maroons, took headers. The result was a loss of 25 yards, Walcott Beatty, Chicago anchor man, retrieved 20 of the yards, but Northwestern won the race by five yards—and the meet, by 42 to 35.

Jim Smith of Northwestern set a new record for Wildcat jumpers as Northwestern swept the event for the only slam of the evening. Rollins Lambert, Chicago sophomore, was high point man with a first in the one mile and a second in the half mile.

60 YARDS—Won by Piker, Northwestern; Davenport, Chicago, second; Beatty, Chicago, third. Time, :06.3.

ONE MILE—Won by Lambert, Chicago; Carmody, Northwestern, second; Ratzer, Chicago, third. Time, 5:43.8.

$50,000 Test for Widener Cup Draws 18

Miami, Fla., March 1 (AP).—A large but mediocre field of 18 thorobreds was named today for tomorrow's $50,000 Widener challenge cup, climax of a record breaking season at Hialeah Park.

If all 18 go to the post—there may be a late scratch or two—the race will have a gross value of $67,650 and will net the winner's owner $53,000.

The track is prepared to accommodate the largest crowd in its history, a predicted 25,000, and to handle more than $1,000,000 in bets for the first time since the boom days.

Tropical Park Next.

Hialeah park has been running far ahead of last season in both attendance and wagering, and today's prediction was that the pari-mutuel increase would be about $4,000,000. A total of $21,786,411 was bet at Hialeah during the 46 day meeting last year.

Tropical Park, which showed a $1,000,000 increase on its fall meet, reopens Monday to operate thru April 10.

Tomorrow's mile and a quarter Widener was considered a wide open race, altho Leo J. Marks' Many Stings, winner of the $10,000 McLennan Memorial two weeks ago, was conceded a slight edge on performance.

Many Stings in Light.

Many Stings, with Jockey Ruperto Donoso up, was assigned only 109 pounds, nine less than he carried in the McLennan. Marshall Field's Sir Damion, second to Bull Lea in the Widener last year, will be ridden by Don Meade and will carry top weight of 120.

The field follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Probable odds.
Sir Damion	120	D. Meade	6 1
†Technician	118	F. A. Smith	25-1
The Chief	113	J. Stout	8-1

SEABISCUIT AND KAYAK FAVORED AT SANTA ANITA

$100,000 Purse Is Sought by 14.

Purses totaling $150,000 will be at stake in two important horse races today. At Santa Anita Park, Arcadia, Cal., Seabiscuit heads a field of 14 in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, and at Hialeah in Miami, Fla., a record field of 18 has been named for the $50,000 Widener cup.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Arcadia, Cal., March 1.—Southern California horse players, long Seabiscuit crazy before they began to suspect the American turf's second largest money winner was washed up, are crazier than ever over C. S. Howard's great speedster on the eve of the sixth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. Seabiscuit's handy victory in the San Antonio handicap here last Saturday has put a lot of comeback drama in a race which otherwise would have had to rely upon its prestige as the country's richest racing event.

The fact that Seabiscuit, the idol and in 1939 idle horse, is coupled in the betting with last year's winner, Kayak II., has helped put a crimp in worshippers who might hope to get rich by betting on their pet. The Seabiscuit-Kayak entry today was quoted at 4-5, but those who ponder the fact Seabiscuit must carry 130 pounds and his South American stablemate 129, expect the price at post time might be even money or a shade better.

Seabiscuit Near Record.

The 7 year old Seabiscuit has won $351,080, as compared with the all time record $376,744 earnings of Sun Beau. Victory tomorrow, with a purse not likely to hold less than $86,000 for the winner even with probable scratches out of the field, of course, would enable Seabiscuit to become the all time money king with thousands to spare. Even $20,000 second place would put him so close to Sun Beau's total that he would be assured of taking the crown in a later minor handicap.

The Santa Anita hundred grander is nothing new in Seabiscuit's life. He was nosed out by Rosemont in 1937 and in 1938 Stagehand, carrying only 100 pounds, also beat him by a nose. Last year he was in training for the event when he suffered injuries which took him out of action for 11 months.

Whichcee, Heelfly Liked.

While all the excitement is focused on the comeback try of Seabiscuit and his jockey, Red Pollard, who also has had plenty of tough turf luck, the race is not without its spots for the players who like to gamble on something better than even money. Whichcee is a rapid beast fancied by many. Maj. A. C. Taylor's pride, second last year, will be about 4 to 1, according to overnight calculations.

Then there's Heelfly, whose bad behavior at the post will be curbed somewhat by the new fangled magnetic gate which has been such an outstanding success at Santa Anita. They're guessing 6 to 1 for Heelfly at the wickets tomorrow.

Expect Fast Track.

The track, sloppy yesterday and good today, is expected to be fast tomorrow, with nothing in sight but sunshine. This has slowed down the hopes of Bing Crosby and Lin Howard for their Don Mike, one of the four South Americans scheduled to start.

If estimates of a crowd of 70,000 stand up, it will be the largest turnout in the history of southern California racing.

BRUINS TO MEET KAUTSKYS; SEEK PLAYOFF PLACE

Chicago Quintet Makes a Fine Recovery.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Bruins will play their 27th game of the National Basketball league schedule tonight against the Indianapolis Kautskys in the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets. A couple of weeks ago the Bruins, staggering around in third place, appeared to be out of the championship playoffs and looked forward to tonight's contest as game No. 27, the last of the season on their home court.

Now, the battle shapes up as THE game of the year, for a happy combination of circumstances have projected the Chicago quintet into a situation whereby they may even gain a tie for first place. All of this second guessing, however, depends not only on tonight's game in the armory, but also on the result of the argument between the Oshkosh All-Stars and the Akron Firestones, to be played at the same time in Oshkosh.

Three Teams Are Close.

The current congestion among the first three teams in the western division of the league began Wednesday evening, when the Bruins whipped the Hammond Ciesars, 31 to 27, while the Oshkosh five was absorbing a 42 to 35 licking from the Akron Goodyears.

The Firestones then further complicated the picture Thursday night by trimming the first place Sheboygan Redskins, 42 to 32. This game completed the Redskins' regular schedule with 15 victories and 13 defeats. Oshkosh enters its last game of the schedule tonight with a record of 14 won and 13 lost. The Bruins go into the Indianapolis contest with a .500 rating, based on 13 decisions and as many defeats.

If Oshkosh wins tonight and the Bruins lose, then the question of which two teams will represent the western division in the title playoffs will be cleared up and the Bruins will be out of it. If the Bruins win and the All-Stars lose, however, the Chicagoans can gain a first place tie with Sheboygan and Oshkosh by winning their final game, to be played against the Eagles in Detroit Tuesday night.

Oram May Play.

Eddie Oram, former Southern California star, whose injury a month ago did much to hamper the Bruins' progress, will direct the team from the bench tonight, as he did during Wednesday's victory over Hammond. He is taking the place of Coach Sam Lifschultz, who has been called to Florida by the illness of his mother.

Polo Leaders Play Tonight in Double Bill

The 124th Field Artillery and Ranchers polo teams will defend their division leads in the Metropolitan league lead tonight in the 124th armory. The Ranchers, only unbeaten team in the league, will open the program against the 122d Field Artillery trio in the four to six goal or junior division.

Senior champions for the last two seasons, the 124th Field Artillery riders will encounter the Chicago Ramblers in the windup.

The Edgebrook Lancerettes, a group of eight young equestriennes, will drill between games.

RIGGS REACHES INDOOR FINALS AGAINST M'NEILL

New York, March 1 (AP).—Bobby Riggs entered the final round of the National Indoor Tennis tournament today by defeating Frank Froehling, fellow Chicagoan, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. Riggs will mee Don McNeill of Oklahoma City for the championship tomorrow.

In the women's division tomorrow's rivals will be Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., who entered the final round yesterday, and Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, who today whipped Gracyn Wheeler, also of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-0.

Art Thurnblad Poker Face of Billiard Meet

[This is the third of a series of sketches on the entrants in the world's three cushion championship billiards tournament, to be held in Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, from March 11 to April 4, inclusive.]

There are few sports without their poker face competitors and Arthur Thurnblad is proof that billiards is no exception. Behind Art's generally somber visage, however, is one of the keenest minds in the game, and his proven ability makes him one of the most dangerous men in the field. If Thurnblad doesn't win the title, the records of the event will show him scoring more than one upset, and generally when least expected.

Art Thurnblad.

Thurnblad was born in Chicago in 1892 and has played billiards since he was 15 years old. His original ambition was to be an artist, but he earned his first money as a golf caddy. He is a draftsman by trade, but now conducts a billiard room in Kenosha, Wis., where he has not only been practicing for the present tournament, but also conducting classes in three cushion play for beginners and promising players.

The tall Arthur's knowledge of drafting makes him one of the master diagnosticians of angle shots. He is one of the best practitioners of the diamond system in billiards, and his drafting experience makes him one of the swiftest calculators of shots the world tourney will see.

Thurnblad first became prominent in competitive billiards in 1924, when he won the Chicago Billiard League championship. Seven years later, he was entered in the world tournament here. He kept stroking along until the final match of the show, where he met the youthful Allen Hall in the battle to decide the tournament. Hall was a decided favorite, but when the match was over, the Thurnblad poker face was the one which broke out in a victory smile.

Handley Signs; Vaughan, Bauers Still on Outside

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 1 (AP).—Lee Handley, star third baseman, signed a contract for the 1940 season with the Pittsburgh Pirates today at the San Bernardino, Cal., training camp, President William E. Benswanger informed the club headquarters here.

Signing of Handley left only two players, Pitcher Russell Bauers and Shortstop Arky Vaughan, out of the fold. They are expected to sign within a week.

POSEDEL COMES TO TERMS.

Bradenton, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Bill Posedel, the Boston Bees' most effective 1939 pitcher, came to terms with the club today and was put thru a double workout.

The day was devoted to individual instruction, with Manager Casey Stengel advising the pitchers, Al Lopez the catchers, Tony Cuccinello the infielders, and Johnny Cooney the outfielders.

GROVE WORKS HARD.

Sarasota, Fla., March 1 (AP).—The veteran Lefty Grove, who will celebrate his 40th birthday next week, was the first player on and the last one to quit the field today when Manager Joe Cronin opened the Red Sox's spring training season with a light workout.

BRADLEY, ALLEN TO CONFER.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Efforts to sign Johnny Allen, holdout pitcher, were called off today on orders of President Alva Bradley until after Bradley's arrival at the Cleveland Indians' spring training camp here March 8.

"If Allen doesn't want to work he doesn't have to," Bradley declared in Cleveland. "I think we've made a very fair proposition to him. No, we're not considering a compromise."

REDS' ROOKIE INJURED.

Tampa, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Rookie Hurler Gene Hinrichs became the Reds' first training season casualty today, halting with his head a line drive off the bat of Russ Bevell, recruit infielder. Hinrichs took it standing and walked from the field under his own power. He was not seriously hurt.

CHAPMAN HITS HOMER.

Anaheim, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Outfielder Sam Chapman whaled the first official home run for the Philadelphia Athletics in their training camp today. Coming to bat with Bob Johnson on base in the fifth and last inning of an intracamp struggle, Chapman pasted one of Chief Hogsett's pitches over the 400 foot wall in center field.

PHILLIPS ENTERS SEMI-FINALS OF CITY PREP RACE

Defeats Morgan Park Five by 34 to 25 Score.

Wendell Phillips became the first qualifier for the senior semi-finals of the Chicago Public High School Basketball league yesterday, defeating Morgan Park, 34 to 17, on a neutral court in the Du Sable gymnasium.

Phillips, winner of the central section title, got away to a 20 to 11 half time lead in eliminating the second place team of the south division and advancing to next week's series when four teams will battle it out for the league title. The winner will represent Chicago in the state tournament in Champaign, March 14-16.

Roosevelt Beats Senn.

Roosevelt seniors also remained in the post-season running by defeating Schurz yesterday, 46 to 37, on the Senn court in a playoff for second place in the north section. Roosevelt will resume action this afternoon in the 132d regiment armory in a quarter-final contest against Crane Tech, west section champion.

Two other senior quarter-final games are scheduled for today. Amundsen, north section winner, meets Austin of the west section at Lane Tech this afternoon. Hirsch, undefeated south section winner, opposes Manley, second place team of the central division, in the Mount Carmel gymnasium tonight.

Tilden, Marshall Juniors Win.

Tilden and Marshall advanced to the junior semi-finals with victories yesterday. Tilden, central section runner-up, whipped Parker juniors, south zone title holders, 45 to 19. Marshall, west section champion, defeated Waller juniors, north section runners-up, 34 to 17.

Hirsch juniors defeated Hyde Park last night, 33 to 30, in Mount Carmel gymnasium in a playoff for second place in the south section. Lineups:

ANGOTT WINS DECISION OVER QUENTIN BREESE

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1 [Special].—Sammy Angott, Louisville, Ky., lightweight, pounded out a decision in 10 rounds over Quentin [Babe] Breese in the Auditorium tonight. Except for a two count knockdown scored by Angott in the seventh round, the contest held little to excite the 5,600 spectators who contributed estimated receipts of $9,000.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, beat Joey Silva of Los Angeles in a semi-final fight which stole the show. In an additional match of eight rounds Tommy Pallatin, St. Joseph, Mich., welterweight, registered an upset by beating Milo Theodoresou of Rumania.

MARSHALL LOOKS OTHER WAY, THEN NAGURSKI WINS

Bronko Nagurski, who gained fame as a full back at Minnesota in 1929, remained in the limelight by throwing Everett Marshall, veteran La Junta, Colo., heavyweight wrestler, in 28 minutes and 10 seconds in the Coliseum last night. The fall was accomplished with Marshall's help. It seems that when the guileless Coloradoan turned his head to protest to Referee Tony Hadjich about Nagurski's alleged rough tactics. Bronko forgot his manners and dropped Marshall with a flying tackle.

Ralph [Ruffy] Silverstein, west side heavyweight, threw Eddie Virag in 17:10 in a secondary feature.

ALLEGHANY CORP. ACCOUNTING IS ASSAILED BY SEC

But Reports Corrections Have Been Made.

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission said today that Alleghany corporation had failed "to apply proper accounting principles" in working up certain financial statements filed with the commission over a four year period beginning with 1934.

Amendments correcting the original statements have been filed, however, the commission reported in making public results of an investigation of the statements, and no further SEC action will be taken. The commission explained that it believed its report would "serve to inform the investing public of the past deficiencies." The investigation was ordered in July, 1938, on grounds that the SEC had reason to believe that Alleghany had filed false and misleading statements.

Subjects Under Question.

The statements questioned concerned what the commission described as bond discount and expense amounting to about $5,000,000, net losses on sale of investments amounting to $23,000,000, and a loss of $29,612,125 resulting from a contract between Alleghany and Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company.

The "net effect of failing to apply proper accounting principles" to those transactions, the SEC declared, was illustrated by the surplus accounts for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934.

The commission said that the balance sheet filed originally indicated an earned surplus of $2,296,581 and paid-in surplus of $7,482,773. Subsequently, the SEC said, the corporation filed corrective amendments showing an earned surplus deficit of $52,641,439 and a paid-in surplus balance of $35,990,444.

"Thus," the SEC said, "there actually existed an impairment which was obscured by failing to record the loss involved in the agreement with the railway."

Subjects Under Question.

The commission declared that the questions concerned in the investigation "related to the application of accounting principles and the accountants, Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery, who certified all the financial statements filed with the commission."

Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery issued the following statement about the commission's report:

"The report of the commission, in our opinion, does not contain any material information not furnished in the corporation's reports to its stockholders or in the reports originally filed with the commission.

"The corporation subsequently filed amended statements in a form prescribed by the commission. It was and is our opinion, however, that the reports in their original form, which bore our certificate, fairly presented the facts and constituted full disclosure thereof."

NAME TRUSTEES TO REVAMP VAST UTILITY SYSTEM

2 Have Been Active in New Deal Affairs.

New York, March 1 (AP).—Two men who have had a hand in Washington affairs in recent years today were named among a trio of trustees for the reorganization of the vast Associated Gas & Electric system.

Denis J. Driscoll.

Ending a battle over selection of trustees to direct revamping of the billion dollar utility holding structure, Federal Judge Vincent Leibell appointed the following:

Denis J. Driscoll of St. Mary's Pa., chairman of the Pennsylvania public utility commission and former congressman credited in utility circles with having had an important part in the passage of the 1935 federal utility holding company act.

Willard L. Thorp, New York economist and special adviser to Secretary of Commerce Hopkins. He is known to many as a conservative New Dealer.

Walter H. Pollak, attorney of New York, who has served as referee in litigation over New York City traction properties.

Assignments Are Made.

Driscoll and Thorp were assigned to Associated Gas & Electric corporation, rated the more important of the two top units of the complex structure.

Pollak was assigned to the Associated Gas & Electric company, top-ranking holding concern in the pyramid of properties built up by Howard C. Hopson.

Announcement of the trustees was a surprise to most utility men. They saw a minor storm kicked up in Washington over proposals to have the Securities and Exchange commission handle the job, or to turn it over to John W. Hanes, Wall street broker who became a member of the commission and then undersecretary of the treasury.

Judge Leibell said the SEC had approved the selections.

Some power executives recalled Driscoll exposed falsely signed telegrams sent to influence the congressional vote when Associated Gas' creator, Hopson, strenuously fought the holding company act and its so-called "death sentence," providing for simplification of power systems.

Regarded Strategic Move.

Exposure of the telegrams was considered a strategic move in the final vote on the bill. Later Driscoll was defeated for reelection as congressman from the St. Mary's district and then was named to the utility commission in Pennsylvania.

Thorp, formerly director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, is in charge of research for Dun & Bradstreet, mercantile agency.

The trio will have direct charge of rearrangement of the financial structure covering properties serving 6,200 communities in many states.

New Deal chiefs interested in the administration of the holding company law were reported in favor of men who did not carry the Wall street label and were without ties to utility financial interests.

Associated Gas went into the courts for reorganization after the securities commission stopped the income flow to the top units.

Electric Bond Plan Studied.

Washington, D. C., March 1 [Special].—Much interest was displayed in utility circles here today over the plan of the Electric Bond and Share company for compliance with provisions of the public utility holding company act of 1935.

Providing for division of the billion dollar system into three groups of geographically integrated properties, the proposal originally was laid before the Securities and Exchange commission late in 1938 when Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, then SEC chairman, asked holding companies to submit informal proposals.

What interested observers most was the proposal to connect the regionally integrated properties with a $20,000,000 transmission line. Almost as much interest was shown in the emphasis the company placed upon the need for coöperation between the government and private utility interests if the public is to obtain maximum use of the government's own power resources.

Hookup Declared Need.

Federal power experts have emphasized the need, particularly in connection with emergency organization of industry for war purposes, for nation-wide power interconnections to provide at all times a liquid reserve of power which may be circuited into any region having unusual industrial loads.

Rumors persist that President Roosevelt's national power policy committee, which maintains a studied silence, has plans for a federally owned system of transcontinental power lines. The committee recently has been conferring with utility officials on the extent of their companies' capacity and interconnections.

Eastern Air Lines Reports Big February Traffic Gain

New York, March 1 [Special].—An estimated total of 22,600 revenue passengers was carried by Eastern Air Lines last month, an increase of 60 per cent over a year ago, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president, announced today.

Middle West Told to Unify Its Structure

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission instituted integration proceedings today against Middle West corporation, eighth largest public utility holding company system in the United States.

The SEC's action consisted of serving notice on Middle West that its holdings comprised more than one intregrated system as defined by the holding company act. The company, built up by the late Samuel Insull, was asked to reply by April 9.

Public hearing was set tentatively for April 29. The commission took similar action Wednesday against two other large systems, Electric Bond and Share company and Engineers Public Service company. The same action is to be taken soon against six others among the nation's large utility holding company systems.

Middle West has about $600,000,000 of assets. It sells electricity in 16 states and gas in 12 states.

SMITH ON WAY HOME.

Purcell L. Smith, Middle West president, could not be reached last night for comment on the SEC's action. He was on the way to Chicago from New York.

The Middle West corporation was formed in November, 1935, as successor to the bankrupt Middle West Utilities company. Key company in the Insull utility pyramid, Middle West Utilities was placed in receivership in April, 1932. The original company was formed in 1912.

Electric, gas, and other utility services are provided by Middle West corporation in about 2,300 communities, principally in the north central, middle west, and southwestern parts of the United States. The communities have a combined population of about 3,000,000.

Major Units Named.

Major intermediate holding companies in the Middle West system are Central and South West Utilities, North West Utilities, American Public Service, United Public Service, and Middle West Utilities of Canada.

Headquarters of the Middle West corporation, located in Chicago until April, 1938, are now at Wilmington, Del. The corporation is chartered in Delaware. Like the 916 million dollar Standard Gas and Electric corporation, Middle West moved its principal offices from Chicago because of tax burdens on foreign corporations.

RAILROAD'S BIG IMPROVEMENT PLAN APPROVED

The 1940 improvement budget of the Milwaukee road, totaling more than $8,000,000, was approved yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, H. A. Scandrett, trustee, announced. The $8,000,000 is in addition to the ordinary expenditure for operating and maintaining the 11,000 mile property which last year totaled more than $85,000,000 including $8,297,000 for taxes of all kinds.

The budget provides for the expenditure of $1,600,000 for rail, track fastening, and ballast, including the laying of 27,800 tons of new rail. Home building last month was slightly less than February of last year but larger than during January of this year.

ROOSEVELT FIRM ACTS AS BROKER IN KEESHIN DEAL FOR INSURANCE

Hartford, Conn., March 1 [Special].—Three Hartford life insurance companies, it was learned today, have been asked to participate in an underwriting group to handle $200,000 of life insurance on John L. Keeshin, president of Keeshin Freight Lines, Inc., of Chicago. The brokers handling the business are Roosevelt & Sargent of Boston, Alexander & Alexander of New York, and a third unnamed firm.

Alexander & Alexander has acted in the past as Keeshin's insurance broker. How Roosevelt & Sargent was brought into the deal was not disclosed. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, was a director of the firm before he entered the motion picture industry on the west coast. He is now represented on the board of the insurance firm by his mother.

STATEMENT BY KEESHIN.

John L. Keeshin said here yesterday that he has not discussed insurance matters with James Roosevelt, with whom he is personally acquainted.

"All my business is handled by Alexander & Alexander and they will continue to handle it," he said.

RCA REPORTS GAINS IN RADIO AND TELEVISION

Reveal Development in Projection.

New York, March 1 (AP).—There are about 45,000,000 radio receiving sets in American homes and automobiles, by far the largest number on record and larger than the total for all the rest of the world combined.

J. G. Harbord tells company gains.

This was disclosed today in the annual report of the Radio Corporation of America, which also stated that technological developments hold out the hope that large screen television projection soon will be achieved.

The corporation reported for 1939 net profit of $8,082,811, equal to 35 cents a common share after provision for preferred dividends. This compared with $7,412,072, or 30 cents a common share, in 1938.

Gross Income $110,494,398.

Consolidated gross income of all the companies in the RCA group totaled $110,494,398, an increase of $10,526,288, and was derived from the following sources:

Manufacturing, $56,065,201; broadcasting, $40,707,032; communications, $8,731,502, and all other sources, $4,990,663.

James G. Harbord, chairman, said in his letter to stockholders:

"The progress made by the corporation cannot be measured alone by increases in its income and profits. There must also be taken into account the strengthened position of the corporation in the industry, the increase in the number of workers it employs, and the constant technical advances it is making in research and pioneering to improve existing services."

The report showed the monthly average number of employés of RCA and its companies in 1939 was 20,716, compared with 18,046 in 1938. At the year-end the total was 22,913, against 19,177 a year earlier.

New Development Reported.

The report said a new television development "now technically ready for public service" was "improved projection of large screen television images of a size and clarity suitable for theater presentation."

"Large screen television will permit the showing of current events and other programs to large audiences," the report said.

The company said its recently announced system of relays designed to offset the distance limitations of ultrashort waves "offers a practical means of distributing television programs to theaters, whether in a single locality or in the several cities of a television network."

WHEAT TUMBLES 2½ CENTS; CROP PROSPECTS RISE

Reports indicating that there has been an improvement in the outlook for the winter wheat in the west and southwest as compared with the all time record poor condition which existed on Dec. 1 resulted in prices declining more than 2 cents a bushel yesterday.

Prices on the Chicago Board of Trade dropped to the lowest level in about two weeks, with the new crop months selling below 99 cents. Closing trades were at the bottom with losses of 2¼ to 2⅛ cents, May leading.

Corn and other grains followed wheat, with corn closing at a loss of ⅛ cent.

In 1937, Mayer topped all salary earners in the nation with $1,161,753. In the treasury list for 1938, published last January, his name was missing. MILLION DOLLAR RECONSTRUCTION JOB PROCEEDS

Loop Building Exterior Half Completed.

La Salle street's first major building operation since the completion of the Field building in 1934—the million dollar reconstruction of the 13 story building at 29 South La Salle street—is nearly half completed so far as the exterior is concerned. All of the exterior walls are being replaced with stone in a modern design by Holabird & Root, architects. The interior also is to be extensively rebuilt.

The structure, built 39 years ago from plans by Mundie & Jensen, was owned and occupied for years by the National Life Insurance company. The Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States bought the property last November for $1,275,000 cash, one of the loop's biggest real estate deals. Arthur Rubloff & Co. was broker.

The Equitable will use approximately six floors in the rebuilt structure. On the first floor a policy holders' service department will be installed. All of the second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth floors, and part of the seventh will be occupied by the insurance company.

The Chicago Bar association leased the 12th and 13th floors in October, 1936, for 20 years.

According to V. O. McClurg, structural engineer of Holabird & Root, with the exception of two small spots of rust near the roof and on one piece of steel at the 10th floor, all of the structural steel in the exterior walls was found to be in excellent condition.

ILLINOIS ORDERS LIQUOR DEALERS TO LIST SALES

A step designed to halt the illegal sale of Illinois liquor in surrounding states was taken yesterday at a conference of representatives from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Iowa.

Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, told the delegates that hereafter the commission would require Illinois liquor distributors to make monthly reports of all sales, listing dates, amounts and consignees.

In that way, he told a meeting called by the Illinois commission on intergovernmental coöperation and the council of state governments, the liquor commission could determine where all liquor was being shipped and the various states could check the consignees to see whether they were licensed buyers.

Delegates had complained that because of the Illinois tax on liquor is lower than in most middle western states many dealers buy liquor in Illinois and resell it in their home states. Some of the dealers, they said, do not have licenses in their own states.

COURT ENJOINS TRUCK ACT FOR OPERATOR GROUP

Springfield, Ill., March 1 (AP).—State officials were enjoined today from enforcing the new Illinois truck act against a small group of operators attacking validity of the law.

The temporary injunction order, signed by Judge Victor Hemphill in Sangamon county Circuit court, applied only to Lon E. Martin and Harry Miller of Taylorville; Sidney J. Williams of the Ready Trucking company, Chicago, and the Certified Motor Carriers, an association of truckers.

Assistant Attorney General John B. Harris explained the limited restraining order would not prevent the state from proceeding to enforce the regulatory law against other truckers in the state. Attorneys for the plaintiffs said, however, other individual truckers or associations might now join in the litigation.

The plaintiffs contended the law was unconstitutional and discriminatory.

February receipts amounted to 83 per cent of the January total. Most of the decrease from January was in hogs. The hog total fell from 629,370 head in January to 492,992 in February.

NORTH PACIFIC MEETING TO BE HELD IN ST. PAUL

Stockholders of the Northern Pacific railroad for the first time in the road's history will hold their annual meeting in St. Paul, it was disclosed yesterday in notices that the meeting will be held April 9. Meetings hitherto have been held in New York, altho the headquarters of the road is in St. Paul.

C. E. Denney, president, commenting on the change, said that the Northern Pacific is a northwest property and its chief interest lies in the territory it serves. It seems fitting that the meeting of the stockholders, many of whom live in the northwest, should be held in St. Paul, he added.

The action of the Northern Pacific is in line with the policy long advocated by THE TRIBUNE on having the direction and control of an enterprise centered in the area which it serves. One of the objectives of the interests supporting this policy has been the elimination of absentee control.

Omaha, Neb., March 1 (AP).—Thomas Fortune Ryan III., president of Mid-Continent Air Lines, announced today that by April 15 the company expects to replace its 10 passenger planes operating thru Omaha with 14 passenger ships.

Big Utility Tax Case Continued Until April 24

Superior Judge John J. Lupe yesterday continued until April 24 the second phase of tax litigation brought by the Standard Gas and Electric company against the county assessor. On the outcome of the case, officials of the big utility holding enterprise have indicated, may hinge return of the corporation's headquarters to Chicago.

In the present case, which is an amended complaint dealing with the company's 1938 personal property taxes, the company contends that its intangibles, or securities, were over assessed by at least 10 million dollars. It holds that the court has no right to fix a tax and that the assessment should be returned to the assessor's office.

Dismissed Injunction Plea.

A ruling by Judge Lupe last Sept. 6 dismissed the company's plea for an injunction preventing the collection of $875,000 in 1937 taxes and $618,000 for 1938. The court ruled that the company had maintained a commercial residence in Chicago, and that its intangibles were taxable in Illinois. However, the ruling allowed further hearings on a plea that the assessments from which the taxes were derived was excessive.

The continuance was ordered yesterday because Paul Drymalski, a member of the county board of tax appeals who is needed as a witness, is out of the city.

Attorney Michael J. Ahern who represents the company, called Emmett Whealan, another member of the board, to the stand in hearings earlier this week. He testified then that the company's securities assessment was set at $18,331,130, but was later sent back by the board to the assessor's office with a portfolio of the company's holdings.

Clerical Error Blamed.

The assessor reported a revised assessed valuation of $8,950,098, using the market value, where available, in evaluating the securities. However, in the final assessment by the board the $18,331,130 figure was used, apparently thru a clerical error.

The company blamed the tax levy last April when it moved its headquarters from Chicago to New York. The court ruled in the original hearing that amendments to Illinois personal tax legislation enacted later do not apply to the current litigation.

PACT WITH C. I. O. ENDS THREAT OF TRACTOR STRIKE

A strike threat at the tractor works of the International Harvester company was removed yesterday by a settlement of differences between the company and local 101 of the United Farm Equipment Workers' union, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

A joint statement was issued after union and company representatives met in the Hotel Sherman. The company agreed to an arrangement concerning piece work prices whereby, it was estimated, more than 3,000 employés who work regularly on a piece work basis may increase their earnings.

The union agreed to drop consideration of a strike at the plant and to coöperate in the new program. A further discussion of extra compensation and other factors was promised by the company.

STORES' SALES IN CHICAGO AREA ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district during the week ended Feb. 24 were 9.8 per cent larger than in the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. In the four weeks ended on the same date trade climbed 11.1 per cent over a year ago.

Chicago department stores sales were slightly below the district average, registering a gain of 8.2 per cent. Sales in Indianapolis advanced 26.8 per cent; in Detroit, 16.6 per cent, and in Milwaukee, 3 per cent.

Sales thruout the nation rose 5 per cent above those of the corresponding week last year, the federal reserve board estimated. Cleveland led all other reserve districts with a gain of 17 per cent. Trade in New York was up 1 per cent. The Boston, Kansas City, and San Francisco districts reported declines.

EMPLOYES OF LARGE DEPARTMENT STORE REJECT UNIONIZATION

New York, March 1 [Special].—In an election regarded as holding deep significance thruout the merchandising world, the employés of L. Bamberger & Co. of Newark, N. J., the fourth largest department store in the country, overwhelmingly voted against unionization at a special election. The vote, made public today, showed 2,098 employés opposed unionization and 860 favored it.

The workers were called to vote whether they wished to be represented by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. For months the representatives of the union have been distributing brochures and pamphlets to the employés expounding the benefits of unionism.

The union requested that the election be held and the store management coöperated. Together, the union and store officials drafted an impartial board of three Newark clergymen representing three faiths, who conducted it without assistance.

Under the terms of the election the union agreed not to request another election for another 12 months. There is no company union.

Directors of General Electric boosted by 10 cents the 25 cent dividend rate prevailing in preceding quarters. They authorized a dividend of 35 cents a share on the common stock payable April 25. Besides 25 cent payments last year, the company also paid 65 cents on the issue last Dec 20.

Gardner-Denver company, Quincy, Ill., maker of rock drills, compressors, and other equipment used in the oil, mining, and construction industries, issued an annual report showing net income of $1,123,558, equal to $1.79 a common share, compared with $590,614, or 84 cents a share, in 1938.

"The increased earnings," said H. G. Myers, president, in his report to stockholders, "resulted from a substantial increase in sales volume and lower unit manufacturing costs, offset, in part, by a decrease in profits thru unfavorable foreign exchange rates."

Hotel's Loss Is Larger.

The Chicago Beach hotel in 1939 was operated at a loss of $97,916, compared with a loss of $82,007 in 1938, Aaron Colnon, president, reported to the holders of the 15 year income bonds and the shareholders of Chicago Beach Hotel, Inc. He said that the hotel business showed no expansion in 1939.

The company had a profit of $28,112 before interest and depreciation, compared with a profit of $40,183 before these charges in 1938. Colnon said that there were sufficient earnings under the terms of the bond indenture defining available net income for the six months ended Dec. 31 to pay 1½ per cent of the income bonds. The payment was made yesterday.

Net earnings of the J. C. Penney company last year amounted to $16,481,215 after all charges including taxes, equal to $6.48 a share of common stock, compared with $13,739,160, or $4.50 a share, in 1938.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, March 1 (AP).—Stocks of utilities, which in the main have not proceeded with integration plans as fast as the government wants them to, slumped today and carried the rest of the market lower. Steels, rails, and aircrafts joined the downward movement leaving only a few scattered industrials and a number of low priced coals on the higher side when the final bell sounded.

Traders moved cautiously thru the early part of the day in the face of slight rises resulting from overnight buying orders. Shortly after noon, however, prices were caught in a definite ebb tide which gained momentum as the session progressed.

Electric Bond and Share company and Engineers Public Service company slipped major fractions. Other utilities closing lower included Consolidated Edison, North American, Electric Power and Light, Public Service, and Brooklyn Union Gas. Sale of a block of 14,000 shares of Commonwealth & Southern lowered the price by ⅛ point to 1.

Among others moving lower were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania railroad, Southern Pacific, Douglas, United Aircraft, Martin, Lockheed, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Anaconda, and Phelps Dodge.

Italian inquiries for American coal to relieve a shortage caused by the war resulted in sharp rises among such coal issues as Elk Horn, Lehigh Valley, and Philadelphia Reading.

Motors held fairly steady on authoritative predictions of the largest first quarter automobile production since 1929.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 1 (AP)—Inactive groups supplied the main props to the bond market today, several advancing 1 to 3 points against a narrow and slightly mixed trend for the main list.

Foreign dollar loans, especially the recently depressed Scandinavian group, continued in fair demand with Norway's three loans leading the pack. Further interest was shown in South American issus, particularly Buenos Aires 4¾s and Uruguay 4s.

United States government issues worked upward as much as 10-32 of a point on the smallest kind of turnover.

Chicago Stocks.

Two issues set new 1940 highs on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but losses exceeded gains in number. Trading continued light.

Three volume leaders, Commonwealth Edison, Kellogg Switchboard, and Great Lakes Dredge, gained fractionally. Middle West, most active issue, lost ¼ point at 8⅜ on sales of 5,400 shares. Armour, Chicago corporation, and Wisconsin Bankshares closed unchanged. Associates Investment, up 1 at 43⅛, and Leath & Co. preferred, up ⅛ at 10⅜, were the issues finishing at new peaks.

A total of 25,000 shares was traded in 102 issues. Of these, 34 declined, 28 advanced, and 40 held steady.

Bank Stocks.

City National and First National shares each advanced a point in bank stock trading yesterday, closing at bids of 111 and 245, respectively. Other issues were steady.

TRADE FREEDOM IS HELD KEY TO GOLD PROBLEM

Nadler Tells Issues War's End Will Raise.

Solution of the gold problem depends upon the economic and political situation at the end of the European war and the willingness of the United States to coöperate in international stabilization, Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York university, said yesterday.

Nadler, who also is research director of the Institute of International Finance, spoke at the meeting of the Executives club at the Hotel Sherman.

Use for gold probably will not exist if European countries are so impoverished that the individual governments control national economies and foreign trade is based on clearing and compensation agreements, he said. Demonetization, which would be the next step, "would kill the gold problem by killing gold," he asserted, and then the United States would be left "holding the bag of metal."

Cites an Alternative.

Chances for return to the gold standard are fairly good, he added as the other alternative, if the nations go back to free enterprise and endeavor to foster international trade. This condition, Nadler said, will depend largely on the readiness of the United States to lend or give back part of the gold that the other countries spent here during the conflict.

The gold problem resulted from the overthrow of democracy, he asserted, and therefore, the course of the United States must not be concerned with the price of gold but with a demonstration of democracy to provide an example for other nations to follow.

He listed as the three factors comprising the gold problem the accumulation of more than $18,000,000,000 of it in this country, the huge increase in gold production, and maldistribution.

Sees Inflation Danger.

"The inflow of gold is primarily responsible for the huge increase in the excess reserve balances and is partly responsible for the rapid rise in the volume of deposits," he said. "On the basis of the excess reserve balances, the member banks can today support an additional volume of deposits of $37,200,000,000. The huge inflow of gold to the United States has created a potential danger of inflation."

An embargo on gold importations would not only be considered an unfriendly act by the allies but would do more damage than good, he said, asserting it would:

1. Deprive gold of its universal acceptability.

2. Leave nothing which could be used by this government or by others to prevent a sharp rise in the international value of the dollar.

3. Destroy the last vestige of stability in the international money market.

BEST FIRST QUARTER SINCE 1929 FORESEEN FOR AUTO INDUSTRY

Automobile production in the first quarter of this year probably will reach a total of 1,300,000 units—the largest number for a first quarter since 1929—Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., said yesterday. The estimate was based on seasonal increases in production schedules in 11 plants during the week.

Production for this week was estimated by Ward's at 100,855 units, compared with 102,670 last week and 78,705 in the corresponding 1939 week. The small decline from last week was attributed to a one week closedown in two plants.

Because of the heavy production at the end of the month, Ward's estimated the February volume at more than 410,000 units—the second largest total for the month on record.

W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager for Buick, told a meeting of the company's field organization at Flint, Mich., yesterday that Buick expects to have "the biggest year in its history."

Since the new models were brought out last fall, he said, 118,392 new cars have been sold, an increase of 41.2 per cent compared with a year earlier and the largest volume ever recorded by Buick for any similar period.

BUTTER SLUMPS TO LOWEST SINCE LAST SEPTEMBER

Heavy Offerings Meet Limited Buying.

Board markers of the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday posted the lowest quotations for 93 and 92 score butter since last September as heavy offerings met limited government buying and lagging trading interest.

The Dairy Products Marketing association, federally financed coöperative, held its purchases of 92 score—A grade in which it reopened buying Wednesday—to 280,224 pounds, ignoring an additional 211,220 pounds offered at the same 28 cent a pound priced paid by the agency Thursday. As a result, closing cash quotations of the grade tumbled another ¼ cent to 27¾ cents a pound, while 93 score was marked down a similar fraction to 28¼ cents.

Futures Also Weak.

Futures quotations mirrored the cash movement with a decline of 0.05 cent a pound in the March contract, bringing it to 27.45 cents, and a drop of 0.1 cent in November deliveries, which closed at 26.8 cents for a new seasonal low.

Purchases by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation in both the Chicago and New York cash egg markets totaled 227,760 dozens, but were insufficient to stem the flow of offerings. Top qualities, extra firsts, and firsts, fell to the lowest prices since September, and current receipts, not bid for by the government so far this season, reached the lowest March level since 1934.

October futures closed at a new seasonal low of 18.6 cents a dozen on dull trading, while other future deliveries were nominally unchanged.

Postpone Directors' Meeting.

Frank P. Collyer, first vice president of the Chicago Mercantile exchange, said the emergency directors' meeting, which was called Wednesday to consider the unexpected action of the DPMA in suddenly reëntering the market, had been postponed.

Meanwhile, Oscar W. Olson, assistant business manager and educational director, announced that February butter and egg futures transactions reached new four and five year highs for the period.

Egg futures trades involved 20,328,000 pounds, he said, and were the largest for any February since 1935. Butter trades totaled 33,753,600 pounds, the heaviest in four years.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The market for hogs weakened after a steady opening yesterday and prices closed mostly 5 to 10 cents lower. Receipts totaled less than on the preceding Friday, and there was little change in the wholesale markets for fresh pork. Buyers carried rather light orders, however, and were in a position to get small concessions.

The day's average moved down 5 cents, to $5.20.

A new eight month peak was established in the market for slaughter lambs when $10.25 was paid by shippers and city butchers.

The scant supply of steers, yearlings, cows, and heifers in the run yesterday met broad demand at stronger prices.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

WATER TO BANKING.

What information do you have about the Bank of the Manhattan company and its recent earnings?—N. M.

Answer: The Bank of the Manhattan company is an outgrowth of a colonial water company which employed its surplus funds to conduct a banking business as a sideline. The Manhattan company was chartered by the New York legislature in 1799 under the corporate title of President and Directors of the Manhattan company.

The original function of the firm was to furnish water to New York City. With surplus funds from its water business, the company later in 1799 opened a banking office, the Bank of the Manhattan company. The bank continued to operate after the company stopped supplying water in 1842.

From 1799 the banking business grew with various mergers until 1929, when the Manhattan company became a holding firm. Three years later, however, the company resumed its earlier status as a bank by the consolidation of its foreign and domestic banking and trust subsidiaries. The bank operates 57 offices in New York City.

Bank of the Manhattan company has outstanding 2 million shares of $10 par capital stock. Estimated net profits, earnings per share and dividends paid per share in recent years follow:

	Net profit	Earned per share	Dividends per share
1935	$3,000,000	$1.50	$1.50
1936	3,000,000	1.50	1.50
1937	3,431,000	1.72	1.50
1938	2,466,000	1.23	1.15
1939	2,135,000	1.07	0.90

A special dividend of 10 cents a share and a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share were paid Jan. 2.

Total assets of the bank in 1939 increased to $667,243,167 from $580,664,624 at the end of 1938. Loans and discounts rose to $162,818,551 from $146,123,958; cash to $290,469,404 from $166,114,871; general deposits to $602,801,787 from $567,609,777 and undivided profits to $6,512,743 from $6,178,211.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

If I paid out from $10 to $100 to each of my employés in my store last Christmas, may I deduct the total in my income tax return?—W. H. R.

Answer: Yes. Christmas presents and bonuses paid to employés as additional compensation may be deducted as business expenses.

REGISTERED.

What does "reg." mean after the name of a bond?—L. L. G.

Answer: "Reg." is an abbreviation for "registered" and indicates that principal and interest will be paid only to the person in whose name the bond is registered with transfer office of the issuing corporation. Such bonds do not have coupons and the interest is mailed directly to the owner.
